

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.

By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.

The spring-like clime Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornados to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.

The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornados, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.

Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.

The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.

"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.

AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.

A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.

TEN INCHES OF snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.

Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.

"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

Village fears fast food chain expanding

by NANCY GOTLER

Rolling Meadows has its Algonquin Road, Palatine has its Northwest Highway, Mount Prospect its Elmhurst Road and some village officials fear Arlington Heights is getting its Rand Road.

All are "franchise rows" cluttered with neon-lit restaurants that are an eyesore and a traffic hazard.

Along one two-mile stretch of Rand Road from Olive Street to Chestnut Avenue there are 12 restaurants and two more are being built.

"There's no question that if things are not controlled we could end up with a very unpleasant stretch of road," Arlington Heights Trustee Alfred Barbora said.

BUT BARBORA and most other officials agree Arlington Heights is armed with sufficiently strong zoning laws to stop unwanted growth.

"If they try to develop in an unincorporated area they need sewer and water lines from us," Trustee Madeline Schroeder said, "and would almost be forced to apply for annexation. Then we could use our laws to control them."

The zoning code requires that restaurants apply for special-use business zoning, giving the board of trustees power to allow the establishment to be built only if it is "desirable or necessary to the public convenience or welfare."

If the board decides there are too many restaurants in one area, "I don't know how the builder could prove having another one is in the best interest of the village," Mrs. Schroeder said.

Most restaurant owners and managers in the area aren't concerned about too much competition, but some worry about their neighbors' quality.

"THERE ARE TOO many hot dog stands and fast food chains already," said Corrado Barsella, owner of Corrado's, 310 W. Rand Rd. "I'm not worried about too much competition, the more restaurants the more people are brought in for all, but I am worried about the kind of restaurants being built."

Leslie Goldsmith, owner of A.K. McKlut's, 150 E. Rand Rd., disagreed. "The fast food operations going up don't compete with us because we have a different kind of restaurant."

"If they over infiltrate the area it could be a problem," he said, "but I think Arlington Heights is very observant about what it lets in and I don't think the village will let that happen."

Don Stroder, owner of Peep's Hot Dogs, 1600 W. Rand Rd., is concerned not about competition, but about traffic congestion.

"We've got to call the police department to report rear end accidents all the time," he said. "As you add to the traffic you'll have problems unless the number of driveways is reduced or the speed limit is reduced."

HE SAID BUSINESS in the area is sufficient to support more restaurants, but that traffic problems would be multiplied.

Other areas, such as Elmhurst Road between Mount Prospect and Des Plaines, have proven that too

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, lumps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways. "This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

Girl seriously hurt by speeding auto

A 13-year-old Arlington Heights girl was seriously injured when she was struck by a car at Golf and Goebbert roads in the village Wednesday afternoon. Police said Maura R. Sweeney, 1611 S. Ridge Ave., was injured after a car driven by Leroy J. Dolce, 39, of 303 Victoria Ln., Arlington Heights, crossed a median strip on Golf Road near Goebbert and hit the girl. Dolce's car struck another auto driven by Karen J. Cascio, 19, of 2726 Briarwood Dr., Arlington Heights before coming to a stop on Goebbert, police said. Firefighters rushed the 13-year-old to Northwest Community Hospital where surgery was performed to check for internal injuries late Wednesday night. Police ticketed Dolce for failure to reduce speed to avoid an accident, and released him.

Man reported critical after crash

A Wednesday morning car crash in Hoffman Estates sent a 52-year-old Carpentersville man to Sherman Hospital, Elgin, where he was reported in critical condition Wednesday night. Emmet Whitten was driving eastbound on Higgins Road at Barrington Road when his auto struck a car driven by John Wolfe, 17, of Elgin at 5:57 a.m. Wednesday. Whitten was thrown 10 feet from his car, which rolled over in a ditch. Wolfe escaped injury.

Subsidized housing plan criticized

Elk Grove Village trustees have voted to oppose federal rent-subsidized housing for low-and moderate-income families because of a lack of adequate medical, dental and recreational facilities in the village. "The federal government looks at everything in a vacuum," Trustee Edward W. Kenna said. "They're subsidizing rent, but who subsidizes the rest of living in the community?" Meeting as a committee of the whole, the village board drafted its objection in a reply to the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development's request for comments regarding the proposed Rohlwing Grove Apartment complex, Devon Road and Ill. Rte. 53. Of 312 planned units, 82 will be available for rent subsidies if the project receives HUD approval. But Village Pres. Charles Zetek is critical of some board members' reasoning. "Why do we have a housing commission putting together plans if we object to subsidized housing?" Zetek asked. "Why subsidize senior citizens? If they moved in it would be OK, but not if someone else does, right?"

Invalid charged with using kids in porno photos

PONTIAC, Ill. (UPI) — George DesVoigne, 50, of Odell, a paraplegic accused of having young girls pose with him for pornographic pictures, has been released on $5,000 bond.

DesVoigne is charged with three counts of indecent liberties with a child after police took statements from three girls, ages 10 to 13. He was arrested Saturday at his home in Odell by Livingston County Sheriff William Frye.

Lt. James Kiely, head of the Chicago police prostitution unit, said the GAF Film Processing Co., Chicago, notified police when it received one of DesVoigne's films to develop.

Chicago police then notified Livingston County Sheriff's police and they got a court order to search DesVoigne's home.

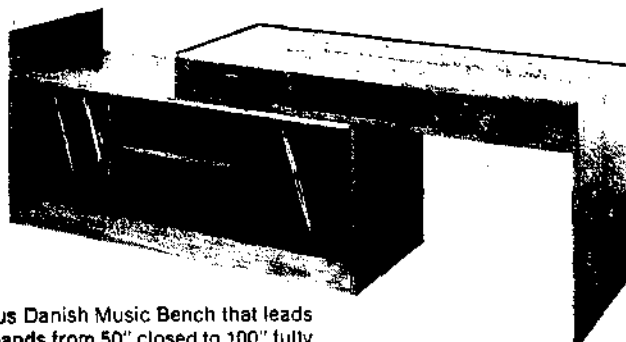

"When we searched his house, where he lives with his retarded brother, we found about 700 hard-core pornographic magazines and many more pictures of him posing with young girls and women," Kiely said.

DesVoigne apparently would drive to Chicago to have his films developed, Kiely said, so that persons in Odell and Pontiac would not recognize him. "He does drive," Kiely said.

Cut bogus jet parts, FAA orders

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Warning of the threat of crashes or fires, the government Wednesday said it has ordered airlines to remove immediately three bogus parts from Boeing 737 jets.

The Federal Aviation Administration said the extra hazard was detected during tests of 23 types of parts for Boeing 727 and 737 jets allegedly made without FAA safety certification by firms using illicit Boeing markings.

FAA officials also said they have found a third company — Air Spares International Inc., of Seattle — suspected of involvement in supplying the bogus parts. The initial two firms named were ADS Supply and Air Repair Inc., both of the Seattle area where Boeing has its headquarters.

Original FAA orders, issued Feb. 11, required airlines to replace 13 of the parts by March 18 and the remaining 10 parts by April 2. But a spokesman said the agency has changed its order to make airlines immediately replace three of the parts or take special precautions to ensure they do not cause trouble.

"IT IS BELIEVED that the (three) parts involved have been installed in a relatively small number of the nation's fleet of approximately 190 Boeing 737 aircraft," the spokesman said. "There have been no reports of the three parts failing or malfunctioning."

One official said there might be as few as 10 sets of the potentially dangerous parts involved, although the FAA has not been able to determine the number precisely.

The new FAA orders apply to a landing gear accessory unit, a fire detection accessory unit and an associated fire control module.

The landing gear unit is designed to pop open the wing spoilers, sharply reducing lift, when a plane touches down on the runway. But the spokesman said tests showed it might open the spoilers in flight if in the automatic position, possibly causing a crash.

The fire protection units are used to spot engine fires and put them out.

Extra relief for women—swap nets them 3 toilets

In Downstate Champaign Wednesday, female University of Illinois law students had a net gain of three toilets, allowing them the additional rest room relief they sought. Students were actually in hopes of a coed restroom that would relieve overcrowding in the school's female facilities. But, the assistant law school dean said "no, no" to that. So, the school's "chivalrous gentlemen" have agreed to swap one of their restrooms for a smaller women's bathroom "resulting in a net gain of three toilets for the women," said JACK RILEY, assistant law school dean. The whole problem has been prompted by an increase from 100 female students 20 years ago to an enrollment of 600 today. Well, score another victory for the contemporary woman!

LARRY STOTTS, suspect in the stabbing murder of a Mount Prospect store clerk Sunday, is led from a Mount Prospect courtroom

Wednesday by Sgt. Warren Fischer where Stotts' bond was set at $300,000. The 19-year-old suspect will undergo a psychiatric examination at Cermak Memorial Hospital, Chicago, and return to Mount Prospect March 9 for a preliminary hearing.

Weapon found in Stott's car

by DANN GIRE

A knife used by murder suspect Larry R. Stotts to carve initials into a restaurant table has been identified by police as the weapon used to stab a Mount Prospect store clerk to death Sunday afternoon.

The knife, about 5 inches long with a suede-covered handle, was recovered by police from Stotts' car parked in front of the K&G Food Mart, 1760 Algonquin Rd., where the body of 27-year-old Nargis Alvi, a clerk, was found in a walk-in storage cooler.

Stotts, 19, of 1701 Dennis Ln., Mount Prospect, is being held by Cook County authorities on $300,000 bond set Wednesday in the Mount Prospect branch court by Associate Circuit Judge John J. Limperis.

Stotts will undergo a psychiatric examination at Cermak Memorial Hospital, Chicago, before appearing in court March 9 for a preliminary hearing.

AT THAT TIME, Stotts' attorney Thomas Hanlon said he may file for a discovery motion and ask for a list of all witnesses against his client or any confessions Stotts may have made.

Monday, Stotts reportedly signed a confession that he had stabbed Mrs. Alvi in the chest with the suede-covered knife. A spokesman for the Cook County Medical Examiner's office Tuesday said Mrs. Alvi's death was caused by two stab wounds in the chest, one of which pierced the heart.

The suede-covered knife was used by Stotts Feb. 12 to carve initials and words in a table at Jake's Pizzeria, 302 W. Northwest Hwy., Mount Prospect, according to his sister, 17-year-old Linda Stotts.

Miss Stotts said she and her brother had gone on a double date to Jake's when Larry used the knife to carve words into the table at which they were sitting.

"He ut the knife in the glove compartment," she said.

Robert Stotts, Larry's 52-year-old father, said, "It's possible my son killed that woman. I say that because anything's possible. But to me, I find it inconceivable that my son could have done something like this. He would have had to be out of his head."

LARRY STOTTS was fired Sunday morning from his job at Bell Finer Fuels, Algonquin and Busse roads, Elk Grove Village, less than three hours before Mrs. Alvi's body was discovered.

An employee at Bell, who asked not to be identified, said Stotts showed up for work at 9 a.m., but was apparently fired and left the station at 10:45 a.m.

Stotts, who had been employed at Bell about three weeks, drove by the station twice before noon, the employee said.

"He (Stotts) wasn't in a good mood when he left. But he didn't look like he was going to kill anyone," the employee said. "He seemed to like his job here. He said several times he liked it here."

THE MANAGER of Bell refused to comment why Stotts was fired and would not be identified.

Mount Prospect Police Chief Ralph J. Doney blasted charges of police harassment made by Stotts' parents as "ridiculous, absurd and pitiful."

"While Larry Stotts has been in our custody, he has been treated very humanely. He has had ample sleep and in no way has been abused physically or mentally by any officer," Doney said.

"His rights as a citizen have been upheld."

Stotts, a former student at the Maryville Academy in Des Plaines and Prospect High School, Mount Prospect, is scheduled to appear in court March 7 on charges of theft involving a Citizens' Band radio.

Senate foes rip Warnke nomination as 'weakness'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul Warnke came under stiff criticism Wednesday before the Senate Armed Services Committee, with Sen. Barry Goldwater saying his appointment as arms control director and negotiator is "brewing a pot of weakness" that could lead to World War III.

Another senator suggested acidly Warnke would be better suited to head the Peace Corps.

Warnke won approval from the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Tuesday, but agreed to face critics on the armed services panel although it has no say on his nomination as disarmament negotiator with the Soviet Union and as head of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency.

WARNKE IS expected to win Senate confirmation.

After Warnke's appearance, Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., said the armed services panel had decided unanimously to call four additional witnesses — two opposing and two favoring Warnke's nomination — to testify Feb. 28.

At the opening session of the hearing, Goldwater, R-Ariz., said the selection of Warnke, a former Pentagon official, reflects a "position of weakness" on foreign affairs by the Carter administration.

"I have a sinking feeling that we are brewing a pot of weakness which is already being recognized by our friends around the world," said Goldwater.

"IF WE PURSUE A course of weakness in this time of testing, we could well find ourselves heading towards World War III."

"I am not concerned about your individual opinions on this weapons system or that weapons system," Goldwater told the nominee.

"What bothers me, and bothers me deeply, is your seemingly total lack of concern with the Russian military buildup and the Soviet acquisition of government after government."

In other words I sense in your attitude, a position that to me has become the dominant obvious position of the Carter administration relative to foreign affairs — namely a position of weakness."

SEN. WILLIAM SCOTT R-Ia. told Warnke, "I just wonder in view of your position whether you couldn't better serve your country as head of the Peace Corps."

Warnke flushed but replied calmly. "That wouldn't be congenial with my background."

"I hate to be blunt," Scott said. "We're concerned with the preservation of our nation and in all consideration I can't support your nomination and intend to speak out against it. You might be the right man in the wrong job. I recommend the Peace Corps."

CIA acting within proper legal limits says Carter

"no comment" policy on the reported CIA payoffs to Jordan's King Hussein and at least 16 other foreign officials during a 30-minute, televised press conference from the Old Executive Office building next to the White House.

HE SAID HE and his Intelligence Oversight Board have reviewed "the more controversial revelations" made in recent news reports, finding some "quite erroneous" and others having "some degree of accuracy."

But, he said, "I have not found anything illegal or improper."

He neither confirmed nor denied any of the reports, nor did he say whether he meant such covert, multi-million-dollar payoffs for intelligence might be considered legal and proper if they did take place.

Later, he seemed to modify his conclusion slightly, saying, "the impropriety or illegality does not exist in any ongoing CIA activity."

CARTER SAID, however, he would take corrective action and tell the American people what had happened if he discovered any "illegal" or "improper" CIA operations in the future. To that end, he said, "I have taken direct personal responsibility for operation of all the intelligence agencies of our government."

Carter said he and Adm. Stansfield Turner, nominated to head the CIA, "will try to be sure . . . that everything we do is not only proper and legal but also compatible with the attitudes of the American people."

He seemed to restrain anger when he went on to lecture the reporters — and the television audience — of the need for some protective secrecy in intelligence matters affecting national security.

"It makes it hard for us to lay a groundwork (for defense of the nation) in time of war if we don't have some degree of secrecy," he said.

ON OTHER SUBJECTS, Carter was asked why the American people should make the conservation sacrifices expected under his forthcoming energy policy when they are suspicious producers have been withholding natural gas from the market even during the winter energy crisis.

He said he would sell the need for sacrifice on the basis of the "benefits" it would bring. But, as to the gas issue, he said, without elaborating.

"It is obvious to all of us that there are some instances where natural gas is withheld from the market. That's understandable. If I was running an oil company I would reserve the right to release or to reserve some supplies of natural gas."

On other international issues, he said he is not trying to pick on the Soviet Union with his repeated statements on the subject of human rights. He said he made similar comments about conditions in South Korea, Cuba and some unidentified South American nations.

"Without taking credit for it," he said, "there's been a substantial move toward concern for human rights throughout the world in a dozen or more countries."

"IN UGANDA, the actions there have disgusted the entire civilized world. Britain is now considering asking the United Nations to go into Uganda to assess the horrible murders that have apparently taken place there."

On defense spending issues, he said he hadn't decided whether to put the controversial, multi-million-dollar B1 into full production or stop it after further experimentation.

"Part of the factor to be considered is the attitude of the Soviet Union," he said. If Moscow provides "some demonstration of commitment to disarmament obviously it would make it less likely that we'd go on with the B1."

He said he still considers his campaign pledge to pare $5 to $7 billion in waste out of the defense budget a goal that can be achieved in the future. He conceded over-all defense spending probably will continue to increase because of inflation and the impossibility of forecasting potential enemy threats.

Carter also commented on these other subjects:

• ENERGY: He said there is a "borrible conglomeration of confusion" in the nation's energy situation. But he expects Congress to give quick approval to a sweeping national energy policy he plans to unveil in an address to a joint session of Congress April 20. Meanwhile, he said, he plans to send Congress legislation creating his proposed federal energy department next week.

• CONGRESS: Despite rumors to the contrary, he said, he is getting along smoothly with Congress and its leaders.

• CUBA: Restoration of normal diplomatic relations with Cuba depend upon "tangible evidence of the reestablishment of basic human rights" there and an indication Cuba will refrain from any further "overseas adventures" such as its military intervention in Angola. He said he is in "indirect" contact with Cuba's leaders through "intermediaries."

GOV. JAMES THOMPSON holds copy of report on the current fiscal situation of the state presented by Richard L. Thomas, right, Chairman of the Illinois Fiscal Commission and President of the First National Bank of Chicago. State Budget Director Robert Mandeville said Illinois has only a "reasonable chance" to retain its AAA bond rating for a $110 million sale planned for next month. Experts are worried the available balance (in the General Revenue Fund) has declined three years in a row.

Illinois briefs

Average state tax refund about $40

The average individual taxpayer receiving a 1976 Illinois income tax refund can expect to get between $40 and $43 four to six weeks after filing a return, the Dept. of Revenue said Wednesday. Reg Ankrum, a spokesman for the department, said about 63 per cent of the 4.5 million Illinois taxpayers who file returns this year will receive a refund. Refunds averaged $39 last year and are averaging $42 to $43 so far this year, Ankrum said. He said the amount will drop slightly the next two months because taxpayers expecting the largest refunds usually file in February.

Safety board to study 'L' crash

The Illinois House Wednesday voted, 84-58, to allow the Illinois Transportation Study Commission to investigate the recent crash of an elevated train in Chicago. Although the national Transportation Safety Board is already investigating, Rep. Benedict Garmisa, D-Chicago, said the state should conduct its own inquiry to see whether new state laws are needed.

Rep. Sam McGrew, D-Galesburg, meantime introduced legislation that would let taxpayers list property taxes as an exemption on their state income tax returns. The measure would cut homeowners' state income tax bills but also would reduce state revenue. A person with an adjusted gross income of $10,000 paying $400 a year in property taxes would cut his state income tax bill by $15 if the bill becomes law.

Air fleet investigation urged

Gov. James R. Thompson said Wednesday he has set aside $1 million for possible purchase of a new state airplane and has appointed a special advisory commission to investigate the operations of the state's air fleet. Thompson said he believes it would be "in the best interests of this administration that we have some clear notion of who was using the fleet and why. He also said concerns have been expressed about the condition of the present planes.

34 rock-throwing students arrested

Chicago police Wednesday arrested 34 Wells High School students during a rock-throwing protest triggered by the transfer of a teacher to another school. One police officer was injured. At least two squad cars and a number of other cars were damaged when a crowd of about 40 students pitched rocks and bottles at passing autos hours after the original protest.

Wells principal Joseph DeLeonard said about 150 of 1,800 students were involved in the protest over the transfer of a "very popular" music teacher, Ross Lombardo, from the school. DeLeonard said the protest began after one of the school's twice-monthly fire drills. After the fire drill, about 150 students stayed outside the school and some of them began throwing rocks and bottles.

Lottery to decide mayoral ballot

A lottery Friday will determine whether Ald. Roman C. Pucinski or acting Mayor Michael A. Bilandic will win the top spot on the April 19 Democratic mayoral primary ballot. City Clerk John C. Marcin will conduct the drawing in his City Hall office at 9 a.m. Nominating petitions for both candidates were filed simultaneously on Feb. 9. Loser of the lottery will receive second listing on the Democratic ballot. The remaining four candidates, former Cook County State's Atty. Edward V. Hanrahan, attorney Ellis Reid, state Sen. Harold Washington, D-Chicago, and Anthony Martin-Trigona, will be listed in the order they filed their petitions.

Playboy theft case gets court date

Arraignment is scheduled for March 1 for a former assistant city comptroller who is charged with the theft of more than $56,000 from the Playboy Co. Michael Douglas Wadlin, 36, suburban Oak Park, was indicted Tuesday by a Cook County grand jury for allegedly making 11 checks totaling $56,382.85 payable to a phony firm named J&M Enterprises while he worked for Playboy. Wadlin allegedly wrote the checks from October of 1973 to March, 1975, and then quit his job in Playboy's marketing subsidiary before company officials discovered the loss, Monaco said.

Sullivan counsel in U.S. case

Attorney Thomas P. Sullivan, recommended to become U.S. attorney for the northern district of Illinois, is defending a man being prosecuted by the U.S. attorney's office. Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., Monday recommended to the U.S. attorney general's office that Sullivan be named to the post now held by Samuel K. Skinner. Such recommendations are usually accepted. Sullivan is representing LaSalle County Circuit Court Judge Thomas R. Clydesdale, 63, charged with three other Oglethorpe men with conspiracy and misapplication of national bank funds. "That's one of a number of cases that I have pending," Sullivan said. "I will be guided by the directions of the Justice Department on what to do."

Lawmakers sent letters pushing villa

by STEVE BROWN
A veteran member of the Illinois General Assembly used a state worker earlier this month to distribute material written on legislative stationery, soliciting other lawmakers to rent his Jamaica villa at a discount price. State Rep. Edward McBroom, R-Kankakee, used a state employed House of Representatives courier to distribute his travel agency's solicitation letters to all members of the

Rep. Edward McBroom

Illinois House. McBroom said he sees nothing improper in the solicitation.

The solicitation notices were inside envelopes bearing his legislative return address and contained letters on legislative stationery. Two brochures advertising the rental of Villa Combo in Montego Bay Jamaica for $565 a week in the peak season and $365 a week during the off season were included.

The prices were substantially below rates offered the public for the West Indies vacation retreat through McBroom's Transseas Travel in Kankakee, he said.

McBROOM TOLD The Herald the state did not pay for the stationery or the envelopes. He said the envelopes were addressed by an employee of his travel service and not a state worker.

"This is the first time since I have been in the legislature I have had anything like this come up," the lawmaker said. McBroom, 52, was first elected to the Illinois House in 1963.

He moved over to the Senate in 1966 and stayed there until 1974. He was defeated by State Sen. Jerome Joyce, a close ally of former Gov. Daniel Walker.

As chairman of the Senate appropriations Committee, McBroom played a role in stopping appropriations for four departments created by Walker. McBroom returned to the Illinois House this year.

Following his Senate defeat, McBroom was offered, but rejected, a Republican Senate staff position. He is part owner of Jeffers, McBroom and Frereichs Inc., a Kankakee auto rental and travel firm.

"I could tell you how many things I've received, not whether they're on state stationery or business stationery or newspaper stock," he said, adding he saw nothing improper in distributing the brochure.

McBROOM compared his solicitation with the annual effort by the Illinois Legislative Correspondent's Assn. selling tickets for a dinner. The profit from the $20 tickets are used to fund college scholarships and other activities conducted by the Springfield reporter's group.

Several legislators, who provided The Herald with the brochure, were privately critical of McBroom's action, but said they would not make any formal complaint to the Illinois House leadership.

Great Lakes base gets Navy cutback

The Navy Wednesday announced a series of base closings — including a Marine Corps barracks at Great Lakes, Ill. — intended to save $15 million.

Officials in Washington said the moves would eliminate 500 civilian jobs and 16 military positions across the nation.

At Great Lakes, a public information specialist said no civilian jobs will be affected by the closing of the Marine Corps barracks that housed a colonel and 155 enlisted men connected with the correctional center at the base.

Operation of the correctional center was taken over by the Navy last Dec. 1.

Navy recruit training at Great Lakes is not affected by the cuts announced Wednesday, the information specialist said.

Police back in class for Spanish

Twenty members of the Arlington Heights Police Dept. will go to school March 7 to learn conversational Spanish, a skill police say is increasingly valuable in the Northwest suburbs.

So many police personnel, from Chief Robert P. Derks to patrolmen and clerks, have volunteered to enroll in the free, in-house course that two 16-week sessions are planned. One will begin March 7, and another is tentatively scheduled for this autumn, Deputy Chief Paul Buckholz said.

Edward Geiss of the Arlington Heights Health Dept. will teach the course, Buckholz said.

THE IDEA of conducting a Spanish-language class for police personnel was conceived when a Spanish-speaking person came to the Arlington Heights police department one day to file a police report, Buckholz said. None of the police could speak Spanish, and the officers had a difficult time taking the report, he said.

The course will cover the basics. "It's not going to be scholastically stressed. It's going to be more conversational," Buckholz said.

The class will meet for 1½ hours a week every Monday and will use government-issue texts used in training.

U.S. Immigration Service personnel, Buckholz said.

At the end of the course, students will be "reasonably conversant" in Spanish, Buckholz said.

Claim hundreds die in Amin's campaign

Sources in the Ugandan capitol said Wednesday "several hundred" members of the Acholi and Langi tribes were executed in Kampala's Makindye barracks as part of Idi Amin's campaign against the two predominantly Christian tribes. Refugees fleeing Uganda said deaths since last week number in the thousands. Earlier Wednesday, Amin said he had foiled a plot by U.S., British or Israeli paratroops to overthrow his regime and that "some people" had died as a result. The United States branded the allegations as "absurd" and issued a blunt statement condemning the "massive violations" of human rights in Uganda.

Rabin elected to head party

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin narrowly defeated Defense Minister Shimon Peres Wednesday and retained the ruling Labor Party's approval to lead it into the May national elections. But Rabin's slender 41-vote margin out of more than 2,800 votes cast left the scandal-marred Labor Party vulnerable at one of the most crucial times since the founding of the Jewish state in 1948. A smiling Rabin and a glum-faced Peres sat on the dais at the party's 1977 convention early Thursday as the chairman read out the results: 1,445 votes for Rabin and 1,404 for Peres. Rabin then stood up before the cheering, chanting crowd and called on the party's leaders to put their divisions aside and unite behind him in a struggle to win the national elections in May.

Propose Rhodesia land buy plan

Prime Minister Ian Smith Wednesday proposed that Rhodesia allow blacks to buy land as part of his plan to forge an "internal" settlement leading to majority black rule. Smith's plans for internal majority rule settlement with so-called moderate Rhodesian blacks was presented as an alternative after the Geneva Conference on Rhodesia collapsed. Black nationalists, the United States and Britain all oppose the plan. Smith made the proposals in an address to Parliament and concern amendments to the Land Tenure Act, which divides Rhodesia roughly equally between its 275,000 whites and 6 million blacks.

Mikva files disclosure bill

U.S. Rep. Abner J. Mikva, D-10th, introduced legislation Wednesday that could require more than 185,000 high level federal workers to file past employment disclosure statements. Mikva said the new bill is aimed at giving the government and public a better idea of who is holding top government jobs. The legislation comes in response to a report from Common Cause, the citizen's lobbying group, which concluded that many top government officials in regulatory agencies come from companies being regulated. The Common Cause study focused on two federal-energy agencies. "Such studies inevitably raise doubt about the impartiality of government agencies," the congressman said. The proposed law would require government employees about the grade of GS-13 to file reports on their employment three years prior to taking their government jobs and for three years after leaving the government. It would not prohibit people from taking government jobs, an aide to Mikva said.

Separatism would hurt: Trudeau

Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau, winding up his get-acquainted visit Wednesday with President Carter, said Quebec separatism would hurt both nations but declared "It's not going to happen." In a news conference ending his three-day visit, Trudeau urged American businessmen to continue their investments in Canada, because to stop would only strengthen the cause of French-Canadian separatism. "If I were an American, I would be extremely strongly in favor of Canadian unity," he said. "From the political point of view of the United States, the break-up of Canada is the worst thing that could happen." But asked about joint Canadian-American defense planning in the event of French Canada pulling out of the Canadian federation, Trudeau answered "I don't believe separation will happen and since it's not going to happen, I haven't any contingency plans."

FDA recalls Easter egg dye

On the first day of Lent, the Food and Drug Administration Wednesday announced an Easter recall — 179,502 packets of Easter egg dye containing the banned food coloring Red No. 2. The recall is being conducted by the distributor, the White Rabbit Dye Co. of St. Louis, in the states of Missouri, Illinois, Iowa, Louisiana, Oklahoma, Indiana and Kansas. The dye was manufactured by H. Kohnstamm Co. Inc., New York. The agency said the packets were distributed in February, March and April of last year, after the FDA banned Red No. 2 because of unanswered safety questions including its role as a possible cause of cancer.

House includes $50 tax rebate in budget change

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Wednesday made room in this year's federal budget for President Carter's $50 tax rebate and jobs plan.

The House approved 239 to 169 a resolution revising budget ceilings for fiscal 1977 to include the first year of Carter's $31 billion proposal. The resolution now goes to conference to iron out minor differences between it and a Senate-passed version.

THE BUDGET resolution that emerges will not enact Carter's package, but it is a necessary step to bring details of his proposal to the House and Senate floors.

As a last minute addition, the House added $215 million to this year's budget ceiling — setting it at $418.9 billion, with a deficit of $70 billion — to permit countercyclical aid to state and local governments to be speeded up.

Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y., who introduced that proposal, said it would create or preserve 60,000 jobs.

Another warning about inflation came earlier from Federal Reserve Chairman Arthur Burns. He told the Joint Economic Committee the budget increases Carter is proposing for next year are raising fears of inflation among businessmen.

BURNS TESTIFIED the day after Carter proposed a $19.4 billion increase in the budget for fiscal 1978, which begins Oct. 1, above what President Ford had recommended.

"I don't want to criticize anyone,"

Campaign fund report must be filed: warning

The Illinois Board of Elections issued a sharp, new warning Wednesday for more than 40 political groups, including seven area organizations, because of their failure to file campaign contribution disclosure reports.

Ronald Michaelson, the board's executive director said the list includes the Wheeling and Schaumburg townships Democratic organizations, the Schaumburg Township Democratic Club; several committees for unsuccessful state senate and state house candidates.

Besides the political organizations, Michaelson said reports, due 60 days after the Nov. 2 election have not been received for Marshall Rothman of Barrington and Michael Smith of Elk Grove Village, two Democrats who lost races for the Illinois Senate and Alvin Marks of Niles, a Democrat who lost an Illinois House race.

MICHAELSON SAID the board will set dates for hearings in the case of those who have not filed the reports. If the groups or candidates do not explain the failure, the board will seek contempt of court citations.

Schaumburg Township Democratic Committeeman John Morrissey said his group's report is completed and ready to be mailed. Donald Norman, the Democratic Committeeman for Wheeling Township, said preparations for the group's annual dinner dance Friday have delayed the report. He said it will be sent to the board next week.

Other area candidates and groups could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Michaelson said in the past, publication of the list of late filers has brought about compliance with the state law.

"We hope this will happen this time, but many of the groups represented losing candidates in the November election and may think they do not need to file the reports," he said.

Michaelson said the board will seek full compliance regardless of whether the candidates involved were winners or losers.

Burns said, "but I'm bound in all honesty to say that the increase in the federal budget is stirring up new fears, new expectations of inflation which to some degree may turn out to be a self-fulfilling prophecy."

HE SAID businessmen who fear more inflation are reluctant to invest in plants and equipment which will increase production.

Burns said government should "make every effort to cut back on federal spending rather than augment it."

He said the country "badly needs an anti-inflation policy," but that at this stage the government should avoid even talking publicly about wage-price controls because this causes the business community to lose confidence.

Groups offer to join schools suit on unit vote

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

A number of community groups and individuals have offered to join in a lawsuit the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education is filing to challenge the constitutionality of allowing only Elk Grove Township residents to vote on establishing a unit school district within Dist. 214 boundaries.

Dist. 214 lawyers said they hope to file the suit Monday in U.S. District Court in Chicago.

The board of the Prospect Heights Improvement Assn. Tuesday voted unanimously to join the suit.

"IT IS HIGHLY unfair that only the people in Dist. 59 get to decide whether our taxes go up or down or whether our kids' education remain as is or drops in quality," Terrence Mongoven, association president, said. "It shouldn't be this way."

To help defray the costs of the lawsuit, the association will distribute a flyer within a week asking Mount Prospect residents to donate $1 per family member to oppose the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district, Mongoven said.

Parent groups from Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Hersey high schools also have offered to join in the Dist. 214 suit as have a number of homeowner groups from Mount Prospect, William Warner, assistant to the superintendent, said.

Solicitation of community organizations and private citizens to join in the suit was encouraged by Dist. 214 lawyers who said that while a judge could dismiss the school district from the suit, he could not dismiss citizens.

The first step in the suit will be to seek a court injunction to delay the unit district referendum set for April 9.

WITH THE STATE legislature considering a bill that would allow all residents of Dist. 214 to vote in the referendum, unit district supporters are optimistic the injunction will be granted.

The unit district proposal would combine Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools with Forest View and Elk Grove high schools, which are in Dist. 214. Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts in the Dist. 214 area.

According to current state law, only residents of Dist. 59 will be eligible to vote in the referendum.

Songs, speeches to mark Estonia independence

by DEBBIE JONAK

I know Toomsalu knew Estonia when it was free before it was swallowed by the western boundaries of the Soviet Union.

In that memory and in hope for the future, he and hundreds of other Estonian immigrants will celebrate their country's Independence Day Saturday with songs and speeches at the Chicago 10000 House, Estonian Lane in Prince View.

They will tell the story of their home land's long years of struggling for independence, its final triumph after World War I, then its crushing defeat after World War II.

THEY WILL WARN against communism. And they will talk about tomorrow.

Every day's working towards it and hoping one day Estonia will be free. Toomsalu said. He escaped Estonia in 1941 when he was 18 years old. He now is an engineer for Underwriters Laboratories and resides in Mount Prospect.

The older generation which won freedom for Toomsalu's generation may not expect to see a free Estonia again in their lifetime. But the wound of their defeat hurt less with the knowledge their descendants will not live up.

This is especially for the older people. Toomsalu said of the Independence Day observance. The older people can look at the younger people still carrying it on which instills hope in them that Estonia will be free.

ESTONIA IS THE northernmost of the Baltic countries situated on the western shores of the Baltic Sea. About 1.2 million persons inhabited 14,000 square miles before World War II.

Toomsalu did not know how many live in the country now because the Soviet Union tried to dilute its population with Russian people.

Estonia has a history of captivity. The Germans were the first successful invaders enslaving the Estonians in the 13th century. Two centuries later, the country was attacked by Russians, Poles and Swedes.

Russia defeated the Swedes in 1710, ruling the land until 1918. In that year the Independent Republic of Estonia was formed.

TOOMSALU WAS born in 1919 and grew up with little worry of the Russian threat. But in 1939, the Soviet Army occupied Estonia followed by Hitler's Wehrmacht and finally, in 1944 by the Soviets.

We didn't believe something like this could happen, Toomsalu said, explaining his generation took freedom for granted.

But his parents' generation did not. Many committed suicide when the Russians invaded, he said. Others were shot, imprisoned or shipped to Siberia.

More than 70,000 Estonians fled the country to Western Europe in 1944. In the late 1940s and early 1950s, 25,000 of those emigrated to the United States.

THEY CANNOT go back even to visit Estonia until it is free.

They consider it a crime that I escaped from them, Toomsalu said.

To assuage their longings for the small village they left behind in the 'Land of the White Midsummer Nights,' 100 area Estonian families gather together on weekends and special occasions at the Estonian House.

Although we associate with our neighbors the best friends and best times we ever have is with our Estonian friends, he said.

A VERY MUSICAL people, they have choral and dance groups and programs at the house. They also have drama productions, bridge parties and Estonian classes.

They consider themselves American citizens now but refuse to forget their background, Toomsalu said. If Estonia were freed, he said he would not return until retirement, unless there was a shortage of engineers.

I have a profession here. I went to school and got a college education here, he said.

But the Estonians will fight for their country by warning the free world against communism, he said.

THEY ALSO WARN their children, while attempting to instill in them Estonian pride and tradition.

"We feel it's very important the younger children know about the old country of their parents," he said. "If Estonia is free sometime, the children will be curious enough to go visit."

Or maybe even stay, using their talents to build up Estonia once more, he added.

A CONSTRUCTION WORKER carries beams of two restaurants being built in the 400-Heights. A Long John Silver's franchise is being constructed across the street from the site of a new Red Lobster Inn, one block of W. Rand Road in Arlington Heights.

many restaurants in a small space causes problems.

"There is a saturation point," said Michael Richardson, Des Plaines director of planning and zoning. "The biggest problems are the number of garish signs and driveways. Every time there's another driveway it's just another potential accident point."

"The restaurant growth happened here because much of the area was unincorporated and because we didn't envision this would happen," Richardson said. "It just grew and went unchecked. Perhaps if we had had better ordinances it would have helped."

Arlington Heights Plan Commission Chairman Leo J. Mueller agreed. Arlington Heights officials have enough clout to stop unwanted growth.

"The village has control over what goes in," he said. "We have been concerned in the past about Rand Road, but we don't want to discourage development. We can't penalize ourselves just because some of our neighbors have made mistakes. I think the village will use good judgment and that growth will be planned and acceptable."

Church, school hit by burglars

Arlington Heights police are seeking burglars who broke into St. Peter Lutheran Church and School, stole tools, burglarized refrigerated meat around a cafeteria kitchen and ransacked office desks, police reported Wednesday.

Police said burglars forced the door-knob of the school, 111 W. Olive St. to gain entry at about 5 a.m. Tuesday. Dollar loss due to theft and vandalism was not reported to police.

The burglars stole tools, opened freezers in the cafeteria kitchen and emptied them of meat, leaving it spread about the kitchen, and went through offices, ransacking desks, police said.

DeGrazia opens consulting firm

Man behind Dan takes break from state politics

by STEVE BROWN

Today, Victor deGrazia sits in his Park Ridge office, looking out over the potholes on Northwest Highway. Regarded by many as the man behind former Gov. Daniel Walker, Victor deGrazia has returned from Springfield, bought a home in Long Grove and is beginning a consulting firm in search of clients.

"I decided I needed to make money. That has always been a noble goal," deGrazia, deputy governor in the Walker administration, said. The suburbs are familiar to the man who has been fighting the "good fight" for independent Democrats for the past two decades on every front, from the wards of Chicago's Hyde Park to the statehouse in Springfield.

He said former Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's death offers new opportunities for the suburbs because there are no political leaders who can exert the same type of control in the Illinois General Assembly like the late mayor did.

"WHO DOES THOMPSON call when he needs the Democrats' votes? In the past when Daley needed to deliver a bloc of votes, he could leapfrog the suburban guys and get the votes Downstate.

"Now there are suburban legislators who could work with Daley, but what does a call from (Acting Mayor) Mike Blandie mean to them," deGrazia said.

DeGrazia said local government officials throughout the state should begin pushing for programs that have direct, automatic funding. He said such a system that gives set percentage payout for programs would end some of the yearly political wrangling over appropriations.

"Look at the way Daley set up the RTA funding with the direct payment. He was a master at that kind of deal," deGrazia added.

WITH HIS FONDNESS for a good political fight deeply rooted in Illinois political legends, deGrazia leaves no doubt that the independent organization developed for Walker will live.

The 48-year-old classical music love said the Illinois Democratic Fund will continue to pump out a newsletter. The first issue was devoted largely to Walker.

While deGrazia would like to see another Walker campaign, he does not seem to be waiting just for that to happen.

"I'll be down in Springfield in a few weeks to get in touch with a few people. Someone reminded me the other day that even if Walker does not run, there is still a Senate race," deGrazia said.

He said the popular vote getter, U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., was not invincible at the polls.

"THE DEMOCRATS are supposed to be worried about 1978, but if Walker runs against Thompson, he will have his hands full. I don't think Percy will want to get near that. A high quality candidate could handle him," he said.

A restless man not unlike a hungry bear waiting to pounce, deGrazia suggests that the state money shortage that developed almost overnight during the final year of Walker administration was one of the administration's major problems.

"I still don't know what happened. Why the Bureau of the Budget reversed itself in the middle of the legislative session, telling us to cut the budget 6 per cent, I'll never know," he added. The subsequent budget cut triggered a storm of protest and a fight between Walker and the legislature.

DeGrazia mimes no words in his analysis of Thompson's first month in office.

"I think he has been lazy. He said the job is harder than he expected. I don't know what he expected," deGrazia said.

"HERE IS A GUY who was a shoe-in and he did not really have anybody

WAITING FOR clients and the next campaign, Victor deGrazia, former Gov. Dan Walker's deputy governor, has formed a consulting firm in Park Ridge. Regarded as one of the shrewdest of Illinois politicians he leaves no doubt he and maybe Walker will be back on the political scene in the future.

picked to serve in the government. There have been comparisons between Carter and Thompson, but Carter, who was involved in a horse race, had people out interviewing people for jobs before the election.

"I think it shows Thompson is ill-prepared for the job," he said.

As he sipped ginger ale from a Mickey Mouse mug, deGrazia said he is prepared to lend his expertise to local governments. And now he waits.

His decision to set up office in the suburbs caused a rumble among some area politicians who wonder privately what he is up to.

Chicago board approves cuts in school budget

by United Press International
The Chicago Board of Education voted unanimously Wednesday to approve Supt. Joseph P. Hannon's proposed $17.7 million budget cuts including a provision to close schools three days early in June.

Immediately after the vote a spokesman for Chicago Teachers Union Pres Robert M. Healey said Healey would recommend a strike by 780 teacher delegates at the union's House of Delegates meeting Thursday.

He said all public school teachers would vote a secret ballot and the results would be known within a week.

Earlier, Healey warned teachers might strike if the board approved the budget cuts with the three-day layoff provision.

HANNON MADE the proposal during a board Budget Committee meeting. The cuts would eliminate the social center program and summer swimming schools, reduce substitute teacher service by $1 million and reduce repair and maintenance by $3 million.

Hannon said if all board staff members were laid off for three days and the last week of school was reorganized so that work could be completed on a Tuesday the board could save $9 million.

Under the proposal, the last day of school would be changed from June 17 to June 14.

But Healey told the committee the board would "break a good faith contract made five months ago" if the 39-week contract were cut by the three days.

He noted union delegates were prepared to meet Thursday for a strike vote and "go out immediately" if the board approves the cutback.

Hannon said he was recommending the cuts to partly offset a deficit.

Police are wary of credit cards used as cash bail

by DAVE IBATA

The Illinois Supreme Court Wednesday announced rules that will force police departments to accept credit cards in lieu of cash bail, and area police chiefs say they are angry they weren't consulted about the issue.

The biggest protests from Northwest suburban chiefs are the court system has kept them ignorant of the proposed change in rules, and is refusing to seek their opinions of the new bail system.

Under the new regulations, motorists who are ticketed for traffic offenses would post bail by using a negotiable, check-like "draft", and use credit cards to vouch for their trustworthiness.

William Madden, deputy director of the administrative office of the Illinois Court system, said the change would give motorists an alternative to going to jail if they fail to meet present bonding procedures.

NEGOTIATIONS ARE under way with major bank card companies on policies of the change. Target date for implementation is April 1 for all of Illinois outside Cook County and July 1 for Cook County, Madden said.

Once the policies are set by Judge Roy Gulley, the new rules would become mandatory procedure for police.

When contacted for reaction on the rules change, police chiefs expressed surprise and annoyance that the courts have failed to inform them or seek their opinions about the change.

"It's difficult to comment on something they (the courts) haven't shared with you," said Chief Jerry Bratcher of the Palatine Police Dept.

"It sounds to me it could create more problems than it's going to solve," Bratcher said.

PRESENT STATE LAW allows motorists to post a driver's license, approved travelers' checks, cash or insurance company or auto club bond cards as bail. No motorist may now post a personal check as bail.

Under the proposed regulations, motorists would write a draft on a major bank card. The draft would resemble a personal check because the credit card company would serve as a banker, guaranteeing the court clerk would receive the bail money.

Police chiefs say they could learn to live with the new system — with conditions.

CHIEF ROBERT P. DERKS of Arlington Heights said, "If it would increase the paperwork, I would be against it. Police officers as well as citizens have enough paper and pencil type things we have to do in everyday life."

Derks added, however, "If it facilitates handling traffic offenses, and if it's an advantage in handling traffic offenses for police and citizens, I think we'd want to look into it."

Derks said he wishes the courts had given police time to see how police agencies in other states worked out their own bail procedures that involve credit cards.

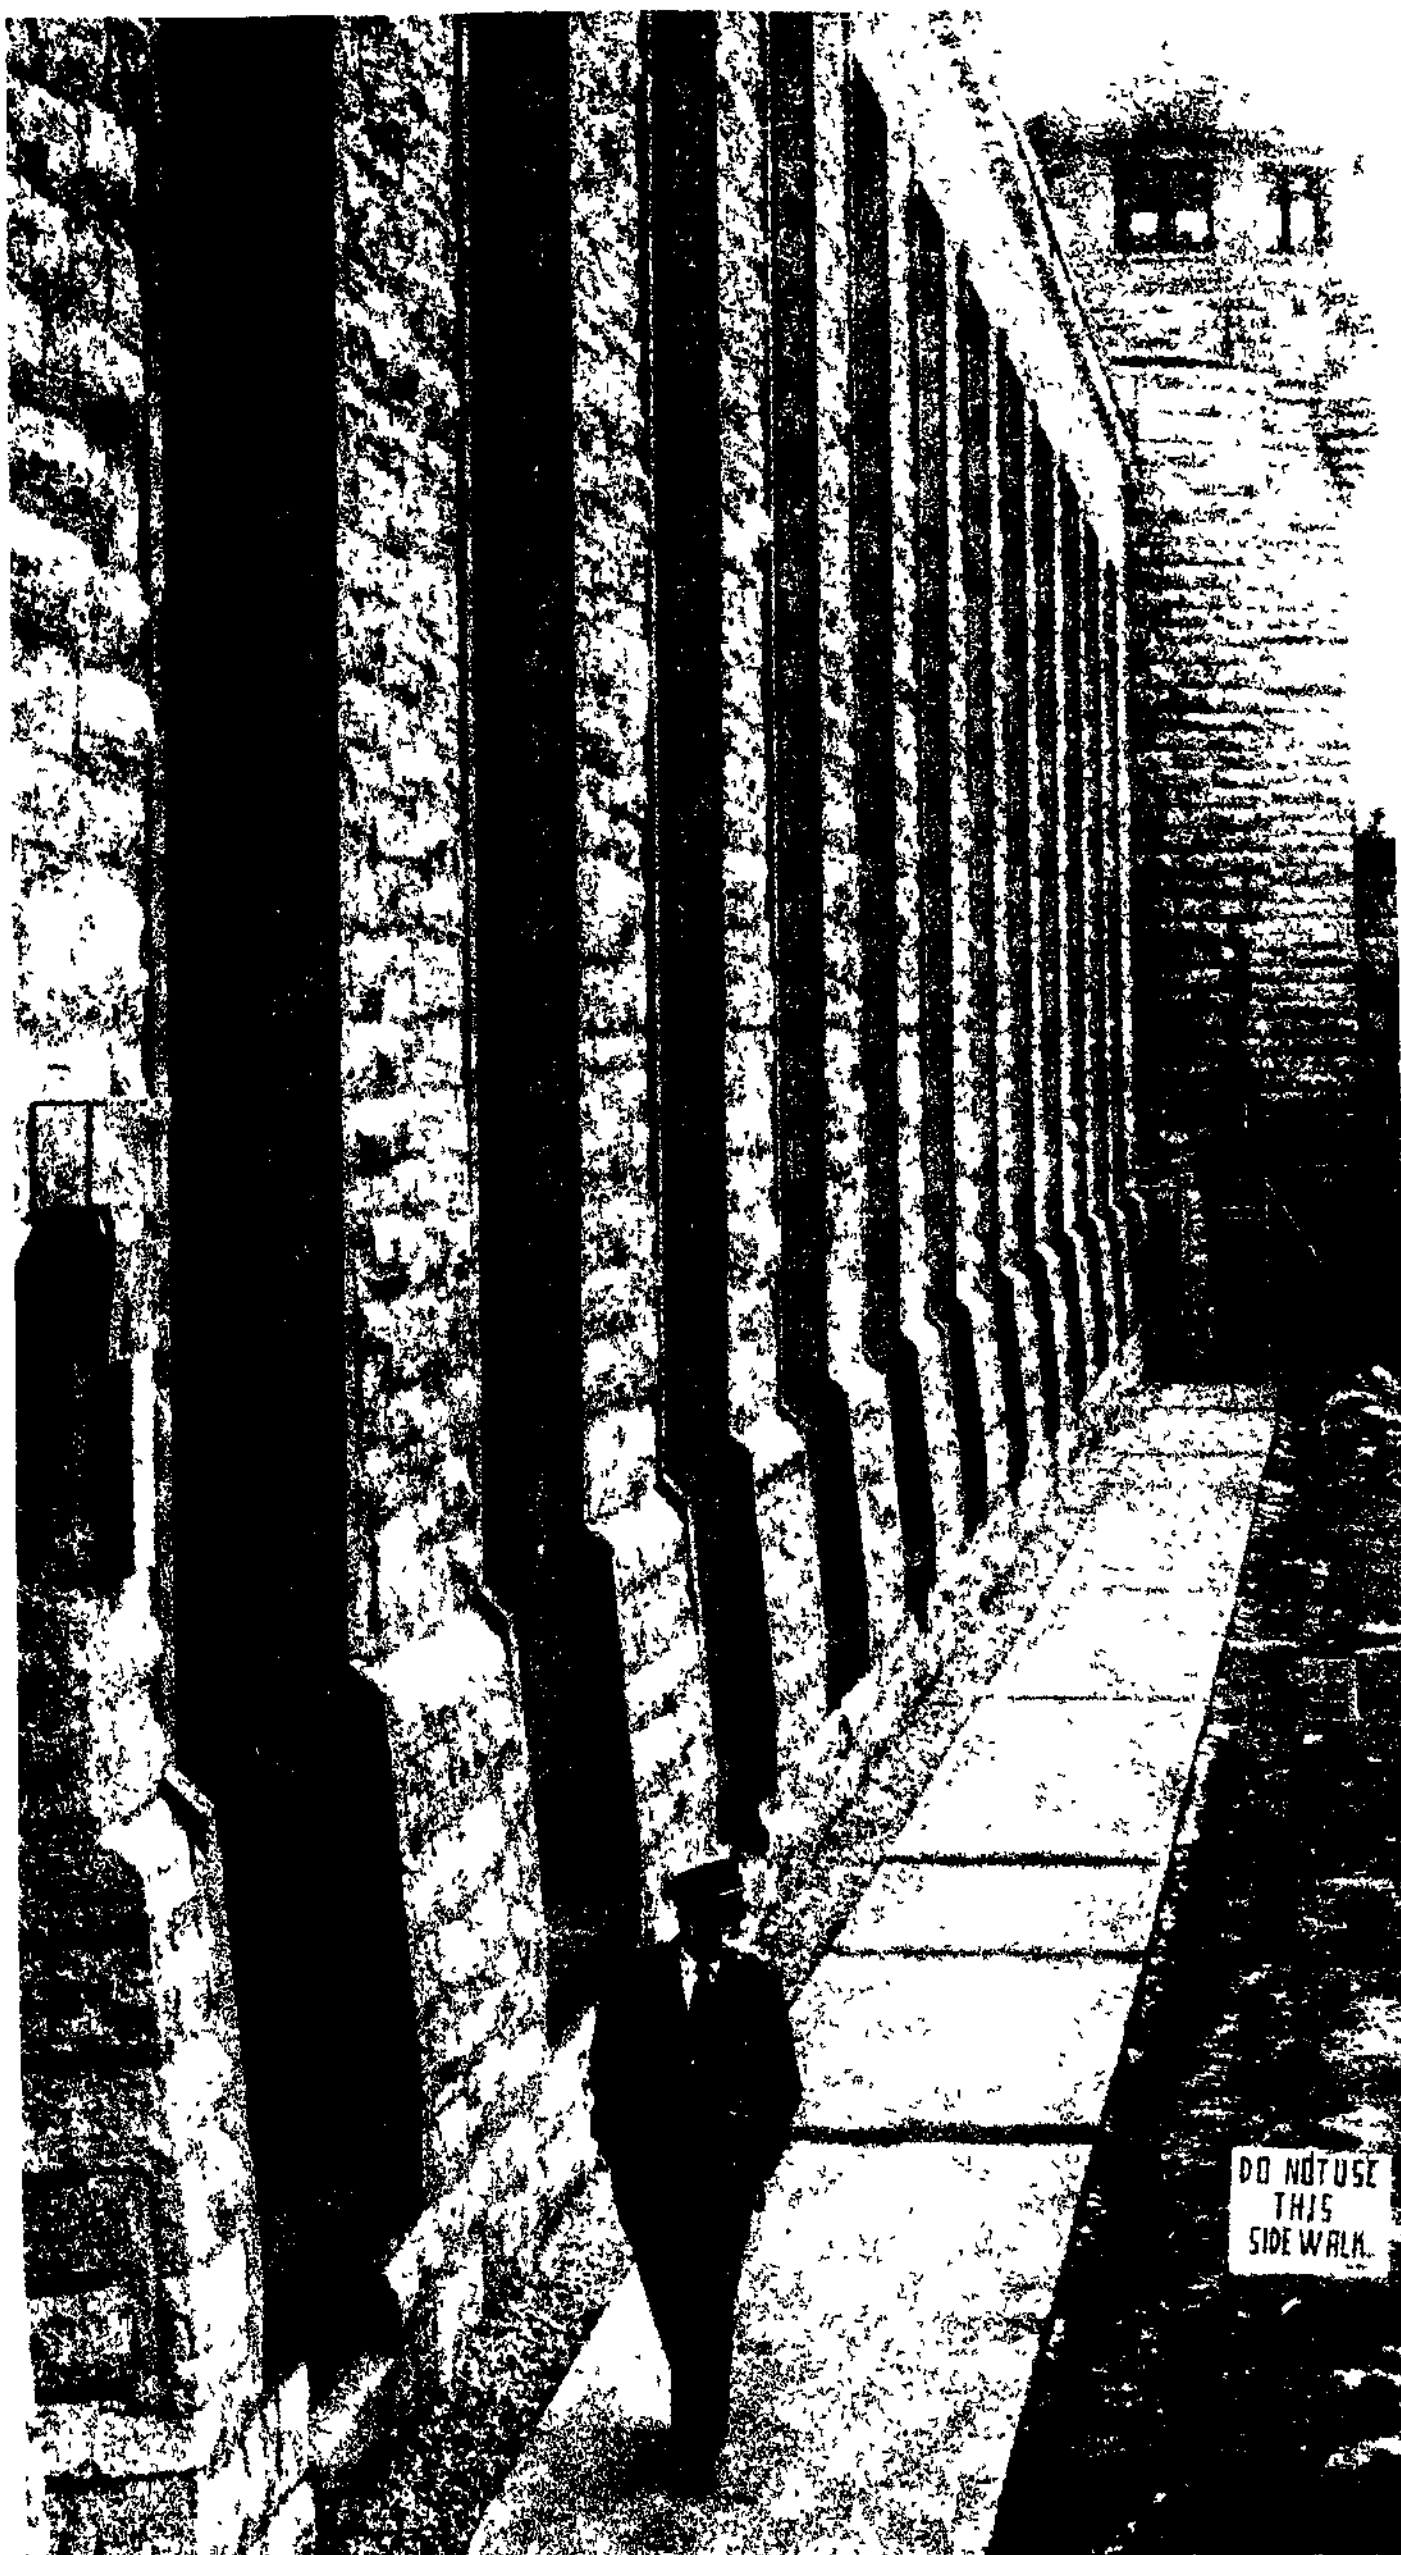

CHIEF RALPH J. DONEY of Mount Prospect also worries about whether the proposal would increase the paperwork of his patrolmen.

One of the policies still under negotiation between the courts and credit card companies involves credit checks — whether a patrolman, given a draft for a bail of more than $50, must run a check with the credit company's computers to see if the motorist's finances are sound.

Doney said if police must go the same route as department stores and run credit checks, delays could cost between a half-hour and 45 minutes.

Chief Martin Conroy of Schaumburg questioned whether the credit card proposal would duplicate benefits offered by insurance companies, which give their clients bail bond cards to be surrendered in lieu of a driver's license.

Conroy said he had "no objection" to the plan, although he said, "If we're going to be putting charge plate machines in squad cars, that's going to be a pain in the neck."

ILLINOIS PRISONS:

The crisis behind bars

Illinois prisons are in crisis, and state officials are predicting severe consequences if more room and more funds for the corrections department are not found.

What has caused the crisis and what must be done to correct it? Herald reporter Toni Ginnett and photographer Dave Tonge spent one month researching the answers — and what they will mean to every Illinois citizen.

EPA has right to control river pollutants: court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Wednesday boosted the environmentalist cause by upholding the government's right to fix specific nationwide tolerance standards for pollutants discharged into rivers.

The case concerned the heart of a 1972 law designed to cut down industrial pollution in stages and eliminate it entirely by 1985.

EIGHT LEADING chemical manufacturers argued that the Environmental Protection Agency's authority was confined to issuing general guidelines and that precise amounts of a pollutant would figure only when an individual company applied for its required permit.

But Justice John Paul Stevens, speaking for an eight-member court, said this approach would require EPA "to give individual consideration to the circumstances of each of the more than 42,000 dischargers who have applied for permits."

Stevens cited the legislative history of 1972 amendments to the Water Pollution Act, the views of the EPA and "scholarly opinions written by some of our finest judges." He said the language of the law clearly authorizes the agency to set precise limits for pollutants for various classes of plants.

Stevens applied his reasoning to 1977 and 1983 limitations. He said EPA has provided for some variances in the 1977 standards.

The opinion rejected the companies' claim that variances are permitted for future plants.

Justice Lewis Powell did not participate.

Senate panel OKs Turner as CIA chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee Wednesday unanimously recommended Adm. Stansfield Turner be confirmed as CIA director.

Sen. Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, committee chairman, said he would recommend full Senate confirmation of Turner on Thursday.

Turner in Tuesday's testimony, had told the committee he would resign as CIA director rather than carry out a presidential order for activities he believed were illegal.

The 53-year-old Turner, former classmate of President Carter at the Naval Academy, will be permitted to keep his naval commission. Inouye said Turner had agreed not to seek either the position of chief of naval operations or chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff if the posts became available during his tenure.

Inouye said, however, this would not preclude the president assigning Turner to such posts.

Turner had pledged, Inouye said, to furnish the committee with information on covert and clandestine operations and had expressed his concern for the need of ensuring that the legal and constitutional rights of Americans be preserved.

GOP report may help Carter keep tax reform vow

While President Jimmy Carter promises "meaningful" tax reform in the next four years, the Republicans who preceded him in the executive branch have quietly bequeathed him a report which may offer the outlines needed to fulfill the pledge.

The report, a 229-page document, was released by Treasury Sec. William Simon just before he turned his office over to Carter appointee Michael Blumenthal. Its title is "Blueprints for Basic Tax Reform."

The report has generated interest from both Republicans and Democrats on the House Ways and Means Committee, which must wrestle with all tax reform efforts.

SIMON COMMISSIONED the report early in 1976 and told his staff to develop alternative tax programs that would be "designed on purpose, based on a clear and consistent set of principles, which everyone in the United States can understand."

What the staff came up with is a report which outlines two alternative proposals either of which could totally replace the present complex system without changing the amount of revenue collected by the federal government.

Byline report

Wandalyn Rice

The two proposals, in essence, are:

- The Comprehensive Income Tax. Under this plan, profits made by a company in which an individual owns stock, earnings on pension funds, interest on state and local bonds, unemployment compensation and social security retirement benefits would be included in personal income. The personal exemption would be raised to $1,000, with an additional $1,600 per tax return. There would be only three tax brackets — 8 per cent for low incomes, 25 per cent for middle incomes and 38 per cent for upper incomes.
- The Cash Flow Tax. Under this proposal, individuals would be able to save or invest money in "qualified accounts" and deduct the money from their income until it was withdrawn. Traditional savings accounts, in addition to such investments as purchase of stocks and bonds, would be tax exempt under the system. Basically, each taxpayer would pay tax on the amount spent — not saved or invested — during the year. An exemption of $800 per person and $1,500 per return would be combined with three rate brackets, 10 per cent, 28 per cent and 40 per cent.

Under both plans, rules for common deductions would be changed and in some cases eliminated. Just 75 per cent of the first $10,000 earned by a second wage-earner in a family would be taxable, providing a substantial break for many working spouses.

In addition, under both systems, the present corporate income tax would be eliminated. Authors of the report argue the present tax is unfair because it taxes corporate profits twice — once when the company records the profit and the second time when the profit is disbursed to shareholders in dividends.

To eliminate this under the comprehensive income tax, all corporate profits would be credited to individual taxpayers to be reported on their returns and therefore would be taxed once. Companies could set up tax prepayment plans for individual taxpayers which would work much like withholding.

UNDER THE CASH flow tax, dividends and corporate profits used for corporate purchases would be taxed but both would be tax free as long as they were saved, thus eliminating the double tax.

Authors of the report explain the cash flow tax, a proposal which sounds strange to most persons accustomed to thinking of an income tax, is actually not far from the present system, which allows tax breaks for some kinds of investments, including capital gains and purchase of real estate.

In addition, the authors point out the cash flow tax provides an equitable way to compare taxpayers over a life-time because it taxes inherited wealth as it is spent, even if the taxpayer has no "income" and is merely withdrawing capital.

The cash flow tax also has the advantage of encouraging persons to plan for the future. "An income tax imposes a heavier burden on the individual who prefers to save for later consumption than on the one who consumes early ... The reason is the double taxation of savings under an income tax. The 'use' of funds for savings is taxed and then the yield from savings is taxed again," the report says.

IF CONGRESS adopted one of the alternative systems, the transition to the new system would have to be planned carefully, according to the report.

The report says, "A complete change in the tax system, if unexpected, would cause losses in asset value to investors in previously tax-favored sectors. Imposition of such losses may be viewed as unfair, especially since past government policy explicitly encouraged investment in those assets."

To cope with the transition problem, the report's authors suggest a combination of phasing in some of the changes and providing "grandfather clauses" for others. The key, they say, is to keep the transition rules simple and to avoid adding unplanned for inequities in the treatment of the changes.

Two Northwest suburban congressmen who serve on the House Ways and Means Committee said the report will serve as a valuable resource for the committee and the Carter administration as they deal with tax reform.

U.S. REP. Abner Mikva, D-10th, said he is particularly attracted to the proposal for the comprehensive income tax. The comprehensive tax, he said, "really provides simplification, a reduction in rates and closes many loopholes."

Mikva said he is less interested in the cash flow tax. "By the time they were finished with adding exemptions, it would look a lot like a national sales tax," he said.

U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane, R-12th, said the cash flow tax is "fascinating." He said, "It's an interesting idea and although I have not thought through all the implications, it has the virtue that the person who lives high on the hog would pay more tax."

Both Mikva and Crane agree that the time for meaningful tax reform is approaching, although neither will predict that the road there will be anything but long. Mikva said, "The problem with piecemeal reform is that you lose some pieces and gain some pieces and end up with a system that is even more complicated than before."

He said the blueprint "is a lead. This moves the cause along substantially."

Crane says the report should provide a tool for the new administration in dealing with tax reform. He said, "As the tax laws grow more complicated, there will be a growing protest, but you'll have to have the total commitment by the new administration before (reform) happens."

The way we see it

Foreign policy morality lauded

Pres. Jimmy Carter has been providing answers during his first month in office for the skeptics who believed that his announced moral and religious convictions were nothing more than window dressing.

He has urged government officials to spend time with their families and revived the word "sin" to describe persons who live together outside marriage.

In addition, he has brought a clear sense of morality to the conduct of foreign policy — a sense that is welcome coming after many years of amoral maneuvering in the international sphere.

The focus of Carter's international morality has been in the treatment of Soviet dissidents. He has continued a policy that he outlined during the campaign. In recent weeks the President has spoken out on their behalf and even sent a personal letter of support to well-known Russian physicist Andrei Sakharov.

These actions struck a raw nerve in the Kremlin, prompting the Soviets to send their U.S. ambassador to the state department demanding an apology.

Carter's tone, which was dimmed by the stonewalling over CIA payments to foreign leaders, has held up the image of the campaign that led American voters to put him into office.

Veteran foreign policy analysts may cringe by the bravado of Carter's approach or the frankness of United Nations Ambassador Andrew Young, but if this nation is to show a new direction to the world the morality of the Carter administration can be an important first step.

Government cannot continue to doubletalk the people on either the foreign or domestic front. Carter understands this; now let's see if other government officials both here and abroad can get the message.

Let's see what the Good Book says about loving thy neighbor!

Supreme Court 'hustles' publisher to martyrdom

Who would have thought that the publisher of a magazine as revolting (and well named) as Hustler would be promoted to martyrdom by the United States Supreme Court? Well, almost anybody familiar with the way bad law operates could have hazarded the guess.

Certainly the four-judge minority of the court that opposed its latest definition, or non-definition, of censorship foresaw what would happen when the Supreme Court back in 1975 left the last word on obscenity to local courts. To quote Justice William O. Douglas in dissent, Chief Justice Burger's majority opinion made it possible "to ban any paper or any journal or magazine in some benighted place." Or perhaps even in an enlightened one.

At any rate, the place this week was Cincinnati and the victim one Larry C. Flynt — chief editor, publisher and panderer of Hustler. His sentence: Seven to 25 years in jail and a $10,000 fine for participating in "organized crime," namely the distribution of his magazine. Plus only six months in jail and a $1,000 fine for obscenity.

ONE IS FREE to speculate on which is more obscene, Hustler or the treatment of its publisher. I would vote for the latter. Larry Flynt's product, however revolting, still leaves the citizen a measure of free choice about whether to share Mr. Flynt's taste or the lack of it.

This kind of censorship (and persecution) almost always begins with those on the fringes of respectability. Only after they have been quieted do the authorities move on to the more conventionally nonconformist. What began with Hustler can end with the Saturday Review. Not that Hustler does not have rights of its own. The Holmesian dictum that freedom is nothing if not freedom for the thought we hate surely applies, in Hustler's case, to the thought we loathe.

If it hadn't been Cincinnati, it probably would have been someplace else that demonstrated the danger of his decree. The essential fault may lie not with those who take up the invitation to persecute but with those who extend it, in this case the narrow majority of the Supreme Court that left the definition of obscenity to the average person and the average community, those mythical constructs. The result is that one court in Cincinnati or anyplace else can now throw the publisher of a national magazine into jail and his publication schedule into chaos.

As Justice William J. Brennan (still the most underrated member of the court) commented at the time of the decision, at last the Supreme Court of the United States has made it not merely debatable but impossible to determine by law what is and what is not permissible under the First Amendment. That decision has been left to Cincinnati, or Grinder's Switch, or any other place in the country with a yen for censorship.

THE 1973 DECISION is a monument to the Jurisprudence of the Burger Court in all its absence of glory. The Chief Justice laid down some guidelines (that's a mod term for the absence of clear guidance) for judging obscenity, including "the interest of the public and the quality of life and the total community environment, the tone of commerce in the great city centers, and possibly the public safety itself." Not to mention the general state of the cosmos, which is about all Chief Burger left out.

This kind of language in the law is bound to attract censorship, confusion, jail terms and headlines. It exhibits all the hallmarks of judicial mediocrity: Contrived language and limited horizons, vague generalities presented as clear distinctions, a pervasive inability to recognize the obvious (like the difference between an act performed on the street and one in a night club) and most of all a wordy air of self-satisfaction at having thoroughly confused the issue.

Once upon a time this country did have a test of obscenity, not that it was an ideal one. Namely, is this material utterly without redeeming social value? Now it has none and that means trouble not just for Mr. Flynt but for free expression. Three of the dissenters in this case — William J. Brennan, Potter Stewart and Thurgood Marshall — pointed a way out of the dilemma between necessary censorship and freedom of expression. They suggested protecting the minor and the unwary from pornography while leaving consenting adults alone. Perhaps the Flynt case will renew interest in taking that sensible tack.

A fourth justice, William O. Douglas, went to his usual length (too far) by claiming that he had never been "trapped into seeing or reading something that would offend me." It is not clear whether he ever saw a copy of Hustler, but in any case that dictum makes Justice Douglas a most unusual reader. There was enough to offend in this decision of the court itself.

But at least Mr. Justice Douglas's absolute opposition to censorship was clear, which is more than could be said of the majority opinion. That opinion now has led to the foreseen embarrassment and doubtless will lead to more unless reconsidered. Mr. Justice Douglas has retired from the bench, but one hopes the farce in Cincinnati may be enough to capture the conscience of a majority of the court, and perhaps even arouse its reason.

Salisbury steak super in Dist. 25

In response to your articles on school lunches, I would like to add a few details that were not mentioned, in defense of the rating bestowed upon Arlington Heights Dist. 25.

One day's lunch should not be a deciding factor on any ratings, as in our case no mention was made that the "woody" pears were, in fact, a government commodity, often of excellent quality. As with all canned goods these days, it is difficult to depend on the quality of their contents. In defense of our other area food service directors, I would like to mention the many hours spent at workshops, seminars and continuing education in order to provide the child the best lunch possible, not to mention the rigid rules of sanitation applied to all phases of our food preparation and kitchens.

We certainly need the publicity to let parents and townspeople know about "school lunch" as little enough is said about the dedicated force that puts forth their time to get children fed. Where else can one send a child to get one-third of his daily nutritional requirements for a mere 50 to 60 cents? It's the best buy available these days. Our prices have not increased in the past five years; in fact, milk was reduced by one cent last month. We still offer baked "Trom scratch," cookies, pies, coffee cakes and many more items. Salisbury steak may not be your personal preference, but it is delicious in our district. If your thing is tacos, pizza or toasted cheese, hang in there as we have all of these too!

A bouquet ...

During this past (we hope) severe weather, many people have given of their best, the "paper boys," our faithful mail carrier, the street dept., etc.

I should like to voice my thanks to the water department, the office workers, for their politeness under trying circumstances, the workmen who as promptly as possible, in bitter cold, courteously took care of the frozen water lines. I should underline courteously.

I am appalled that The Herald would have the audacity to publish a feature story about Dr. Foy and his medical practice. It was poor timing to be published prior to his upcoming trial for dispensing drugs unlawfully. Many young people in the Northwest Suburban area have fallen prey to prescribed drugs by Dr. Foy. I question which segment of our society you wish to serve and influence.

Chrysler returns mid-size model LeBaron; Dodge plans new series

A new LeBaron model returns to the Chrysler lineup of mid-size cars, Richard McLaughlin vice president of Chrysler's Automotive Sales Division, announced Wednesday. McLaughlin also announced a new series of Dodge Diplomat autos.

McLaughlin said the new scaled-down Chrysler will be offered in two- and four-door body styles and a "more luxurious" LeBaron Medallion series.

Four-door LeBaron models will have an over-all length of 206.1 inches, more than two feet shorter than the Chrysler New Yorker Brougham. Two-door models will be 204 inches long.

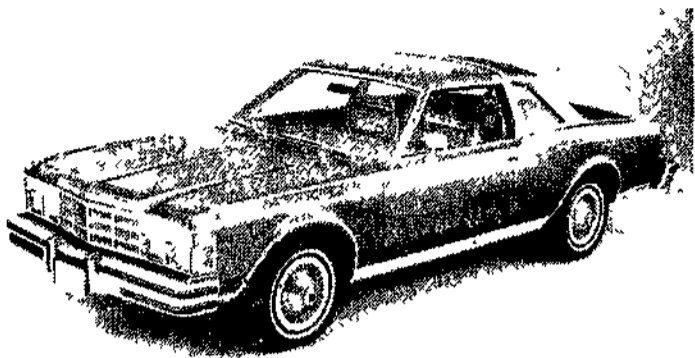

STANDARD EQUIPMENT on the LeBaron includes 318 cubic inch V8 engine, power steering and power front disc brakes. Dual headlights, park and turn lamps and taillamps are all rectangular. Side moldings are optional.

On the Medallion series, body pin stripes with graphic patterns are featured. The Medallion models have opera windows with an eagle insignia and two stripes.

The LeBaron series is equipped with a fully padded roof on four-door models, 15-inch wheels and wheel covers, front and rear rub strips. Additional features on Medallion models include special interior trim and wheel covers, exterior accent strips and remote control left outside rear-view mirror.

McLaughlin also announced the Diplomat, a new line of cars from Dodge. The four-door and two-door models are available in a Highline series and a Medallion series.

McLaughlin said luxury styling, efficient use of interior space and improved fuel economy highlight the Diplomat model cars. The Diplomat grille is flush with the front surfaces to accent the hood form. Dual rectangular headlights and rectangular park and turn lamps are featured.

A NEW MODEL from Chrysler, the LeBaron Medallion is included in a lineup of mid-size cars available in two- and four-door versions.

Padded vinyl roofs are standard on all Diplomat four-door models.

A new glass sun roof is available on both Diplomat models. The smoked glass roof, color coordinated with the car's exterior color, is power operated. A sun shade can be manually positioned.

Freeze chilled Carter economics

NEW YORK — Jimmy Carter, it would appear, is to get only half a honeymoon. The Democratic Congress is beaming and granting him powers it persistently denied to Republican Gerald Ford. And much of the Washington press is not so much covering Carter as smothering him, with a layer of molasses from Plains to Pennsylvania Avenue. But the economy — and the weather — have failed to cooperate.

The question economists and policy makers alike are trying to answer right now is: How much has the severe winter hurt the economy? And how much of that damage is likely to linger even when spring has come?

One broad-based analysis has reached this columnist from Robert J. Eggert, president of Eggert Economic Enterprises, which each month compiles perhaps the most authentic "consensus forecast" available anywhere — a detailed summary of the views of 35 leading banks, major business economic departments and independent research organizations.

Louis Rukeyser

THESE TOP business economists are influential far beyond their numbers, because theirs are the forecasts on which corporate executives and institutional investors base actual dollars and cents decisions each month.

And on one point they already agree: the brutal winter weather will keep the country from making the gains that otherwise were in the cards for the first three months of 1977.

All 35 economists surveyed this month agreed the record cold would have a depressing influence on the first quarter's "real gross national product" — in other words, the total United States output of goods and services, after boiling away the fake increases that just represent higher prices. Indeed, 23 of the 35 were convinced the cruel winter would leave its mark on the entire year's growth.

Here we are in a more arguable area. Some economists are convinced the eventual impact of the bad winter will evaporate. They say its effect will be akin to that of a massive strike production suffers during the strike, but orders keep building up and in the end total sales are strong. By this reckoning, the spring economy will be better than expected because the winter was worse, and for the year as a whole the economy will be pretty much on its predicted course.

BUT ABOUT two-thirds of the economists surveyed by Eggert took the view that the negative impact would not vanish so quickly. On average, they expect the economy to sacrifice about $25 billion in growth it otherwise would have attained in 1977. In percentage terms, this is equivalent to a setback of about 2 per cent in this year's growth.

Despite this relatively gloomy majority view, the consensus prediction for real growth in 1977 is exactly the same as it was a month ago: 5.1 per cent. Other factors were thought to be improving faster than expected — fast enough to offset entirely the new weather setback.

So Carter, on balance, need not be too disheartened by the business economists' revised forecast for 1977 growth, though it still trails nearly a percentage point behind his own optimistic projection of 6 per cent real growth. But their analysis, continues to be less encouraging on unemployment — which they now doubt will average lower than January's 7.3 per cent — and on the inflation front.

All 35 economists concluded the extreme prolonged cold would significantly accelerate price rises in the first quarter. And fully 27 of them thought the impact would be felt all year long, amounting to a further 2 per cent increase in this year's inflation rate.

For a new President who already must contend with an inflation-prone Congress, this was scarcely the happiest of news. Carter's own economic projections had seemed wishful even before the big freeze. His best hope now is that the next 10 months' economic surprises will be distinctly less chilling.

Stocks slip 1.6 in slow trading

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street's fears that inflation will hamper the economy later this year drove prices lower Wednesday for the fourth consecutive session in slow trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, triggered some selling when he told the congressional Joint Economic Committee he was not optimistic inflation will be cut this year. In addition, he said business was suffering from a lack of confidence because of the rising federal budget deficit.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, which slipped 0.33 point Tuesday, lost another 1.66 to 938.25. The blue-chip average has been little changed most of the morning.

The NYSE common stock index lost 0.15 to 54.50 and the average price of a common share decreased 10 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, containing some over-the-counter stocks, slipped 0.30 to 100.10.

Declines overtook advances, 802 to 591, among the 1,870 issues crossing the composite tape.

Texaco official denies gas hoarding

A Texaco vice president says a House subcommittee misses the point if it thinks idle natural gas fields can be turned on easily to get the country through the energy emergency. R. B. Palmer, senior vice president in charge of Texaco's worldwide exploration efforts, Wednesday denied suggestions by the House subcommittee on oversight and investigations that Texaco, waiting for maximum profits, willfully holds back gas it could produce quickly and profitably. The subcommittee invited him to tell his story today.

Tuesday, subcommittee staff investigators contended Texaco and other major oil and gas firms let a "profit-before-gas" philosophy hold sway over the public interest in times of emergency. Dr. John Galloway, director of the subcommittee's energy task force, said Texaco has half a trillion cubic feet of natural gas in the Tiger Shoal and Lighthouse Point natural gas fields in the Gulf of Mexico, that it could produce easily by sinking new wells. A Texas congressman said Wednesday Texaco should be congratulated for vigorous natural gas exploration, not criticized for cutting production to reap higher profits. Rep. James Collins, R-Tex., made the comments in the second day of hearings by the House subcommittee on oversight and investigations.

U.S. orange growers at odds

An Agriculture Dept. estimate that the nation's orange crop this year will be 3 per cent bigger than last year's record would appear to put the lie to claims of devastating losses in Florida caused by January's freeze. But the growers insist the department's estimate has been misinterpreted and point to lower juice yields per case of fruit and the large number of oranges and grapefruits that have fallen from trees since the estimate was made. Florida growers have toned down their early damage estimates — some said up to 40 per cent of the crop would be lost — and the futures market for frozen concentrated orange juice has calmed down. But juice prices are higher now than they were at the height of the freeze. The answer to this apparent contradiction, according to the citrus growers, lies inside the orange: the cold damage has left the current crop of oranges less juicy than usual.

Buffalo Grove takes league honors

by ART MUGALIAN

Rolling Meadows played the Machine Wednesday night and the Machine won.

The Machine is Buffalo Grove's basketball team. It is big and physical, yet it plays with finesse and confidence and style.

You play against the Machine and, odds are, you lose.

THE ROLLING MEADOWS Mustangs lost, 69-55, on their homecourt, but they gave it that old superhuman try — really the only way you can deal with the Machine. But in the end the Machine found the time and the opportunity to grind out the victory.

Buffalo Grove built a 16-point lead early in the second half and rode out the decision for its second straight Mid-Suburban League championship.

"I think defensively Rolling Meadows tried everything in the world against us," said Buffalo Grove coach Paul Grady. "I suppose that was some kind of box-and-one they used at the beginning that was supposed to contain Brian (Allsmiller), and they switched to a couple of different kind of zones before they just gave up."

Allsmiller, the 6-foot-8 redhead with the blue-chip future, led all players with 24 points, 18 of them in the first half, as Buffalo Grove drove methodically to its 20th consecutive win.

Teammates Scott Groot, with 12 points, and Fred Heesch, 10, joined Allsmiller in double figures as the Bison improved their record to 24-1.

BEFORE ALLSMILLER got himself into foul trouble in the second half, the big senior dominated the game. He blocked three shots and pulled away eight rebounds in the first 16 minutes while hitting six of 11 field goal attempts and six of eight free throws.

But Rolling Meadows didn't surrender the title without a fight, as many observers had predicted would happen. Behind the strong all-around play of 6-8 senior Kevin Kiley, the Mustangs stayed close to Buffalo Grove throughout most of the first half.

Meadows actually grabbed a 10-9 lead at 3:02 of the first quarter on a jump shot from the free throw line by Bob Rose. But Allsmiller responded with five straight points before Heesch hit a short baseline jumper and Groot followed with a long, 25-footer at the buzzer for an 18-10 first-period Bison advantage.

Mustang junior guard Kent Walker scored eight of his team-leading 18 points in the second quarter as Meadows battled back into contention. When Kevin Krutwig located Kiley under the basket for an easy basket at 4:15, the Mustangs cut the gap to 22-20.

ALLSMILLER CANNED a pair of free throws and a 10-footer from the right baseline to increase the lead to six, but a basket and two free throws by Jeff Schrock and two more free throws by Walker kept Rolling Meadows in range.

But Kiley picked up his third personal foul with 1:39 left in the half and Allsmiller cashed two free throws for a 34-26 edge. Fred Kruse hit two free tosses for Buffalo Grove's first 10-point lead, Walker answered with two of his own, and Allsmiller restored the 10-point bulge with :30 left.

Meadows never got within 10 after that, although the Mustangs came close in the final seconds of the half. But Phil Czosnyka rejected a shot, Allsmiller batted another one away, and Mike Ledna raced downcourt for a shovel-shot at the buzzer and a 40-28 intermission lead.

"I didn't see any turning point in particular," Grady said. "I don't look for turning points, but maybe that was it."

EVEN THOUGH Allsmiller scored just six points in the second half, four of them came in the opening minute to help the Bison gain a 46-30 edge.

Kiley finished with 16 points for Meadows, now 15-9.

Quiet Bison celebration; Meadows showing praised

by KEITH REINHARD

The scene didn't exactly compare with the Cincinnati Reds' locker room last October.

There was no champagne flowing. There were no coaches getting drenched under the showers. There wasn't even much screaming, catcalling and hollering.

The players, in fact, actually outnumbered the sportswriters in the Buffalo Grove dressing room at Rolling Meadows Wednesday night after the Bison had systematically disposed of the Mustangs, 69-55, in the Mid-Suburban League championship basketball game.

"Yes, it's a nice trophy to win," smiled Grove coach Paul Grady as he eyed the net-draped hardware that Brian Allsmiller was lugging down the stairs. "I know I've been quoted as playing this one down, but I think it's important that everyone knows how much we've enjoyed every trophy we've won this year. It's been a super enjoyable season from the beginning because of games like tonight."

GRADY WAS emphatic in adding, however, "This is not the main one we're interested in though. We set our goals toward the next tournament, the big one, and I think everyone on the team will be disappointed if this is as far as we get."

That issue settled, Grady turned his thoughts toward the game itself.

"Rolling Meadows played well. I knew they would. I personally didn't feel the decision was ever in doubt but that didn't stop them from coming at us hard the whole way. They have a good ballclub."

GRADY'S PLAYERS tended to agree with his observations.

Allsmiller, who was thwarted on a few first period jumpers, went on to dominate the game at both ends of the court, but he noted, "They put up a tough battle tonight. This (Kevin) Kiley did a nice job underneath for them and (Kent) Walker really impressed me with his outside shooting. I think he (Walker) probably hurt us more than anyone."

Mike Ledna, the Bison playmaking guard, echoed similar sentiments and pointed out: "I think it gave them a lift when Brian picked up his fourth foul. If there was an opportunity for them to get back in the game that was probably it. Fortunately Kiley picked up his fourth a short time later to kind of equalize it."

WHEN LEDNA was asked about getting up for this game, he explained:

"I think we all were when we got out onto the floor tonight. All the people here and the cheering and the atmosphere. But I don't think our practice sessions the past few days have been serious enough..."

Someone in the background then broke in with, "Ledna, you're never serious," and everyone broke into a light chuckle.

It was like that in the Buffalo Grove dressing room late Wednesday night.

First half errors hurt South champ

by BOB GALLAS

The only sound in the Rolling Meadows lockerroom was the sound of popping balloons as the decorations vanished as quickly as the Mustangs' chance for a Mid-Suburban title.

Meadows had managed to stay even with the touted Bison during the second half. But a few mistakes late in the first half, then four fouls on 6-8 Mustang center Kevin Kiley, had virtually sealed Meadows' fate earlier.

A couple of turnovers by Kiley that the Bison turned into buckets and an eight-foot Mike Ledna bank shot at the buzzer helped lift Buffalo Grove from a six-point to 12-point lead at intermission.

BUT WHEN KILEY went to the bench with four fouls midway through the third period, the Mustang hopes went with him.

"We need him in there. Just his presence standing there in the middle helps," said guard Bob Rose.

"I've had problems all year with foul trouble," Kiley added. "We were just starting to come back, too, when I got my fourth. When I did get in I had to hold back so I wouldn't foul out."

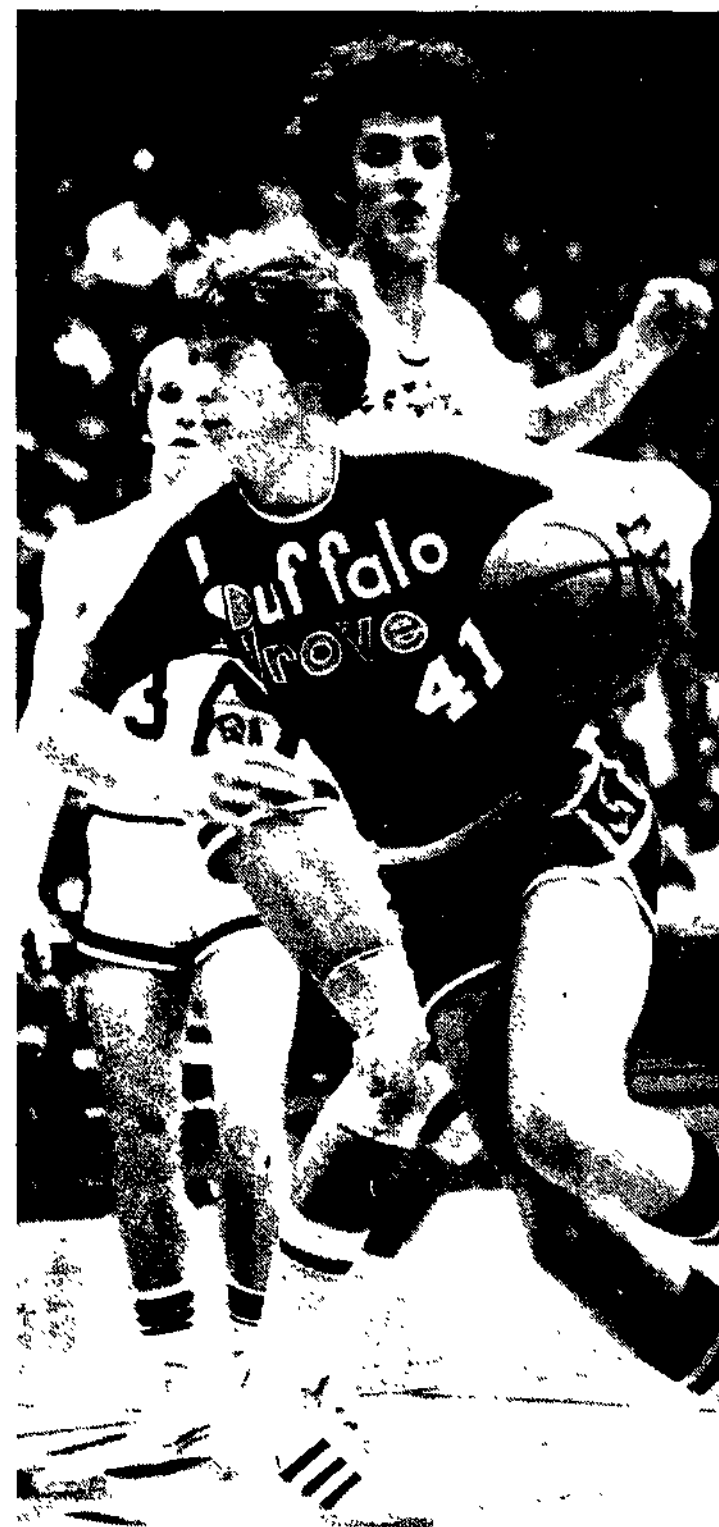

Kiley's foul trouble meant that the chore of guarding 6-8 Brian Allsmiller in the second half went to 6-3 Glenn Brettnier and 6-2 Jeff Schrock. Luckily for the Mustangs, Allsmiller, who hit 16 points in the first half, had gone to the bench with four personals two minutes before Kiley.

"IT WOULD HAVE been nice to have had him (Kiley) in there for the inside game with Allsmiller out," said Meadows' coach Bill Weinberg, who got only six points out of his center, the same as Allsmiller, in the second half.

"They (Grove) hurt us tonight with their penetration," said Weinberg. "And we weren't very crisp on offense. We were getting the shots, but just weren't hitting."

"Allsmiller is a terrific player," the coach said, who like his team got his first look this year at the Bison superstar. "But they also have a pair of tremendous guards, especially Ledna."

"We have to shake this off," said Kiley, who was the last to leave the lockerroom. "There's a whole new season ahead of us," he said pointing to Palatine Regional, where the Mustangs are the top seed.

BIG DRIVER. Buffalo Grove star Brian Allsmiller demonstrates some expertise at ballhandling as he scoots past Rolling Meadows center Kevin Kiley en route to a layup. Allsmiller cornered game scoring honors at 24 while leading his Bison to a 69-55 triumph in the league championship game Wednesday night.

TURNING THE CORNER. Mike Ledna of Buffalo Grove tries to drive around Bob Rose of Rolling Meadows in the Mustang-hosted league championship game Wednesday. Ledna was the picture of perfection in the scoring department hitting three of three from the field and two straight at the line while helping his Bison to a 69-55 victory.

Black Hawks win, Mikita still one goal from 500

Phil Russell, Darcy Rota and Ivan Boldirev scored within a 49-second span midway through the third period Wednesday night to give Chicago a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Red Wings and snap the Black Hawks' four-game losing streak.

Stan Mikita failed to score his 500th career goal with the Black Hawks, but won a vital faceoff in Red Wing ice to feed Russell for the go-ahead goal with 7:52 to play. Rota then scored on a short rebound shot and Boldirev added his second goal of the game on a similar play.

Detroit rookies Bob Ritchie and Dave Kelly had first period goals, their first in the NHL following last week's trade which brought them to Detroit from the Philadelphia Flyers.

Boldirev's 30-footer made it 2-1 Detroit after one period and the lead held up until Jim Harrison swatted in a perfect centering pass from Russell with 1:34 gone in the third period.

ELSEWHERE IN THE NHL Wednesday night, Brian Spencer scored two goals and added an assist as the Buffalo Sabres maintained their Adams Division lead with a 5-3 win over the Cleveland Barons.

Spencer got Buffalo's first goal in the first period and third goal in the second, giving them a lead they never lost, as the Sabres won their eighth game in their last 10 starts.

The Barons, who learned just hours before the game that their franchise would finish the season, led 2-1 after the first period on goals by Dave Gardner and Jim Neilson. Then, however, the flying Sabres took control and won easily.

PHIL ESPOSITO and Rod Gilbert scored within 39 seconds in the third period to lift the New York Rangers past the Toronto Maple Leafs 5-4.

Esposito's gamewinner came with 10:32 left on a 35-foot slapshot that skipped between the legs of Toronto goalie Wayne Thomas Gilbert's goal, his second of the game, came at 9:53.

Guy Lafleur, the National Hockey

League's leading scorer, got his first hat trick of the year to spark the Montreal Canadiens to a 4-2 victory over the Atlanta Flames.

Lafleur got his first goal in the first period and two more in the second, boosting his total to 46 for the year. He took advantage of two breakaway opportunities, scoring on both occasions.

Steve Jensen and Ernie Hicke's goals backed up the stalwart goalkeeping of Pete Lopresti to give the Minnesota North Stars a hard-checking 2-1 victory Wednesday night over the Boston Bruins.

The win left the North Stars only three points behind idle Colorado for the third playoff spot in the National Hockey League's Smythe Division.

NHL saves Barons with 11th-hour deal

NEW YORK — Through the joint cooperation of the league players, the National Hockey League owners and club owner Mel Swig, the Cleveland Barons franchise was saved at least until the end of the season.

According to the formula worked out, Swig and the NHL board of governors each are committing $350,000 to the Barons while the Players Association will borrow $600,000 from a Canadian bank.

According to Eagleson, the money "will be considered an advance by the players association against a repayment of that debt," and the money would be used to pay player contracts, pension contributions, all insurance payments and the total cost of operation of the club including any and all legal assessments.

Louis stricken by chest pains

LAS VEGAS — Boxing great Joe Louis suffered an angina attack Wednesday, according to a spokesman for Caesar's Palace where the former heavyweight champion is employed, and was resting at home after refusing to stay overnight in a hospital.

Louis, 62, complained of chest pains Wednesday afternoon and was examined at the hospital by his own physician, the spokesman said. Louis then went back to his own home to rest with orders to "take it easy for two or three days." Louis, who has been carrying some extra weight and drinking and smoking heavily, has not seemed in peak health in recent months.

Finley will attend Kuhn's hearing

Oakland A's owner Charles O. Finley said Wednesday night that he would attend a hearing baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn scheduled over Finley's sale of pitcher Paul Lindblad to the Texas Rangers. Finley said Texas owner Brad Corbett told him he had signed Lindblad to a contract.

Finley phoned Corbett in Arlington, Tex., and asked him if he would attend a March 2 meeting scheduled by Kuhn about the sale of Lindblad from Oakland to Texas for $400,000. "Mr. Corbett has stated he signed Lindblad to a contract on Saturday and he stated he is not going to any goddamned meeting," Finley said.

"My attorney and I have decided tonight that we will attend the meeting, only because there's no telling what this man (Kuhn) might attempt to do," Finley said. "At times, he doesn't act very rational. He is out of his mind."

Northern upset by W. Michigan

Bill Harris scored six of his eight points in overtime Wednesday night to help lift Eastern Michigan to an upset 75-71 win over Northern Illinois, knocking the Huskies out of the league lead.

Six-foot-11½ Jack Sikma scored 22 points and grabbed 16 rebounds Wednesday night to help league champion Illinois Wesleyan close its college conference of Illinois and Wisconsin schedule with a 76-61 victory over Millikin. Junior guard Don Williams scored a career high 30 points hitting 11 of 18 field goals in only 35 minutes to lead Notre Dame to a 111-86 triumph over Loyola of Chicago.

Bonham, Buckner ink Cub contracts

The Cubs added six signed players to their roster Wednesday, leaving six still negotiating contracts.

Infielder Steve Ontiveros, obtained from the San Francisco Giants in the Bill Madlock trade has not signed a contract but verbally has agreed to terms offered by the Cubs' vice president in charge of baseball operations, Bob Kennedy.

Signed contracts were received from pitchers Bill Bonham, 9-13 last year, and Steve Renko, 8-11, Bill Buckner, Gene Cline, and Ivan DeJesus. Buckner, who hit .301 last year and De Jesus came to the Cubs from Los Angeles in the trade for Rick Monday. Unsigned are Bobby Murcer, Jerry Morales, Joe Wallis, Bruce Sutter, Buddy Schultz and Scott Thompson.

Dorothy Hamill sues former coach

DENVER — Olympic skating champion Dorothy Hamill and her former coach, Carlo Fassi, have filed counter court actions in a dispute over whether the instructor should receive nearly $100,000 in additional payments.

Fassi said Hamill and her parents, Carol and Chalmers Hamill of Riverside, Conn., owe him $124,248 for lessons and travel expenses and $84,000 for acting as an agent in securing a $1 million contract with an ice show.

The Hamills said Fassi told the news media: "I don't know what's happened to her. If this is the Dorothy Hamill that she really is, I'm sorry Diane DeLeeuw didn't win the Olympics." The Hamills denied the coach's accusations that they owe him money and said he has repeatedly tried to ruin their daughter's reputation by his published remarks.

Ernie Holmes trial witness wavers

AMARILLO, Tex. — One of three officers who arrested Pittsburgh Stealer defensive tackle Ernie Holmes last year testified Wednesday in Holmes' cocaine possession trial that he now had second thoughts about what he saw at the time.

And, in an attempt to show the jury what the scene of Holmes' arrest looked like, defense attorneys enlisted the aid of an architect and a carpenter and constructed a ten foot-by-eight foot, rough plywood scale model of the motel restroom where the defendant was first confronted by police.

The state quickly presented its case against Holmes, charged with possessing 250 milligrams of cocaine. If convicted, Holmes could be sentenced to from two to 20 years in prison.

Only four witnesses were called by the state during the Wednesday morning session, with the key prosecution testimony coming from a policeman who said he saw Holmes throw away a packet which later was proven to contain cocaine.

Bullets continue NBA hot streak

From Herald Wire Services

Phil Chenier scored 26 points and Kevin Grevey added a career high 22 points Wednesday to lead the Washington Bullets to a 109-101 victory over the Indiana Pacers.

The Bullets — winners of 21 of their last 28 games — outscored the Pacers 31-12 in the first period when Chenier hit on all six of his field goal attempts. Indiana was never able to close the gap, coming within five midway in the second quarter before faltering.

IN OTHER NBA games Wednesday night, Pete Maravich and Bud Stallworth combined for 64 points and rookie Paul Griffin pulled down 25 rebounds to help the New Orleans Jazz break a five-game losing streak with a 106-96 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

Maravich ended the game with 38 points and Stallworth had 26. They combined for 21 points in a crucial third quarter New Orleans surge that put the Jazz in the lead for good.

Field goals by Mike Bantom and Jan Van Breda Kolff 46 seconds apart in the fourth quarter enabled the New York Nets to defeat Denver 91-88 and snap the Nuggets four-game winning streak.

Bantom's goal gave the Nets an 86-84 lead and Van Breda Kolff's basket with only 1:44 to go increased it to 88-84. Free throws by Kim Hughes and Al Skinner finished New York's scoring.

GUARD ERIC MONEV's 22 points in the second half and Bob Lanier's 12-foot jumper with nine seconds remaining carried the Detroit Pistons to a 102-101 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

The Pistons trailed by nine points in the third period when Money hit on nine straight field goal attempts, enabling Detroit to battle the Lakers on virtually even terms through most of the final quarter.

Seattle built a 20-point lead midway in the third quarter, then watched Ron Boone miss a desperation jump shot with three seconds to play to give the SuperSonics a 94-93 victory over the Kansas City Kings.

The Sonics took a 68-48 lead with 5:39 left in the third quarter on the shooting of Nick Weatherspoon, Fred

Injury sidelines Benson for final Indiana games

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Kent Benson, an All-America on Indiana's 1976 NCAA basketball champions, is finished for the season with an aggravated back injury, university officials said Wednesday.

Benson, Indiana's No. 2 All-time scorer, averaged 19.8 points in 23 games this season and 21.1 points in 14 Big Ten games. The Hoosiers, with four games to go, stand 7-7 in league play.

The 6-foot-11 senior aggravated a chronic back ailment Sunday in a collision with Purdue's Barry Joe Carroll.

Both were going for a rebound with only 46 seconds left in the contest won by Purdue 86-78.

BENSON CRASHED on his back and lay motionless for about a minute. He was helped from the floor by Coach Bobby Knight and an assistant. X-rays did not disclose any fractures but Benson has been resting ever since.

Knight said Benson has returned to his New Castle, Ind., home. A spokesman said orthopedic specialists want him to remain in bed for two weeks.

"IT'S A MASSIVE bruising and swelling of his lower back," the spokesman said.

"We wouldn't want to endanger his future in basketball," Knight said. Benson was the only holdover starter from last year's team that went through the season unbeaten in 32 games and ranked No. 1 in the nation.

BENSON WAS double-teamed this season in virtually every game and the Hoosiers met one zone defense after another.

Benson was expected to be an early choice in the next NBA draft. He has said he wants to play pro basketball and later develop a sports camp for youngsters.

We now have a splendid inventory of Spinnet and Grand pianos from Yamaha and Wurlitzer. We also have our sales floor and warehouse resplendent with marvelous Conn Organs of all kinds.

YAMAHA GRAND PIANOS

Karnes stocks more of these precious grand pianos than anyone in Chicagoland. You'll find all sizes, from the smallest to the most grand in all finishes at handsome savings.

We could have placed our humility in cold storage for the winter and invented an INVENTORY CLEARANCE ad, or a LIQUIDATION SALE ad, or any number of other phony reasons for a sale, but the truth is business has never been better and we mean to keep it that way.

So with all due pomposity we'd like to point up to the fact that even during this bitterest of cold winters we have sold more pianos and organs than ever in our almost 30 year history.

We'd like to remind you, as long as we have suspended humility for the duration of this ad, that any company that has broken sales records during this winter's ice age isn't likely to stop now.

We own our building, so our rent is sane. We're not paying shopping center overhead, either.

We own our own warehouse and it's well stocked.

All our own sales people are music people — they have experienced a lifetime of making music and they know the thrills that ability has bestowed upon them personally. They want you and your family to share that endowment. It's just that simple.

At Karnes we back every sale with full service, delivery, and even FREE LESSONS.

That's why we not so humbly challenge any and all competition. That's why we are inviting you to come in and see why we are what we are.

WBBM mum on speculation of Bear announcers

by DIANE MERMIGAS

WBBM brass Wednesday refused to speculate on who they and the Chicago Bears will choose as announcers for football games broadcast the next four seasons under a new contract.

"A decision will not be made for some time. We were concerned with getting the rights to broadcast the games first. A lot of people are under consideration for the jobs, but it will be several weeks before we have any names," said William C. O'Donnell vice president and general manager of CBS radio.

"We're looking for the best play-by-play announcers we can get," he said. Some fans think that might be WMAQ's Harry Caray, who would have had the job had the Bears chosen to go with that NBC-affiliate for its radio broadcasts.

UNDER CONSIDERATION are the station's own Brad Palmer and Ray Geracy, Channel 2 sportsman Johnny Morris and nameless others outside the CBS realm.

WBBM will broadcast all 20 Bears' pre-season, regular and play-off games under the new contract signed Tuesday. The agreement ends a 24-year arrangement between WGN and the Bears and the death of the Jack Brickhouse and Irv Kupcinet broadcasting team.

"The team of Brickhouse and Kupcinet was only used on the Bears games, so I would assume that it wouldn't be utilized further," said Dick Jones, WGN radio program manager.

Brickhouse will continue announcing Cubs baseball for WGN-TV and will participate in other of the station's sports specials.

JONES SAID Wednesday the inability to renew a contract with the Bears is not only "disappointing" but will ultimately cost the station a fair share of viewers and advertising dollars.

"The Bears are getting hot now and they obviously want a change. It's important that they get all their exhibition games broadcast which is something we couldn't do because of the Cubs games that we broadcast," Jones said.

There has been no disclosure of the monetary increase the Bears achieved by the switch. Jim Finks, Bears general manager has said only that he is "pleased with the terms."

Jones said it has been a friendly parting of the ways and would not comment on the possibility that the station switch was partly promoted by fan resentment of the Brickhouse-Kupcinet team.

Hassan wins boxing crown

Mount Prospect Park District fighter Mike Hassan captured the 147-pound Illinois Silver Gloves title in statewide competition at Pekin Saturday.

After qualifying for the state tourney by winning the northern sectional three weeks ago, the 13-year-old Hassan took the state crown with a three-round unanimous decision.

Hassan qualifies for the National Silver Gloves eliminations to be held in Moine, Feb. 26-27. Another Mount Prospect fighter, Joe Burd, was eliminated in the competition at Pekin, while trying for the 70-pound title.

McKenna nears Palatine mark

Kevin McKenna's 21 points in Tuesday night's game at Hoffman Estates gave the 8-foot-6 Palatine senior a career total of 1474 points to solidify his hold on third place on the all-time area scoring list and move him closer to the Palatine record of 1562 held by former Pirate great Ron Kozlicki.

Only Kozlicki and Buffalo Grove's Brian Allsmiller are ahead of McKenna on the area list. Going into Wednesday's action, leader Allsmiller needed just 38 points to reach 2,000.

The rookie hits for big average

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. — When the chill winds of December arrived 21 months ago — offering no warning of the frightful winter to follow — the hottest game in town was prognosticating which of the nation's head football coaches would be willing to come to Illinois.

Outside of Cecil Coleman's interviewing board almost no one here had ever heard of Gary Moeller, Michigan assistant.

But the same aggressiveness and self-assurance that won over the UI athletic board was still present in spades on December 4th when, in Moeller's first public appearance as Illinois coach, he rose from his speaker's chair at The News-Gazette All-State banquet and moved down the line of 32 All-State players, exchanging pleasantries with each one.

WITH TOASTMASTER John Wright anxious to start the program, Moeller was short-stopped by a waiter and their conversation ran at some length. "Hey, Gary," someone shouted "What are you trying to do, recruit him too?"

Such is the genuineness of Gary Moeller. He's fun to be around. But he isn't just a glad-hander. This writer caught a touch of his toughness some weeks later when, in tracking him down at the initial winter training session, he first responded to the question of the day and then stated firmly:

"OH, BY the way, we'd appreciate it if you didn't come here anymore. What we do here is between us. We want to build a close team unity and we don't want the players to be self-conscious."

"Recruiting is important but these are the guys who will determine how many games we win next season." He didn't have to say it twice. The rookie head coach gets his message across the first time, loud and clear.

AND, LIKE no coach since the Pete Elliott era, the Illinois newcomer got his message across to the state's premier players even subtracking Rose Bowl time in Pasadena from his meager 2 1/2-month tenure.

The UI's initial list of 18 recruits is amazing for a number of reasons. (1) while Bob Blackman landed four of the lesser "elite" from a group of 24 All-Staters he offered scholarships in 1975, Moeller last week hit on 11 from a glistening blue-chip list of about 21 News-Gazette selections he had trimmed from the original 33. (2) father Bob Norman indicated Dec. 4 there was "no way" son Tim, a 6-5, 250 pound All-American from W. Chicago, would attend his alma mater, and yet Tim was the first to announce. (3) Moeller made his sweep with a late-arriving staff of aides whose average age may not reach 30, and (4) he stormed a state where he had little or no real background.

Rival universities dislodged Moeller's in-state impact only in solitary numbers.

BUT MOELLER had set the state of Illinois as his target for 1976, promising to expand the horizons in 1977.

His chief in-state setback, fortunately, was replaced by a promising Virginia. When Edwardsville's fleet Jeff Hornberger announced for Colorado, the Illini confirmed that Alexandria's 180 pound Matt Weathers was on the way. Weathers and 1975 Lockport All-Stater Kip Carmen provide Illinois with two promising speedbacks in the new crop.

Moeller is thus well stocked at the "skill" positions with All-State quarterback Rich Weiss of New Trier East, Tim McAvoy of Gordon Tech and John Venegoni of Peoria Spalding (a superb defensive back) and All-State fullbacks Wayne Strader of Geneseo, Ron Genot of Woodstock, John Gillen of St. Viator and Dave Dwyer of Proviso West, all with linebacker potential.

What brought about the quarterback fullback sweep?

"The boss, answered an Illini aide. "He came in and he sold them."

Noted a former UI assistant:

"I never fully realized the importance of what the athletes call rapport. Now I do. Assistant coaches can carry the recruiting only so far. Then the head man has to close it. That's what Moeller has done to a tremendous degree."

FUNNY BUSINESS

by Roger Bollen

Ask Andy

Early travelers took turnpikes across nation

Andy sends the Encyclopedia Britannica's 1977 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Brian Smith, 11, of San Diego, Calif., for his question:

WHY ARE SOME HIGHWAYS CALLED TURNPIKES?

Today the continent is crisscrossed with a network of superhighways, making it possible for a traveler to move quickly from one city to another. The fine, well-maintained highways are a result of much planning and the spending of a great deal of money.

In 1893 the Office of Public Roads was created in the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture. Money was made available to subsidize highway construction by the various states.

Before the superhighways and modern roads came into being, crude roads linked communities. And there also developed a number of roads called turnpikes, privately owned roads which were maintained by charging a toll for those who used them.

Between 1792 and 1810 many private companies were chartered in the United States for the construction of toll roads. While the turnpikes were vital factors in improving the transportation links between cities, very few were successful financially. By the early 19th century, road building became almost exclusively a governmental function.

Superhighway construction came about after the automobile changed the way we live. Some turnpikes are in operation today, including the famous Pennsylvania Turnpike, an east-west superhighway which crosses the state and on which are located toll-collecting stations. Some bridges are open to travelers on a toll basis, and also a number of sections of highways in the Eastern part of the United States. But for the most part, our superhighways are now available without a payment — other than the tax money we all pay for the maintenance and construction of roads.

Some superhighways are called free-ways and parkways — the first name chosen because they are maintained on a toll-free basis, and the second because they run through beautifully landscaped areas.

In 1925 a numbering system for our highways was adopted. Odd numbers run from north to south and even numbers from east to west. U.S. Rte. 1 runs up the East Coast while U.S. Rte. 101 runs the length of our West Coast. U.S. Rte. 2 runs from Maine to Seattle with one stretch running through southern Ontario, while I-90 extends from Georgia to San Diego.

One of the world's first superhighway systems was built in Germany during the 1930s. Called the Autobahn, it linked all parts of the country using tunnels to pass through large hills, and high arching bridges to jump over steep canyons. This network avoided going through cities, choosing instead to skirt them.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Karen Marchano, 13, of Fonthill, Ont., Canada, for her question:

WHAT IS A COPYBARA?

The largest living rodent is the copybara, a resident of South America who weighs in at a hefty 100 pounds, is about 3 to 4 feet long and measures 2 feet high at the shoulder. How would you like to find him in your mousetrap?

Looking a bit like a Guinea pig, although having no tail and partly webbed feet, the copybara lives along the banks of rivers and lakes.

Rodents actually have the largest number of species of all the mammalian orders. In addition to the rat, regarded by many as the worst pest of all animals, the rodent family includes such gnawing animals as chinchillas, beavers and muskrats.

Do you have a question to Ask Andy? Send it on a post card with your name, age and complete address to Ask Andy in care of The Herald, Box 289, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006. Entries are open to boys and girls 7 to 17.

Win at bridge

Sontag gets spade readout

We will finish hands from the "Bridge Bum" with one that Alan Sontag played. His four-heart call was a decided overbid and when he looked at dummy he saw that he had plenty of work.

West opened the ace, not the king of diamonds. East played the jack so West could continue with a low diamond and keep the location of the king concealed from declarer.

Alan ruffed and reviewed the bidding. It was obvious that spades were 4-3 with West holding four. If West held five spades he would have opened a spade. If East held four spades he would have responded one spade.

Thus, Alan was going to have lots of trouble if West held the king. He had a spade to dummy's ace, returned the jack of clubs and let it ride to West's ace. Business was looking up.

West led a third diamond. Alan ruffed and led a low spade. East won and returned a trump, but Alan was in control. He led another spade, ruffed in dummy, saw the king fall as he had hoped, drew trumps and claimed the contract.

Few take advantage of U.S. home loans

by JOE FRANZ

Government-backed loans to purchase homes are available to thousands of National Guardsmen and U.S. Reservists in Illinois, but few are rushing out to get the benefits.

The loans, which require smaller down payments than conventional loans, are available to reservists and guardsmen through the Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration.

James W. Burke, branch manager of Illinois Savings and Loan, Arlington Heights, said loans to guardsmen and reservists have been available for at least seven years, but only a handful apply each year.

"The number of people using this program is low, really minimal," he said. "We have been here about 1 1/2 years and have made only about two loans to guardsmen and reservists."

ILLINOIS SAVINGS and Loan is one of several lending institutions in the Chicago area that is heavily involved in making VA and FHA loans. Besides loans to guardsmen and reservists, the firm also makes regular FHA loans and loans to veterans who have been on active duty for more than 181 days.

"I find that most people are unaware that the loans are available to guardsmen and reservists," Burke said. "Many think the loans only are available to persons who have been on active duty for a long time."

Burke, who once was an officer in the National Guard, said there are estimates that say there are about a million current or former guardsmen and reservists in Illinois who are eligible for the government-backed loans.

"I don't know how many have applied, but I know the figure is very low," he said. "This will give you an idea. When I was in, not one of my men out of 205 knew they were eligible for the loans."

WILLIAM J. Venhuizen, an official of the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development, said he could furnish no statistics, but he did confirm that few guardsmen and reservists are taking advantage of the loans.

"We actually get very few people applying for them," said Venhuizen, who is deputy chief of the single-family branch of HUD's Chicago office. "We don't advertise this, but it's something that's available to them. It seems that many don't know about it."

Burke said many real estate people also are unaware that the government-backed loans are available to guardsmen and reservists.

"Its Realtor exposure is very low," he said. "I don't think most know about it."

HE SAID THAT while many guardsmen and reservists are unaware of the loans, some do know about them but are reluctant to apply.

"A problem with FHA/VA loans is the stigma attached to them," Burke said. "Everyone thinks you have to be a basket case to qualify. People come into me and feel like they're taking charity."

To qualify for a government-backed loan, a guardsman or reservist must have a minimum of 90 days federal active duty. Applicants are ineligible if they have received a dishonorable discharge from the service.

Under the federal program, guardsmen and reservists can obtain loans up to $45,000 for single-family houses and up to $36,000 for four-flat apartment buildings.

LOANS ALSO ARE available for apartment condominiums in FHA-approved projects. Burke said it is possible, but difficult to get loans approved for apartment condominium units that are not part of an approved development.

"You can get them, but it's such a horrendous process that I wouldn't advise anyone to go through it," he said.

On home loans the government requires a down payment of $200 on the first $25,000 in value, with 10 per cent down due on the next $10,000 and 15 per cent on any amount more than $35,000.

Thus, a house valued at $40,000 would require a minimum down payment of $1,950 from the guardsman or reservist. Burke said many conventional loans require minimum down payments of 20 per cent.

"You can see that the amount of money required to get into the home is minimal," he said. "It can enable a lot more people to buy a home, which is after all, the American dream."

THE INTEREST rates on loans for guardsmen and reservists usually are lower than those for conventional loans, but that generally is negated by the charge for FHA insurance.

Burke said the size of the loan is determined by the income and the ability of the guardsman or reservist to meet monthly payments. Many of the requirements are the same used for conventional loans except that government-backed loans can be paid back over a longer period, some going for as long as 30 years.

Before a loan is issued through FHA, the government must appraise the property to determine its value.

Burke said although the government-backed loans are good, he believes the $45,000 limit on loans for single-family homes is "unrealistically low" for many parts of the Northwest suburbs. That is unless a person is able to come up with a large down payment.

"This precludes FHA/VA loans from areas like Arlington Heights because there's nothing to be had for that amount," he said. "The limit requires that they go to less expensive areas."

THE ADDITION TO the stigma attached to government-backed loans, Burke said, there sometimes is a reluctance on the part of sellers to get involved with the government.

"Sellers just don't want to sell FHA or VA because many think it still takes six months to get it approved," he said. "That's just not true. FHA loans usually take no longer than 30 days."

Burke said some sellers also don't want to sell to persons obtaining government-backed loans because they believe they will have to make extensive improvements before selling.

"The government will make sure the house is in pretty top shape before they approve it," he said. "But the repair situation really isn't a valid complaint. We get very few back where repairs are required, maybe one in 10."

Burke said a guardsman or reservist is eligible for a government-backed loan as many times as he wishes, as long as he sells one house before applying for a loan on another.

Building to reach $123 billion, firm says

1977 construction outlook good

Construction this year will exceed earlier forecasts of a 12 per cent improvement over 1976 and reach $123 billion, according to an authority on construction activity.

McGraw-Hill Information Systems Co., in its first scheduled update of the "1977 Dodge/Sweet's Construction Outlook," reported an upward revision of its forecast based on three factors: the early reversal of the mid-1976 "pause" in general business activity; a change in national priorities and programs as a result of the national elections; and diminishing inflation experienced in recent months.

The firm raised the total forecast for the three primary construction sectors. It announced that nonresidential construction contracting will reach $33.6 billion, a 12 per cent gain; residential construction will total $52.4 billion, a 20 per cent increase, with single-family construction gaining 9 per cent and apartment construction advancing 30 per cent; nonbuilding construction will reach $37 billion, 11 per cent ahead of 1976.

George A. Christie, vice president and chief economist of the firm's F. W. Dodge Division, said, "The intangibles that go along with a change in administration — a realignment of national priorities that puts economic growth ahead of anti-inflationary restraint, and a cooperative relationship between the White House and Congress — could turn out to be more important to construction than specific programs."

HE POINTED OUT that contracting for commercial and industrial buildings is more likely to benefit indirectly than directly from efforts by government to accelerate the economy's recovery. The "close parallelism between nonresidential building and general business activity" strongly suggests that the upswing in commercial and industrial building, which was interrupted in 1976, will be restored in 1977 as the economy expands and excess capacity is taken up," said Christie.

The Dodge economist explained that "instead of public works money running heavily to the traditional road and sewer projects, a surprisingly large share — some 60 per cent — is being used for construction of nonresidential building, and nearly one third of this involves school building or remodeling," he said. "These public funds will temporarily pump some life into the sluggish institutional building market in both 1977, when construction should total $17 billion, and also in 1978."

Reviewing nonbuilding construction, Christie said that nonbuilding construction had made strong gains in 1976 due to energy projects, not anti-recessionary spending.

"In 1977, however, it will be highways, sewers, and other public works — supported by increased federal spending — that will keep things moving ahead," he said.

Pair logs a profit selling firewood

HERRIN, Ill. (UPI) — Newlyweds Eric and Alisa Brandon are selling firewood to keep the home fires burning.

Brandon, 21, a senior forestry student at nearby Southern Illinois University, is putting himself through school and paying household bills with fireplace sized logs.

Actually, it's a team effort because his wife already has earned her forestry degree from the same school where they met, finishing last December.

SHE SOMETIMES dons jeans, heavy coat, boots and gloves and takes to the woods with her husband, a former SIU 440-yard dash man, to help him load the truck with logs.

They were married Jan. 15 in the midst of one of the most bitter cold waves in the nation's history. The firewood business was booming and there was no time for an extended honeymoon.

"I'm in my third year of selling firewood and sales are going out of sight," said Brandon. "I haven't been less than eight loads behind since it started turning cold right after Christmas. I'm still selling it for $25 a pickup truck load and I've gotten a bigger truck since I started so the customers are getting more wood for the same price."

"PRACTICALLY EVERY new home you see being built now has a fireplace," Brandon said. "In some of the old homes where the fireplaces had been bricked or boarded up, they are opening them up so they can use them."

Brandon gets all his firewood from a tract being cleared for the spring planting of soybeans.

"Some people don't realize how much money there is in timber," said Brandon. "How does $3,000 an acre sound?"

He said he worked awhile in a logging operation on which the logger got $12 for the thick bottom part of the tree for lumber "and I made $50 off the top for firewood."

"IT TAKES 80 to 90 years for an oak tree to get to sawlog size but only 10 to 12 years from seed to get firewood size," said Brandon.

Brandon started out to major in business at SIU but then almost quit after the first year to work on the Alaska pipeline before he switched to forestry.

"I bought a lot of heavy clothing for the Alaska trip I didn't make and it has come in handy in this firewood business," said Brandon.

HE SAID HE bought a used pickup truck for $300 three years ago and paid $75 for a used chain saw which still gives him good service. He has traded for a larger pickup.

He took a night job at a factory briefly while still in school thinking he would need more money with matrimony.

"But that didn't last long when I when I stopped to figure what I was clearing for one eight-hour shift at the factory wasn't as much as I can make for hauling one load of firewood," he said.

"BUT IT'S NOT easy," he said. "It gets darned cold out there and you're in mud to the top of your boots sometimes. It's dawn to dark work or more . . . 16 to 18 hours a day. You can't sit still a minute."

But Brandon likes the outdoors and the independence. And Alisa says she has always been intrigued by trees.

"I think ash is the best all-around firewood," said Brandon. "It will burn wet or dry. I sell mostly hickory and oak. Hickory is harder to start but makes a good fire."

"One tree I'll never cut is elm," Brandon said. "It burns fast but it pops a lot and smells like an outhouse in July."

What's the goal of a husband-wife forestry team?

"We want to work in a forestry consulting capacity for ourselves," said Mrs. Brandon.

S&L interest, dividends topped $1 billion in 1976

Interest and dividends paid to customers of Illinois insured savings and loan associations last year went over the $1 billion mark for the first time.

Adam Jahns, president of the Illinois Savings and Loan League, said the interest and dividends credited to account holders in the state amounted to $1.16 billion, nearly 20 per cent more interest and dividends paid in 1975.

Jahns said other records were set in Illinois last year as well.

"Net new savings rose 30 per cent from 1975 to 1976. residential loans closed for purchase rose 52 per cent from one year to the next, and total residential loans closed were up nearly 53 per cent," he said.

NET NEW SAVINGS for 1976 totaled $2.5 billion, while $4 billion was committed to residential loans closed for purchase and $4.6 billion was involved in all residential loans made during the year.

The figures represent the latest data from the Federal Home Loan Bank, released for the state by the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

"Last year was a period of recovery and very good savings flows, after the recession and economic worries of 1974 and 1975," Jahns said.

Net new savings of $203.7 million in December alone represented a record for that month, and was itself an increase of 11.6 per cent over a year ago for December.

Total loans closed in December declined 1.3 per cent to $464.2 million from November but were nearly 50 per cent more than that of a year ago during the month.

FOR DECEMBER, residential loans closed for construction were $61.8 million, an increase of 16 per cent from November, while residential loans closed for purchase in December were down 11.3 per cent from November, or $292.2 million. Total residential loans closed for December were down 7.5 per cent, or $354 million, from November to December, Jahns said.

During the month mortgage commitments outstanding dropped off 12.3 per cent, to $417.5 million, while mortgage loan commitments outstanding increased 2.6 per cent to $941.1 for December.

Mortgage loans outstanding for Illinois during December totaled $23.9 billion. Jahns said the savings associations in the state had 81.9 per cent of their assets invested in mortgage loans at the end of the year.

Total savings capital in saving and loans at the end of December was $25 billion.

Coming up

Realistic price for your home will sell it faster

Sellers and brokers who doggedly stick to unrealistic listing prices are missing the boat in today's real estate market, says a suburban Chicagoland Realtor.

Richard M. Caruso, president of Rich Port, Realtor, LaGrange, said, "Except for highly unusual circumstances, a home remaining unsold after three or four months on the market must be considered overpriced, and additional time on the market is not likely to solve the problem. Meanwhile, erstwhile buyers will opt for homes priced to meet current competition."

"On the market," Caruso said, "means more than just a yard sign and classified ads. Proper merchandising demands exposure to the listing Realtor's buyer prospects, to neighbors in the nearby vicinity of the new listing, to past clients, the multiple listing services, and the constant attention of a full-time competent professional. Too often, the job is left to a relative, friend, or social acquaintance who is long on personality but short on marketing clout."

Selling real estate in today's competitive market requires skill, dedication, persistence, market savvy and a commitment of time which simply can't be shored with any other full-time occupational or social obligation, he said.

Consider all details

Good landscaping takes planning

Before you can plan your landscape intelligently you must have a basic plan. Such a plan should show the outline of your house and where such elements as walks, drive, utility poles and existing trees and shrubs are located. In fact, the plan should convey any information that could in any way affect the development of your property.

This would even include trees and structures in your neighbor's yard close to your property line. For example, if your neighbor has a large tree growing close to your property, this will influence what you can do in your yard near such a tree. Should your land be hilly or have considerable changes in grade, it would be wise to have a topographic survey made by a surveyor. With such a survey you are then in a position to plan your land so that you will get the most out of it.

An easy way to make your basic plan is to plot it on graph paper or on a sheet of paper divided into squares as in the accompanying plan. The size of the squares is a matter of accommodation. Those on this plan are one-quarter inch squares. These happen to be suitable for the purposes of this plan. You can, of course, make them any size that is convenient.

ARRIVING AT THE size and shape of your property should be no problem. In our county recorder's office you will be able to find a map showing distances and angles describing your property lines. If there are no property markers at the corners of your piece of land, it would be an excellent idea to have these established by a surveyor.

George Creed

It's your landscape

The cost of having this done is relatively small and knowing exactly where your property begins and ends can be of great value to you in the event of neighbor encroachment or in erecting a fence or planting a hedge on a property boundary. If you have corner markers, you can place a high stake at each corner and stretch cord between them. In this way your property lines become visible and you can use them as references in making measurements such as those shown on this plan.

Questions and Answers.

Q. Can you suggest an attractive and fast-growing vine to cover an unsightly slope?

A. Yes, Silver Fleece vine. It is rapid in growth and in August is covered with a mass of white flowers.

Q. What flowering cherry grows in the same form as the Lombardy poplar?

A. It's the Amongawa Oriental Cherry. It is columnar when young but begins to spread out when it approaches maturity.

Signup still open for basic class in appraisal

Registration is still open for a basic course in the appraisal of residential real estate being offered on an extension basis in March in Chicago according to Arnold M. Kaufman, president of the Illinois Chapter of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers and Richard A. Rauch, president of the Chicago Real Estate Board.

Co-sponsored by CREB and AIREA, "Single Family Residential Appraisal," known as Course VIII, deals exclusively with the appraisal of residential property and is open to any person who has had a basic exposure to residential real estate through experience in sales, brokerage, financing or appraisal.

Course VIII will meet on consecutive Wednesdays from 6 to 10 p.m. from March 2 through April 27. The final examination will be April 30. Location for the course is the Chicago Bar Assn., 29 S. LaSalle St., Chicago. Tuition is $225, not including the required text. This course is the only required course for the residential member designation of AIREA. Course VIII does not count as credit toward AIREA's member, appraisal institute designation.

Further information and enrollment brochures may be obtained by contacting Mary Lu Olszowy at CREB, 18 S. Michigan, Chicago, 60603.

For sale: pair of Illinois islands

by DALE SINGER

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (UPI) — If you've always pictured yourself as ruler of your own little island, here's an offer you may want to consider.

For sale: Two islands in the Mississippi River between Missouri and Illinois, just north of St. Louis. A total of 3,000 acres, mostly uninhabited, with limited access and unlimited potential.

The price: $50 million.

THERE HAVE BEEN some nibbles but no buyers, according to the United Farm Agency in Kansas City, which is handling the sale.

The property was described in a recent ad in the Wall Street Journal as having "mind-boggling potential for International Trade Exposition City, recreational, residential or industrial development."

The islands are under the jurisdiction of Illinois as an unincorporated area of Madison County. Illinois has a statewide lottery and legalized horse race betting, so, with a little wishful thinking, the next part of the ad said: "Research indicates this could be the largest single real estate development in entire Midwest. May even be possible to establish casino in the future."

RIGHT NOW, THOUGH, the glitter of Las Vegas or Monte Carlo is not exactly what the islands feature. Cabaret Island is accessible only by a gravel road from a spot near the Chain of Rocks Canal on the Mississippi. Its companion, heavily wooded Mosenstein Island, has no land access at all.

About the only regular visitor to the islands is the overflow of the river itself. Floodwaters cover the land nearly every spring.

Mosenstein is uninhabited. Cabaret has one tenant farmer who cultivates about 1,000 acres.

Charles F. Boesel is a friend of the owners who have held the land for the last 15 years. "I guess they just think the price is about as high as it can go," he said.

BOESEL AND THE Army Corps of Engineers share skepticism about the lofty claims made for the future of the property.

"You know how those things are,"

Boesel said of the advertisement. "They put in everything but the kitchen sink."

Not that plans have't been made for Mosenstein before. Once is was touted as the answer to the area's airport problem. Later, it was suggested for development as a recreational site.

Right now the only action is with illegal hunters and trespassers who ignore signs that make it clear they are unwelcome.

Boesel doesn't think they're a bad deal. He points to their location "right in the center of the United States."

Kitchen design a key element in house sale

One essential though relatively unsung room can make or break a home sale.

It's the kitchen, usually the busiest room in a home and one whose design is too frequently given over entirely to function rather than comfort, a homey feeling, and eye appeal.

"We've seen a lot of the so-called galley-style kitchens in the last few years," said William S. Kaplan, president of Condel Realty Co., Inc., Morton Grove. Kaplan's firm is exclusive marketing agent for the condominiums of Bar Harbour at Windmill Lake, located in Northwest suburban Schaumburg.

"IN THIS TYPE of kitchen, sink, appliances, storage and counter space are arranged along both walls of a long, narrow room. There is no space for a table and chairs and barely enough room to turn around."

"One reason for the success we've had in marketing Bar Harbour is the size and layout of our kitchens. In fact, this single room has been the deciding factor in a number of our sales."

Kaplan calls these buyer-getting kitchens. In the two-bedroom Edgewater model, for example, the kitchen is a big, 8½ by 11½ feet. Appliances are arranged in an "L" shape around one corner, and there is enough space for a table and chairs. Doors lead into the adjacent dining room and the entry hall. An added touch is a pass-through counter that opens to the living room.

The kitchen layout in the three-bedroom Harbour View model is similar to the Edgewater, though this room measures 10 by 12½ feet.

"BY MAKING KITCHENS at Bar Harbour this large, we are giving it a function other than just being the place where meal preparation happens to take place," Kaplan said.

"Not too many years ago, the kitchen was a central meeting place in the home. Meals were eaten in addition to being cooked here. Children did their homework while eating an after school snack around the table. Neighbors visited and drank coffee here. At Bar Harbour, the kitchen again has been made a friendly gathering place."

The kitchens also have been designed so the fairly chef can prepare meals with a minimum of walking. The oven, range, refrigerator/freezer, sink, counterspace, dishwasher and disposal were arranged for maximum efficiency.

There also is plenty of cabinet and counter space. Buyers of Bar Harbour condominiums are given their choice of kitchen flooring designs.

With prices starting at $36,350, Bar Harbour's two- and three-bedroom condominiums have from 1,469 to 1,875 square feet of living space. The development is at Schaumburg and Meachum roads.

Each Bar Harbour condominium includes wall-to-wall carpeting in most areas, a balcony, heated parking space, telephone jacks, ceramic-tiled baths, master television antenna, and individually controlled heating and air conditioning.

When You Want to Sell Fast, Think of Us First

Don't start retirement planning too far in advance

Is there such a thing as planning too well for retirement? In an age where nine out of 10 of us don't give the subject of retirement a thought until it suddenly looms up as an immediate problem, the idea of being too premature in our planning is something of an oddity. But, it obviously can happen.

house? We will not move into the country until we retire and our home is sold in the city. Mr. R. P. (Concord, Co.)

A. Normally, as you know, the capital gains tax on the sale of a home is deferred if you replace it with one at least as expensive within 18 months (not six months), or if you build a replacement home costing as much and occupy it within two years.

UNFORTUNATELY, YOUR foresightedness is, to a certain extent, your undoing. There's no way this deferment can be applied retroactively to a replacement home completed and paid for well before your actual move.

There's something ironic in being penalized for planning ahead so thoroughly. But it sure doesn't mean that you were wrong in doing so.

Take comfort in the fact that even though you will be subject to the capital gains tax, you'll come out of the sale of your present home in pretty good shape.

Dear Mr. Campbell: Recently my wife and I purchased a new home to be closer to work. We did not sell our previous home because my two daughters are still living there. Could you please give me some information from a tax standpoint? Mr. D.J.M. (Allentown, Pa.)

A. ON THE ASSUMPTION that your daughters are paying you some sort of rent (and they should be, just to keep it on a businesslike basis), the old house would classify as an income property. You'll be able to write off not only mortgage interest and real estate taxes, but maintenance, depreciation and what-not.

If you're not charging the girls rent and, in effect, have made them a gift of the home (and it might be so construed this way), then you may have opened a can of worms and should consult a good tax attorney or CPA immediately.

Don G. Campbell

About real estate

Dear Mr. Campbell: My wife and I plan on retiring early (in our 50s) and have started to build our retirement home in the country while presently living in the city.

The retirement land has been paid for ($8,000) and the home is shelled in and partially finished. We initially borrowed $16,000 to shell in the house and are now on a pay-as-we-go plan finishing it as we get the cash.

I ESTIMATED THAT by the time we finish the house, over the next three years, we will have invested between $35,000 and $40,000, including a loan which should amount to about $15,000.

When we sell our present city home how can we reduce the capital gains tax? Our house we live in now is worth around $50,000 and we paid $20,000 for it. Normally, if we traded into a house costing more than $50,000, we could defer the tax. If we sold our house and bought a new house within the six-month period and the new house cost $40,000, we would pay capital gains tax on the difference between $40,000 and the cost of the new house, $50,000.

Since the retirement house has been paid for over the last seven years (as we were building it), how can we pay the capital gains on the difference of what we'll have invested in the

Setting goals important in successful househunting

The trouble with many first-time home shoppers is that they don't really know what they want.

Those weekend trips to open houses can be exasperating if there isn't some sound goal in mind as to the type of house and community that are desired.

"Two-story, ranch, split-level or bi-level. The variety boggles the mind."

"SIT DOWN AND seriously plan your visits before you start," said Robert G. Walters, senior vice president of Baird & Warner, Inc. and general manager of its residential sales division.

"First ask yourself what kind of house you're interested in," he said. "If it's a ranch, for example, then it doesn't pay to waste your time looking at two-story models."

Checking the newspaper classified ads for existing houses would be a good way to start, Walters said. "It's simple to circle the listings for ranch models and plan your visits accordingly if that's what you've decided on."

The listings, however, are usually limited to a few words. One ad may say three-bedroom ranch, one bath, rec room and that's it, said Walters.

"YOU'LL HAVE to visit the house before you find out that the ad didn't say there is a large lot, a garage, full basement or fully-equipped kitchen," he said.

That could be a pleasant surprise, but it could be the other way around, he said.

"For instance, the house may only have two bedrooms and a dining room that could be used as a third bedroom," he said. "The bathroom may be hopelessly outdated and the recreation room... well that could be a screened-in porch off the back."

After deciding on the type of home, the next step for the prospective buyer is to be more specific in the house itself.

A person does not have to be a professional appraiser to see if a house is well constructed. If there is a basement, for example, he can check to see if the beams are straight and that there are no cracks in the walls.

If they look good, then it's a sign that the house is well built. It doesn't matter how old the house is. Homes built 20 years ago or so often were better constructed than the ones today.

A BUYER CAN tell if a home has been well maintained. Check the doors. Do they open and close easily? That goes for the windows, too.

Checking insulation in the winter is simple. If there is snow on the ground, there should be snow on the roof. This is a sign that heat is not escaping and melting the snow.

While outside, the prospective buyer should take a look at the exterior walls. Brick or siding? He may want to check the advantages and disadvantages of the two.

Nowadays the new aluminum siding is easy to care for and are long lasting. Brick is popular, but may need tuckpointing from time to time, especially if it is an older home.

WHAT ABOUT THE community?

The best way to find out about a particular neighborhood is to visit some of the residents. Some will tell a buyer about the shopping, schools, transportation and recreation facilities in the area.

Others may even volunteer other useful information. This may range from an upcoming school referendum to a new restaurant planned a few blocks away.

Condos combine apartment living, home ownership

Is condominium living suited for you? In recent years many Americans have decided to buy condominiums instead of renting or purchasing a traditional single-family home according to Stanley B. Lieberman, president of the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors.

By definition, a condominium, a word of French derivation, is a home owned by a multi-unit structure. Condominiums may take many forms, ranging from detached single-family homes to high-rise buildings. They may be found in the heart of metropolitan areas or in resorts. They may be used as permanent homes, vacation homes or as investment properties.

Although the condominium concept is relatively new in this country, Lieberman said it's not on the international level. They were known in 5th century Rome and were popular in France as early as the 15th century. They were introduced in the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico in 1951 and in the continental United States nine years later when the first condominium was constructed in Salt Lake City. Since then more than one million condominium starts have been recorded in this country.

WHY HAVE condominiums become so popular in such a short period of time? They combine many of the advantages of apartment living and home ownership, he said. The owner of a condominium unit owns its interior living space. Along with owners of other units, he owns an undivided interest in the common elements of the building or complex such as the hallways, sidewalks and often the recreational facilities.

While the unit owner is responsible for the maintenance of his own unit, in a well-run complex he doesn't have to worry about the common areas, Lieberman said. The management of the complex directed by the owners' association is responsible for cleaning the pool, shoveling the sidewalks and making certain that the common areas of the complex are in good repair. Each owner is assessed for his share of the common area upkeep.

Usually in developments under construction or in the early stages of a conversion from an apartment to a condominium, developers handle all aspects of maintenance. The owners' association ordinarily takes over management sometime after half the units are sold. The association, through its board of directors, also sets rules for living in the complex.

THE PROSPECT OF minimal maintenance responsibilities has always been one of the key attractions of condominiums he said. Retired persons, who no longer want the responsibility of keeping up a single-family dwelling, have found condominiums attractive as retirement homes. Single people and young married couples also have been attracted to them for this reason.

Combined with this, the opportunity of building equity and receiving a tax benefit have proved attractive as well, said Lieberman.

Condominiums have other attractions. Many people find it easier to make friends since, unlike rental units, condos have a more stable population. Condos also provide a feeling of security. In some instances this is reinforced with paid security guards, a feature of many complexes.

Through condominium ownership, many people are able to enjoy recreational facilities they could not afford on their own. Swimming pools, game rooms and even indoor basketball courts are found in some complexes.

With all of their advantages, condominiums and condominium living have drawbacks as well, Lieberman said. For one thing, it is important to find one that fits your lifestyle. In a complex dominated by young families with small children, a retired couple might feel out of place.

The secret of Southern cooking

"Take two and butter them while they're hot."

In the South, where no meal is complete without hot breads, this invitation is extended as the biscuits are served piping hot. For generations, smart Southern cooks have used biscuits to dress up leftovers, to add substance to a light meal or to serve for dessert.

Refrigerated biscuits make the baking easy and contain various amounts of flour and shortening to provide different textures to suit different recipes. With a little imagination, biscuits can be used in new ways to add variety to meals.

SOUTHERN HAM BISCUITS

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Separate 11-ounce can of buttermilk or baking power biscuits into 10 biscuits. Bake 10 to 13 minutes until golden brown. Remove from oven and break each biscuit apart in half. Spread with butter or margarine if desired. Cut baked, fried or boiled ham slices to fit biscuits. Cover biscuit bottom halves with ham, cover with tops. Serve hot or cold. (Refrigerate leftovers.) Makes 10 biscuits.

CHEESE BURST BISCUITS

10 ounce can refrigerated flaky biscuits
Ten 1/2-inch cubes (1.5 ounces American or Cheddar cheese)

Milk
Sesame, caraway or poppy seed.

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Insert a cheese cube in each biscuit between layers; seal edges well. Cut a deep "X" on the top of each biscuit. Brush with milk. Sprinkle with sesame seed. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet 10 to 12 minutes until golden brown. Serve warm. (Refrigerate leftovers.) Makes 10 biscuits.

OVEN FRIED CHICKEN AND "CHICKEN BISCUITS"

1 1/4 cups crushed corn flakes or potato chips
1/2 to 1 teaspoon garlic salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
2 1/2 to 3 pounds frying chicken, cut up

1/2 cup butter or margarine, melted
10-ounce can refrigerated flaky biscuits
1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease 13x9-inch pan. In large shallow bowl, combine corn flakes, garlic salt and pepper. Dip chicken pieces in butter; roll in cereal mixture. Place in prepared pan skin side up. Bake 40 to 45 minutes until tender. Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits; place in pan next to chicken. Sprinkle biscuits with cheese. Bake 15 to 20 minutes until biscuits are golden brown. Serve immediately. (Refrigerate leftovers.) Serves 4 to 6.

*In the South, biscuits that fry in the same pan with chicken are traditionally called "Chicken Biscuits."

FRIED PIES

8 ounce can refrigerated buttermilk or country style biscuits
1 1/4 cups prepared apple, cherry, blueberry, peach or apricot pie filling Powdered sugar

In large skillet or deep fat fryer, heat 2 inches of oil to 350 degrees*. Separate biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Press two biscuits together; press or roll each to a 7-inch circle. Place 2 tablespoons of pie filling in center of each biscuit. Fold dough in half; press edges with fork to seal. Prick top. Fry in hot oil about 2 minutes on each side until golden brown and done in the center; drain. Sprinkle with powdered sugar. Makes 5 pies.

*Temperature of oil is critical; use thermometer for accuracy.

PEACH OF A BISCUIT LOAF

3 tablespoons butter or margarine, melted
1/2 cup chopped nuts
1/2 cup peach or any flavor fruit preserves

1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cans (8 ounces each) refrigerated buttermilk or country style biscuits
Glaze
1/2 cup powdered sugar
3 to 4 teaspoons milk

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 9x5-inch loaf pan. Combine first four ingredients. Separate each can of biscuit dough into 10 biscuits. Coat both sides of biscuits with preserve mixture; fold in half. Place, folded side down, in greased pan, forming four rows of five biscuits each. Spread any remaining preserve mixture on top. Bake 35 to 40 minutes until deep golden brown and center is done. Cool 5 minutes; remove from pan. Blend glaze ingredients until smooth; drizzle over warm loaf. Serve warm. Makes 1 loaf.

QUICK BISCUIT TOPPINGS

Before baking, preheat oven according to label directions. Separate biscuit dough into individual biscuits. Dip biscuits into melted butter or margarine and into one of the following. Bake according to label directions.

Crumbled cooked bacon
Sesame, caraway or poppy seeds
Grated cheddar or Parmesan cheese
Cinnamon 'n sugar
Herbs (oregano, thyme, or dill weed)
Instant minced onion
Crumbled French Fried onion rings

Chopped peanuts
Coarse salt
Chopped parsley
Dried onion soup mix
Crushed cheese crackers, corn puffs or croutons
Crushed corn flakes, potato or corn chips
Chopped nuts
Grated orange or lemon rind
Cracked pepper

Trichinosis cases on the increase

by GAYNOR MADDOX

Take the case of the tired or indifferent butcher. It is closing time and he must clean up his shop.

There are a few scraps of pork lying around. He scoops them up and throws them into his meat grinder, which is almost full of scraps of beef to be ground for hamburger.

So he turns it on and the hamburger turns out to be a combination of beef

The joys of melon explained

Why do African natives dance for joy when they find a wild water-melon?

Because it's such an important source of water to them. Africa was the original home of the watermelon, then Portuguese navigators picked some up along the African coast and brought them to South America where the natives cultivated them. Watermelons next worked their way up to Florida where the Seminoles took over. Soon they were growing along the Mississippi, as Father Marquette noted in 1673.

Over the years, they grew bigger and bigger, until recently an Arkansas farmer grew one that weighed 138 pounds (not a world's record, however) and sent it to a friend in Chicago. What does one do with a watermelon that big? The friend passed it on to a children's hospital where bug-eyed kids had a slurpin'-good time with it!

The children of American pioneers had a good time eating potatoes, but only the meaty insides. Their parents ate the peelings. Little did the parents know they were eating such a nutritious part of the spud.

Little would you think, if you gnawed on a steak bone, that you'd be considered sensitive or that you had a cultivated taste. But that's what a study at Yale University revealed. Students who enjoyed chewing on a bone were NOT behaving like animals, they said.

The vegetable rhubarb — regarded by some as a fruit — hasn't won any Great Taste Awards although it's been around since 2700 B.C., according to one authority who says its place of origin was China. Another authority disputes this contending that it came from Siberia. The latter could be right. Loosely translated, rhubarb means Volga River barbarian.

In its early history, rhubarb was prized for its medicinal properties. Mongols believed a man could use it as a great tonic to restore his strength after a love affair. Or as a cathartic if the love affair proved to be a bust. Did rhubarb reach our shores in 1778, or was that the year England started making tarts and pies with it? Again, authorities disagree. Another rhubarb.

Slow cooking has no advantage: expert

Consumer educators at Cornell University say food prepared in slow cookers is not necessarily nutritionally superior to the same food prepared by other methods.

Those who claim slow cookers eliminate loss of nutrients through steam overlook the fact that nutrients never are lost in steam no matter what cooking utensil is used. Steam consists of water vapor alone. (UPI)

No link of eggs and cholesterol: study

A researcher at Purdue University here found reduced serum cholesterol levels in a group of men who ate an extra egg daily for four months, but also exercised regularly.

Prof. A. H. Ismail's four-month long research tested two groups of men in the 21-to 67-year-age bracket. Ismail said he found cholesterol levels unchanged in the group that was inactive while on the extra-egg-a-day diet. (UPI)

After meal clean-up

Apply a no-stick cooking spray to pots, pans and casserole before cooking with them. Crusty food particles can be washed away easily later. Use a no-stick spray on a barbecue grill or skewer and on a colander to keep pasta from sticking.

and pork. And that is the beginning of a dangerous story.

There were 285 cases of trichinosis reported last year — nearly 2.5 times greater than any of the past five years. Why? At the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Dr. Peter Schantz, epidemiologist in the Parasitic Disease Division, says:

"THE REASON probably is that more raw pork was mixed in with raw beef trimmings to sell as hamburger. As some pork is known to carry trichinosis unless thoroughly cooked, and as hamburger is cooked only a short time, the hamburgers may transmit trichinosis to those who eat them.

"There seem to have been several more proved cases of butchers grinding pork trimmings with beef. That might explain the greatest number of cases," he says.

The Center for Disease Control has alerted state health officials. Thirty-four cases of trichinosis involving pork in ground hamburger were found nationwide. Of these, 28 cases were in New Jersey.

THE COMBINING of pork scraps with beef scraps is illegal in most states. It is also an ethical violation of trust with those whose religion prohibits the eating of pork.

Dr. Schantz says: "New immigrants often bring with them a thorough trust of pork products free of trichinosis. In Portugal, Germany and Italy the public inspection system of pork products is so thorough that fear of trichinosis does not exist. They cook pork, and also eat it raw, as in the old country.

"In the United States these immigrants assume that we inspect pork the same way. Result: increase in cases of trichinosis in the United States. Also, of course, the careless cleaning of meat grinders which results in the unintentional addition of pork leftovers. The public needs to be more cautious about the hamburger it buys. Is it all-beef as advertised? Rely only on reputable butchers."

THE MEAT TRADE fears all references to trichinosis. But they must face the fact that this threat to consumers is real. Admittedly, it is not overwhelming. It can be managed by tougher meat inspection and more general information, not less, about the threat of trichinosis in some pork products.

At the National Live Stock and Meat Board in Chicago, David M. Stroud, president, says: "We do not deny the existence of trichinosis in some pork (It has also been found in walrus, elk and bear). But the data shows that there is a probability of only .002 in grain-fed swine."

To kill trichinosis, Dr. Schantz warns: "Cook all pork until all pink has vanished in the meat." The Live Stock and Meat Board advises the use of a meat thermometer. When cooking pork roasts, for example, cook until the thermometer registers 170 degrees Fahrenheit.

Tips for buying mushrooms

Fresh mushrooms are available year-round and can add a delicate flavor to hundreds of dishes, both plain and fancy. For best cooking results, check the quality of the mushrooms before buying.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says freshness, color and shape are the three points to consider in checking for quality. Mushrooms should be clean, firm and fresh-looking and of a small to medium size. Look for mushrooms with caps closed up around the stem or open moderately, with pink or light-tan gills on the underside. The mushrooms should be white, creamy or tan in color.

Avoid poor quality mushrooms that show signs of disease, decay or over-ripening, such as discolored or pitted caps or brown or black gills. Signs of age include withering or wide-open spaces exposing the gills.

Mushrooms are highly perishable and should be purchased for immediate use. Keep them refrigerated in plastic wrap and wash just before using.

ALTHOUGH MUCH of her cooking reflects French and Italian influence, Beverly Ragusa also is noted for her baked delicacies, particularly this Cream Cheese Coffee Cake.

Cook blends diverse backgrounds

by LOIS SEILER

Although her married name denotes Italian lineage, Beverly Ragusa of Arlington Heights is of French-Canadian extraction. Much of her cooking reflects the French influence, but it also encompasses other ethnic cultures. Her husband, Carmi, enjoys French recipes, while their two daughters prefer the more highly-seasoned Italian dishes. Beverly also likes to prepare roasts, dressing them up with unusual vegetable dishes.

The Ragusas enjoy entertaining and Beverly plans menus to suit her guests. If she knows they appreciate French cooking, she would be likely to serve Roast Duck, made from a recipe originated by a chef from Normandy, France.

THE METHOD OF preparation is unique. The ducks are halved and browned in a skillet, then roasted at a high temperature to draw off as much grease as possible. The oven temperature is reduced and the ducks finish baking slowly at a lower heat, basted frequently with both red and white wine.

This entree draws compliments from guests because of the subtle flavor and moist texture of the ducks. As accompaniments, Beverly recommends Uncle Ben's Long Grain and Wild Rice, asparagus and glazed carrots. She always makes her own French bread and yeast rolls.

Beverly maintains that an elegant dinner party requires at least two days of preparation. She makes a variety of appetizers and at least two desserts because Carmi likes to have a choice.

ALONG WITH cocktails prior to the duck dinner, she suggests a hot appetizer, a cheese spread and a raw vegetable tray with Beau Monde seasoned dip. One of her favorite appetizers is tasty Mushroom Squares, which are economical and easy to prepare. These can be made ahead by spreading toast squares with a mixture of chive-flavored cream cheese and chopped mushrooms. They merely are popped under the broiler a few minutes before serving.

Beverly is noted for her baked delicacies, primarily her Cream Cheese Coffee Cake, which draws raves from church potlucks and coffee parties.

MORE OF A PASTRY than a coffee cake, it consists of a custard-like cream cheese filling between two thin layers of pastry which are topped by meringue and a sprinkling of chopped nuts. A thin confectioners' sugar icing is drizzled over the top. Rich and delicious, it makes an impressive second dessert for Beverly's dinner parties.

The Cream Cheese Coffee Cake recipe also is featured in St. James Catholic Church's cookbook under Beverly's name. She is active in the church's choir and Parents' Club and recently was in charge of the parish's spaghetti dinner. Another of her favorite activities is gardening.

ROAST DUCK

2 ducks, about 3 pounds each
Salt and pepper
Poultry seasoning
Flour

Sliced apples

$\frac{3}{4}$  cup red wine

$\frac{3}{4}$  cup white wine

Saw the ducks in half. Remove as much fat from cavity as possible. Season them inside and out with salt, pepper and poultry seasoning. Roll ducks in flour. Fry in a small amount of vegetable shortening or oil in a skillet until golden brown.

Place duck halves in roasting pan and bake, uncovered, in a 450 to 475 degree oven about 45 minutes. Remove grease as it drains off, every 10 to 15 minutes. The ducks should be well-browned, but watch carefully so they don't burn.

Reduce temperature to 250 degrees. Place sliced apples in pan around ducks, cover and bake approximately 2 additional hours. Baste every 15 minutes with the wine.

Remove ducks to serving platter and arrange apples over them. For gravy, use pan drippings. Serves 4.

This can be made a day ahead and stored in refrigerator. Reheat under broiler.

MUSHROOM SQUARES

9 slices bread

6 ounces chive cream cheese, softened

1 tablespoon softened butter or margarine

$\frac{1}{4}$  teaspoon onion salt

1 can (3 ounces) chopped mushrooms, drained

Remove crusts from bread and cut into four squares or strips. Toast on one side under broiler.

Combine remaining ingredients and spread on soft side of bread. Sprinkle with paprika. (Refrigerate at this point, if desired.) Before serving, broil for 4 minutes until brown. Yield: 3 dozen appetizers.

CREAM CHEESE COFFEE CAKE

1 cup butter
 $2\frac{1}{2}$  cups flour
1 envelope dry yeast
4 tablespoons Half and Half
1 tablespoon sugar
4 egg yolks
Cut butter into flour as you would for pie dough. Mix together yeast and Half and sugar and stir until yeast is dissolved. Add to flour-butter mixture. Let set for a half hour at room temperature.

Beat egg yolks with a fork and add to above. Mix well. Divide dough in half and roll each half on waxed paper to fit a 10 by 15-inch pan. (This is a very rich dough.) Place one of the halves in the bottom of pan.

Out of sugar, out of luck?

Substitutes may save the meal

It's a rainy afternoon and you've decided to bake cookies for your children's after school snack. You assemble the ingredients and are about to begin mixing them when you realize you don't have enough butter or margarine. You hate to make a trip to the store in the rain. What can you substitute?

Or maybe your dinner is almost ready and you are making gravy. When adding flour, you find you do not have enough to make the amount of gravy you need. What can you do?

All is not lost. Although you will be taking a chance by not following a recipe's directions, there are some ingredients you can substitute in emergencies:

Baking powder: In place of one teaspoon baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon baking soda, plus five-eighths teaspoon cream of tartar or one-half cup yogurt or buttermilk will yield the same rising action. Use two teaspoons regular baking powder to replace one teaspoon double-acting baking powder.

Butter: For one cup of butter, substitute the same amount of margarine; seven-eighths cup lard or vegetable oil, or seven-eighths cup shortening plus one-half teaspoon salt. When oil is substituted in baked goods, the finished product will have a spongier texture and greater volume than usual.

Buttermilk: One cup buttermilk and one cup yogurt are interchangeable.

Chocolate, unsweetened: In sauces, three tablespoons cocoa plus one tablespoon butter or fat may be used in place of one ounce of chocolate. But in baking, using cocoa instead of chocolate may make a cake too doughy.

Egg yolks: When used for thickening, one whole egg can take the place of two egg yolks.

Flour: In baking, these ingredients may be used in place of one cup all-purpose flour: one and one-eighth cup cake flour; one cup finely milled whole grain flour; and one and one-third cup rolled oats.

When using presifted flour in cakes instead of all-purpose flour, use one tablespoon less per cup called for in the recipe and sift it again. When a recipe calls for cake flour, seven-eighths cup all-purpose flour may be used in place of one cup cake flour.

Milk: These ingredients may replace one cup of whole milk: one-half cup evaporated milk plus one-half cup water; one cup water plus one and a half teaspoons butter.

Sour cream: Three tablespoons butter plus seven-eighths cup buttermilk or yogurt may be used to replace one cup of sour cream.

Sour milk — To replace one cup of sour milk, use the same amount of buttermilk or add one tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice to one cup minus one tablespoon milk and let stand for five minutes.

Sugar: This can get tricky. Sugars, whether solid or liquid, really shouldn't be interchanged in baking or cooking and a cook is taking a risk not using the sugar called for in the recipe.

But in an emergency, the following ingredients may be substituted for one cup granulated sugar: one and three-fourths cup confectioners' sugar (but not in baking, as it will produce a different texture in the finished product) or one cup firmly packed brown sugar.

Two cups corn syrup may replace one cup granulated sugar, but when cooking, replace no more than half the amount of sugar called for in the recipe. When using corn syrup in baked goods, reduce other liquids in the recipe by one-fourth cup for every cup of sugar replaced. Three-fourths cup maple syrup can be used in place of one cup granulated sugar, but when baking, reduce other liquids in the recipe by one-fourth cup for every cup of syrup substituted.

One cup honey will replace one and one-fourth cups granulated sugar, but other liquids in the recipe should be reduced by one-fourth cup. Using honey instead of sugar may cause the product to be too brown. To neutralize the acidity of the honey (unless the recipe uses sour milk or sour cream), add a pinch of baking soda. If honey is substituted in jellies, jams or candies, a higher cooking temperature must be used.

Yeast — One package or one scant tablespoon of active dry yeast equals a three-fifth ounce cake of compressed yeast.

Mozzarella Meatloaf

Italian-style topping dresses up meatloaf

There must be something soothing in Italian dishes since so many Americans enjoy versions of Old Country favorites. This one makes use of canned spaghetti sauce with meat, mozzarella cheese and olives. Serve with a salad and possibly a fruitwine punch for company.

MOZZARELLA MEATLOAF

2 to 3 medium-sized onions grated
2 pounds ground round or chuck
1/2 cup chopped olives
2 pieces of stale sliced bread, crumbled
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 cup water

1 can (15 ounces) spaghetti sauce with meat 1/2 pound mozzarella cheese, sliced
3 or 4 olives, sliced
Combine all ingredients except mozzarella and sliced olives. Use half a can of spaghetti sauce with meat. Divide meat mixture in half. Place half in bottom of baking dish. Form into 8 by 4 by 1-inch loaf. Place mozzarella slices on top. Then use remainder of meat mixture to form top of loaf. Seal sides and ends. Bake at 350 degrees for one hour. Pour remaining sauce on top; bake for 10 more minutes. Garnish with sliced olives. Serves 6 to 8.
(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Wintertime soups

Dish up a speedy supper

Whether it is served as a complete family meal or an appetizer for guests, soup provides delicious nourishment on a cold day. Even when made from scratch, soup can be prepared quickly and with little fuss. Speedy Sole Chowder makes a complete meal appropriate for Lent, while Swiss Mushroom Consomme can be served as an appetizer or as an accompaniment to sandwiches when guests are over for dinner.

SPEEDY SOLE CHOWDER

1 package (1 pound)
frozen sole fillets
1 1/2 cups water
1 bay leaf
1 slice onion

1/2 teaspoon salt
1 package (10-ounce) frozen mixed vegetables
2 cans (10-ounce) condensed tomato bisque or tomato soup
1/8 teaspoon sugar
Place block of frozen fish fillets in 10-inch skillet or large saucepan. Add water, bay leaf, onion, salt and mixed vegetables. Cover, bring to a boil, then reduce heat immediately and simmer 6 to 8 minutes. With fork, gently break fish into bite-sized pieces. Stir in soup and sugar. Cover and simmer over low heat 3 to 4 minutes until soup is heated thoroughly and vegetables are tender. Serves 4.

SWISS MUSHROOM CONSUMME

1 pound fresh mushrooms or 2 cans (6 to 8 ounces each) sliced mushrooms
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cans (10 1/2 ounces each) condensed beef broth
2 soup cans water
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
1/4 cup sliced scallions or green onion
2 tablespoons dry sherry
(optional)
Rinse, pat dry and slice fresh mushrooms or drain, canned mushrooms.
Melt butter in a large saucepan. Add mushrooms; saute for 5 minutes. Add beef broth, water, nutmeg and black pepper. Bring to a boil. Reduce heat and simmer, uncovered, for 5 minutes. Stir in scallions and sherry.
Simmer, uncovered, for 1 minute.
Makes 6 1/2 cups.

Large avocado crop may mean low prices

Good news for avocado eaters: growers in California predict this year's crop will be 265 million pounds, more than double that of 1976.

Retail prices in February and March are expected to be about three or four times for $1 throughout the country.

Growers said they will continue to expand their acreage. The 40,000 acres now planted are about double that of 15 years ago.

California growers expect to produce more than 85 per cent of the avocados available this year in the United States. Most of the remainder are from Florida. (UPI).

Cooking for two made easy

Cooking for two can be frustrating, especially if you're a little weak on math. Often it is necessary to convert a recipe designed for six, eight or more servings, which can be a bother.

Here are some recipes that call for basic ingredients in the quantities needed to help you with your shopping. Many of the items you already have stocked on your kitchen shelves.

ROYALE ROUND STEAK

- 1/2 pound round steak (3/4-inch thick)
- 2 tablespoons shortening
- 1 can (7 1/2 ounces) semi-condensed tomato royale soup
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 teaspoons bottled meat sauce
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- Cooked rice

Pound steak, cut into serving-size pieces in skillet, brown steaks in shortening; pour off fat. Add remaining ingredients. Cover. Cook over low heat 1 1/2 hours or until done. Stir occasionally. Serve with rice. Serves 2 to 3.

SAVORY CHICKEN

- 1 chicken breast (about 1 pound), split
- 1/4 cup finely chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cans (7 1/2 ounces each) semi-condensed golden chicken and noodles soup
- 1/2 cup water
- 1/3 cup chopped turnip
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1 cup biscuit mix
- 1/3 cup milk

In saucepan, brown chicken and cook onion in butter until tender. Add soup, water, turnip and parsley. Cover; cook over low heat 20 minutes. Stir occasionally. Meanwhile, combine biscuit mix and milk with fork. Drop by spoonfuls onto pieces of chicken. Cook uncovered 10 minutes. Cover, cook 10 minutes more.

CALICO MACARONI

- 2 slices bacon
- 2 frankfurters, sliced
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 1 can (14 1/2 ounces) elbow macaroni and cheese
- 1 can (about 8 ounces) drained peas and carrots
- 1 tablespoon hot dog relish
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper

In saucepan, cook bacon until crisp; remove and crumble. Brown frankfurters and cook onion in drippings until tender. Stir in remaining ingredients except bacon. Heat; stir occasionally. Garnish with bacon. Makes about 3 cups. Serves 2.

CHILI-STYLE FRANKS

- 1 cup sliced frankfurters
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 2 cans (about 7 1/2 ounces each) semi-condensed old-fashioned bean soup
- 2 tablespoons ketchup
- 1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1/2 teaspoon chili powder

In sauce pan, brown frankfurters in butter. Stir in remaining ingredients. Heat; stir occasionally. Serve over rice or biscuits. Makes about 2 cups, serves 2.

Fruits make quick desserts

Combine broken bits of stale bread with a can of fruit cocktail until the bread is softened. Mix fruit and bread with instant packaged vanilla pudding prepared according to package directions. Quick, easy and delicious, this dessert is a budget-stretcher, too.

Drain cling peach slices and combine with sweetened sour cream and a sprinkle of cinnamon. Turn into an unbaked pie shell and bake in hot oven until crust is brown.

Take a Herbix break instead... still less than 5 a hearty cupful

Chicken, beef get isle flavor

Each year on the sunny island of Jamaica, a National Culinary Arts contest is held, with hundreds of cooks from all parishes — or counties — competing for top prizes.

Jamaicans think highly of food, and they enjoy it to the fullest. They love to eat, and they eat well. Most of the cuisine of Jamaica has been influenced heavily by different peoples who have come to the island's shores, beginning with Columbus almost 600 years ago. Through the centuries, travelers have adapted the dishes of their homelands to the island's bounty — the lush fruit and vegetables, the abundance of seafood and fish.

For example, a banana dressing adds a different taste to baked chicken. Another Jamaican recipe for beef patties is as popular on the island as hamburgers are in the United States.

BAKED CHICKEN

WITH BANANA STUFFING

- 1 6-pound roasting chicken or capon (prepared for cooking)
- 2 1/2 cups fresh bread crumbs firmly packed
- 1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 medium onion, chopped
- 1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
- 1 1/2 cups ripe bananas, diced (2 to 3 medium size)
- Additional melted butter or margarine (for basting)

Pre-heat oven to 350 degrees. In a large mixing bowl combine bread crumbs, poultry seasoning, salt, onion, butter and bananas. Fill cavity of chicken with stuffing. Skewer or sew cavity closed.

Place chicken in an uncovered roasting pan, brush chicken with melted butter. Bake for 1 1/2 hours or until golden brown, basting with additional butter several times during cooking. Remove chicken to warm platter and allow to stand for about 15 minutes before carving. (Gravy may be made in the usual manner from pan juices or with favorite recipe.) Serves 6.

JAMAICAN BEEF PATTIES

- Filling
- 2 medium onions, chopped
- 1 tablespoon oil
- 1 pound ground beef
- 1 tablespoon chili powder or 1 chili pepper chopped
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
- 4 slices white bread, wet, squeezed and grated

In a skillet, saute onions in oil until golden brown. Add meat, chili powder, salt and pepper. Cook over medium heat until meat is browned, stirring occasionally. Stir in grated bread. Remove pan from heat and allow filling to cool.

Pastry

- 2 cups flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 7-8 tablespoons cold water
- 1 egg, slightly beaten

Pre-heat oven to 400 degrees. Into a large mixing bowl sift flour, baking powder and salt. With two knives or a pastry blender, cut shortening into flour mixture until flour-coated particles are the size of peas. Sprinkle water 1 tablespoon at a time over flour mixture, mixing with a pastry blender or fork until mix is evenly dampened. Press pastry into a ball.

Roll out pastry on wax paper or lightly floured board. Using a 3-inch pastry cutter, cut dough into circles. Place 1 tablespoon of filling mix onto each circle of dough. Fold over and press neatly together; brush with beaten egg. Bake for 10 minutes, then turn oven to 350 degrees and continue baking for 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serve piping hot. Makes about 2 dozen.

Cook blends diversified backgrounds

- 2 packages (8 ounces each) cream cheese
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg yolk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 3 egg whites
- 1/2 cup finely-chopped nuts

Combine cream cheese, sugar, egg yolk and vanilla and beat together until smooth. Spread on bottom layer of dough in pan. Place other layer of dough on top. Let set at room temperature for three hours.

Beat egg whites until stiff and soiled on top of cake. Sprinkle with chopped nuts. Bake at 350 degrees for 30 minutes. When cool, prepare the following icing:

- 1 cup confectioners' sugar
- 2 tablespoons hot water
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Mix ingredients together and drizzle over top of cake. Cut in squares and serve. Serves 20 to 25.

Hysterectomy: the psyche suffers most

by BARBARA LADD

Jeri Mercurio, a slim, brunet personnel interviewer from Barrington Park, has no trouble recalling some of her thoughts and feelings surrounding her hysterectomy surgery two years ago.

"I remember so clearly sitting on that examining table and hearing the doctor talking about removing my ovarian cyst," said the middle-aged mother of two. "Then he slyly mentioned the uterus and the other ovary and I thought, 'My God, it's all going...'"

Jeri is one of millions of American women who has had a hysterectomy. In 1975 about 700,000 hysterectomies were performed. $400 million was spent on gynecological fees for those surgeries and 12,000 hysterectomy patients died.

IN RECENT years the Women's Movement has directed criticism toward the medical profession about unnecessary hysterectomies. Anti-surgery advocates point out that hysterectomies in the United States are the second most common surgical procedure (the first is tonsillectomies). They also cite that the rate of hysterectomies is twice as high in the U.S. as in Great Britain.

But Jeri and many other women who have undergone hysterectomies say their surgery was necessary for them.

"You know, a lot of people make doctors out to be knife-happy people," commented Mary M. of Mount Prospect. "But what might be unnecessary surgery for some women would be necessary for others."

MARY SHOULD know. She had her hysterectomy six years ago when she was 33. She had fibroids (benign tumors), and suffered inflammation of glands in the uterine wall (endometriosis) as well as prolapse (uterus has fallen into the vagina). Menstruation was uncomfortable, with exceptionally heavy bleeding and she said it interfered with her family and nursing career. Two of three doctors who examined her said the situation didn't warrant a hysterectomy at that time, she recalled, but they also said she probably would need such surgery sometime in the future.

"I decided to have the hysterectomy done then, when I was healthy and young enough to bounce back easily from surgery," Mary said. "I suppose you could call it elective surgery. But I felt it was necessary."

Although she did not experience any of the old wives' tales about gaining weight, losing interest in sex or going into menopause too early, "I admit I had a peculiar feeling, like the childbearing part of my life is over. But if I lost one of my four children, I knew another couldn't replace him or her."

NOT ALL women who have had hysterectomies are ready to forfeit their childbearing functions. Carole R., Mount Prospect, underwent surgery nine years ago when she was 31 years old. A Pap smear showed abnormal, pre-cancerous cell growth.

A week after her chromatization (surgery to obtain a section of the cervix for study) Carole began to bleed heavily. She went to the emergency room of an area hospital for treatment.

Her doctor walked in griping that he'd prefer to be on the golf course, said Carole.

"Then while they were sewing me up, he asked if I planned to have any more children. I said I thought I would like to have another baby if I ever re-married (she was widowed two years earlier). And he said, quite abruptly I thought, 'Well, I wouldn't plan on it. You need a hysterectomy.'"

SHE CONTINUED: "I remember lying in the emergency room and crying. I just kept thinking 'Here I am all alone. What am I going to do?'"

Carole doesn't argue with the fact that her hysterectomy was a sound medical procedure and she says her doctor's technological skills were fine. But she is still bitter about the unfeeling way she was treated, and the struggle she experienced to get her doctor to explain what was happening to her body.

Gretchen Johnson, who had a hysterectomy four years ago, believes a woman gynecologist might have been more sympathetic to Carole's emotional plight.

"I think for some women a female doctor might be very helpful," Gretchen commented. "At Northwestern Hospital in Chicago there was a woman gynecologist and she thought the men were a little unfeeling about what the hysterectomy patients were going through emotionally."

GRETCHEN, TOO, associates emotional ordeal with her hysterectomy. But her feelings are not centered on the surgery or her doctors at Northwestern. She had advanced ovarian cancer at age 33.

"I wondered whether I was going to make it, and if not, who was going to take care of my children," she said. "Even now, when my husband and I go over those days, we tear up. It was a terribly emotional time for both of us. I think it would have helped us if there had been a counseling group like Reach to Recovery for mastectomy patients."

After her surgery, Gretchen had six weeks of cobalt therapy and now reports that her thoughts about cancer are quite optimistic.

"HAVING THE hysterectomy was nothing like I thought it would be," she said. "When I woke up after surgery, I felt like I had been rowing a boat for a week, but that's about all. And all of those myths about hysterectomies and menopause didn't come true — I have not gained weight, my skin is not sagging to the floor. I feel better every day."

However, some women do report side effects to their hysterectomies. Jean C., from Palatine township, underwent hysterectomy for a tumor eight years ago when she was in her late forties. Since then she has gained 15 pounds and experiences pain during intercourse.

"When doctors say there is no problem about having a hysterectomy, you can't believe them," she says firmly. "Before surgery I didn't know these things might happen. Now my doctor says he can't explain my discomfort."

BUT WHILE some of these women

Why the doctor orders surgery

For many women just the mention of a hysterectomy brings to mind an abundance of misinformation and confusing terminology.

Technically, a hysterectomy means surgical removal of the uterus or womb. Sometimes the ovaries are also taken out and that operation is called something else: bilateral fallopian oophorectomy, although most persons — even some doctors — still refer to it as a hysterectomy.

The operation may be done through the vagina or the abdomen, depending upon the individual's condition. A vaginal hysterectomy leaves no scars on the outside of the woman's body.

OFTEN A HERNIA or rupture of the tissue between the rectum and vagina, called a rectocele, or a hernia of the bladder, called a cystocele, requires a hysterectomy and corrective surgery through the vaginal opening. A prolapse of the uterus, where the organ has lost support and has fallen into the vagina, also may require a vaginal hysterectomy and corrective surgery.

Very large uterine tumors usually require an abdominal hysterectomy since the growths may be too large to safely perform a vaginal operation. Abdominal surgery is also conducted when tumors are suspected on other organs like the ovaries or when cancer of the uterus is being removed. Some doctors worry that the cancer may spread to the vagina if the uterus is removed through that opening.

OTHER CONDITIONS calling for a hysterectomy include fibroids, cysts and endometriosis.

Fibroids are benign tumors of the uterine wall and are common in women over 40 years old. Unless the condition is severe, causing much pain, bleeding and pressure on other organs, many doctors avoid hysterectomies until the woman reaches menopause; often fibroids decrease in size as hormone production lessens.

Cysts are tumor-like growths and may cause the same kind of symptoms as the fibroids.

Endometriosis involves an inflammation of the inside glands in the uterine wall and can cause heavy bleeding or pain.

OFTEN THE AGE of a woman influences the decision to perform a hysterectomy. If a patient is young and wants children, surgeons will try, if possible, to remove the tumor or correct the symptoms without a hysterectomy.

Childbearing ends with a hysterectomy and monthly periods will cease. When ovaries are removed with the uterus, hormone supplements may be prescribed if the woman experiences menopause symptoms like hot flashes.

There should be no weight gain, loss of sex drive, depression or decreased femininity because of a hysterectomy.

report experiencing physical side effects, most say the only problems related to their surgery involved their psyche.

"I had complete faith in my doctor and was not a bit afraid," said Jeri Mercurio. "But I wouldn't say I wasn't affected at all. I did go on a clothes-buying spree right after surgery and I did buy extremely feminine things. Looking back I can see that I had a very restless feeling. You just have to realize that you're just as feminine as before," she said.

A'curling they went

It doesn't matter if you win or lose — it's how you play the game.

The name of the game was curling, not the hair kind, but the 500-year-old Scottish sport played on ice with players sweeping a path to help a huge circle of granite slide into a target zone.

Expertise wielding a household broom was no advantage as the players had to use quick, flurried strokes that would have sent house dust into every corner.

Members of the Mount Prospect Newcomers Club and their husbands, garbed for a fun evening, reported to the Wilmette Curling Center Saturday evening to learn the fundamentals of the sport which they termed a combination of shuffleboard, bowling and perhaps a little croquet.

INSTEAD OF a bowling ball they played with 40-pound stones that slid down the ice — hopefully into the target zone 125 yards away. They aimed for opponents' stones, knocking them out of line, and with their little brooms tried to direct the sliding, spinning stones of their teammates.

Each rink (team) has four players and each player delivers two stones. Points are earned for each stone that is nearer the house (target center) than the closest stone of the opponent.

There were no losers in the clubhouse where players warmed up, created their own pizzas and critiqued their game strategy.

Dowager hump is reader's worry

Some time ago you had a column about "Dowagers Hump." You said it can be helped by certain exercises and that milk should be a good part of the diet.

Could you please tell me what kind of exercises will help? I am thin and have had a hysterectomy and feel great, but my posture seems to be getting bad and I notice the start of this hump.

The hump is associated with a forward rolling of the shoulders — the round-shouldered posture. As the vertebrae in the thorax undergo changes, the vertebral column bends forward.

The key is to try to prevent that spine from bending forward and to prevent the shoulders from rolling forward. You can get some help by increasing the strength of the muscles between the shoulder blades. Use the swimming backstroke type exercises. Just stand up straight and swing both arms forward together — carry the hands high above the head as you swing the hands backward as far as they will go and down to your sides, completing the cycle. Bring the hands up again and repeat the continuous rotation.

You can also use stretch springs or similar devices with handles at each end of the springs. Grasp a handle in each hand while holding the springs in front of you then straighten your arms and pull your hands backward, stretching the springs.

You can also stretch the muscles over the front of the chest. This is important because as the shoulders tend to roll forward these muscles shorten and help to cause the deformity. To stretch these just stand in a doorway and place one hand on each side of the door jamb about the level of your shoulders. Now, lean forward through the door while your hands stay in place. You will feel the pull on the muscles at the front of your chest. You can move your hands up the door jamb a little way and do it again.

In general you want to do exercises that hold your spine up and strengthen the muscles between your shoulders, as well as those that stretch muscles over the front of the chest to prevent pulling the shoulders forward.

INDIVIDUALS WITH more advanced changes from loss of calcium in the spine — osteoporosis — should have the help of a physical therapist. A good therapist can teach you exercises that will help you accomplish the best results. Also it is important to not overstrain weak vertebrae. It is important to learn how to lift without straining the spine and to not lift heavy weights if you can avoid it.

There is a lot more to osteoporosis, prevention and management than these few exercises I have discussed here. I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-10, Osteoporosis: Bone Softening, to give you more information. Others who want this information can send 50 cents for it with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

The diet is important and you need adequate calcium. Milk is the main source for it, but if a person cannot take enough milk, then calcium supplements are usually a good idea. There is quite a bit that can now be done for osteoporosis. Many clinics claim good results from using combinations of calcium, vitamin D and fluoride to strengthen softening bones.

Osteoporosis is the underlying factor in many cases of broken hips and other fractures in people past middle age.

Getting out moisture only answer to mildew

Dear Dorothy: We need help with a mildew problem in a bathroom in which the bath has a shower enclosure. The mildew starts in a corner on a wall on which there is a small window. I wash the black area with a chlorine solution, but next time I check the area has grown larger and the plaster is breaking. The wall has been replastered and painted twice in three years, but the problem is still with us. What's the answer?—Roberta Mathews

Shower enclosures often cause this kind of problem. The great need is ventilation. If it were my bathroom, I'd look for a way to install a ventilating fan. Your immediate task is to scrape away all the mildew, plaster properly and use an epoxy paint containing a mildew preventive. Even so, the mildew will return unless you get the vapors out. In other words, open the window when weather permits, keep the door ajar a bit when a bath or shower is in progress and run a constant patrol so the condition doesn't get started anew.

Dear Dorothy: We often have turkey without stuffing, but I fret about the cooking time. All the charts are for stuffed turkey. Do you have any guide I can follow?—Helen Danziger

Depending on size, turkeys that are not stuffed usually take 30 minutes to an hour less than the time stated for stuffed birds. One way to ease your concern is to check with a thermometer in the thigh.

Dear Dorothy: I can't figure out why herbs like oregano are sold in leaf form if they have to be crushed before using.—Sandy Ballin

Some people use herbs and spices infrequently. The leaf retains the flavor longer, and so it makes sense for them to buy it this way.

Dear Dorothy: I use a regular aluminum pan for omelettes. Whenever the omelettes start sticking the pan needs seasoning. After cleaning, I wipe it with a paper towel dipped in vegetable shortening and let it stay on the lowest heat for 30 minutes. Then the heat is turned off and the pan stays on the burner until cool. No more sticking.—Peggy Crump

A great little project

It's quick, inexpensive

This is one of those projects that everyone enjoys occasionally, since it's small, quickly done and inexpensive. Also, you can do quite a bit of brainstorming and can give free rein to your imagination.

The illustrated key-ring ornament was cut from a cross-section of a well-seasoned branch of hardwood, probably oak. This particular key ring was a gift from a local real estate office whose emblem is a windmill.

The key ring's tiny windmill design was painted freehand, against a suitable background and sky, with acrylic paints and small brushes.

I was interested in using key rings as gift and bazaar items, but my children immediately visualized necklace pendants — so we spent several enjoyable weeks thinking of things to paint on the wooden discs. The project seemed to have no end!

To make your own, you will need to find a good, fairly straight tree branch that has seasoned at least three or four months. Looking through a cord of firewood provided us with all we needed.

THE BRANCH SHOULD be from one and one-half inches to two inches in diameter. The illustrated piece is an oval of exactly these dimensions.

You can cut your own with a power coping saw, or take your selected wood to a willing cabinet maker for cutting.

The disc should be cut at a slight angle, and should be about three-eighths of an inch thick. Remove the bark by whittling or peeling away.

Sand it smooth on the front and the back only, leaving the edges fairly rough, and then drill a small hole near the top, through which you'll thread a key chain or a piece of suede leather thong for a necklace. (Leather thongs may be purchased ready-to-use from most leather goods and hobby shops.)

Next, seal the entire piece with a mixture of one part white shellac and one part shellac thinner or industrial alcohol.

When this has dried overnight, you're ready for the painted decoration.

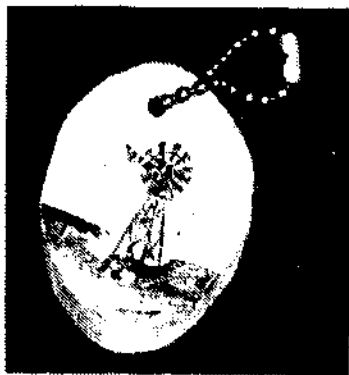

THOSE WHO ARE adept at very small miniature paintings should find this stage particularly enjoyable, since subject matter is endless.

My children, however, with an eye for the ever-popular necklace pendants, spent hours designing pieces featuring everything from emblems for the local junior high schools to college and professional football insignia. (Of course, they also painted many with toadstools, bugs and flowers.)

When your mini-paintings are finished, let them dry overnight and then seal them with a coat of your favorite decoupage glaze or varnish.

These key rings or pendants make great presents to be given by children at Christmas to their friends.

Correct watering makes difference

Gertrude Stein of Alice B. Toklas fame wrote, "a rose is a rose is a rose," but who says "water is water?"

Amling's Flowerland, the country's largest floral firm, recently followed up on Ohio State University Horticultural Department findings that distilled water, in combination with floral preservative, extends the life of a cut flower by up to 100 per cent.

The result is cut flowers (particularly roses) that are still in full bloom at eight days, instead of wilted in four days.

Arthur S. Klecha, director of Amling's Group Floral Services, is convinced that preservatives react much faster and more favorably with distilled water than with tap water — the chemicals in tap water interfere with optimum results. So Amling's will be using distilled water on its live floral arrangements from now on.

HINCKLEY AND SCHMITT, whose distilled water was used for Amling's testing, plans to introduce a new product early this spring — a quart-sized pre-mixed "flower water," which combines distilled water with a floral preservative — no mixing.

Further, home growers can discover the benefit of using distilled water on their houseplants. While it would be expensive to use it exclusively, I've found that when making leaf or stem cutting for propagation, dipping the end of the cutting in distilled water and then in Rootone aids the process. I use distilled water to mist my plants, and also when caring for ailing or buggy plants and when I want to pamper a prized specimen.

Mary B. Good

If your plumbing is tied into a water softener, you'll eventually find that your tap water is not particularly beneficial to your plants. Salt residue will build up on the clay pots, and tender leaves, like African violets, that touch the pot rim may die. At least that's been my observation. (Some people line the pot rim of their African violets with a thin strip of aluminum foil, but that doesn't solve the problem, the salt-treated water.)

ALTERNATIVES TO using water that circulates through a softener include disconnecting the softener, the use of collected rain water, melted snow, or ice melted from defrosting the freezer; lake, spring or well water (if you live in the country) or bottled distilled water. (Have you ever wondered why people line up in the summertime to pump water in the forest preserves?)

Good gardeners avoid using tap water right out of the faucet, even if they don't have a softener. If you must use tap water, let it sit at room temperature in a bucket for 24 hours.

The best method of watering houseplants to promote healthy growth is not by sprinkling from above, but with bottom watering, what I call the "gurgle" method of watering.

FOR THE "GURGLE" method, the potted plant must have a drainage hole in the bottom of the pot. Submerge the potted plant in a 10-gallon pail of water to about one inch over the rim of the pot, maneuvering your fingers around the base of the plant's stem. Hold the soil down with your fingers, so you don't lose the soil, or cut a cardboard collar out of a paper plate to hold down the soil, if you can't manage it.

The thirsty plant will "gurgle," or make a bubbling sound as it absorbs the water. When the plant stops bubbling, lift the pot from the pail of water.

Thorough bottom watering like this allows a plant to go much longer between watering, than if it had been watered with a sprinkling can. The rule of green thumb is: do not water little and often, but thoroughly and less frequently. Then you'll have yourself some super plants!

Air bags in cars seen as optional until 1983

by EDWARD S. LECHTIZIN

The ill-fated buckle-up-before-you-drive seat belts of the early '70s obviously were on the mind of former Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman Jr. when he rejected ordering air bags onto all new cars.

He agreed the inflatable air bags probably could save 12,000 lives a year. But he figured the American motorist would reject air bags because they're largely unknown.

The Rube Goldberg-like ignition interlock system that made drivers and front-seat passengers buckle up before starting the car was the last time the government tried a new safety device. It increased seat belt use for a short period during 1974, but a large number of motorists simply disconnected it and Congress finally banned the device.

DOUG TOMS, the first director of the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, figures the air bag which inflates in less than a second to protect drivers and front-seat passengers would have met the same fate if it was ordered onto all cars.

"The American public has an uncanny perception of moderation and what will benefit them as citizens and help the country without going to excess," says Toms, now head of the Recreation Vehicle Industry Association. "When they perceive the government has gone to excess, they have ways of rebelling."

Toms says the seat belt interlock system was a compromise to begin with. Safety advocates wanted to go all the way with air bags and the auto industry wanted nothing more than the separate — and hard to use — lap and shoulder belts.

"THE SAFETY PEOPLE wanted one big shot, one major thing, and the industry said it was too complicated. I felt the best way to bring about passive restraints was through a phase-in, but that was rejected. Coleman's decision can accomplish that."

Coleman also rejected the "big shot" approach.

"Because of public apprehension about the nature and cost of passive restraints, especially air bags, a premature rejection of passive restraints is possible," Coleman said in announcing agreements with four auto companies for a two-year passive restraint demonstration.

"Such a reaction will be avoided by using the demonstration program to let the public gain more experience on a voluntary basis with both the benefits and limitations of such systems. I believe the government owes the public more exposure to passive restraints before they're mandated."

COLEMAN'S CONCESSION to the auto industry in his last act means that by the end of 1981, fewer than one-half of 1 per cent of the cars on the road will be equipped with the controversial safety device.

An idea that was born a decade ago will be tested in a fleet of cars that will number fewer than 500,000 by the end of 1981. Even if that is successful, the so-called "passive restraint" device still would not begin appearing before 1983.

Rep. John Moss, D-Cal., chairman of the House Commerce Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, called Coleman's action a "non-decision."

"The two-year test program could set back a standard requiring life-saving passive restraints five to eight years," Moss said. He said Coleman should have left the decision to his successor.

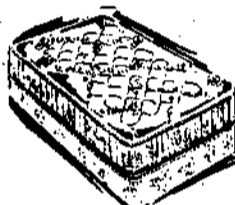

THE AIR BAG is considered a "passive restraint" because it requires no action on the part of the driver or front-seat passengers to protect them in the event of an accident. Current seat belts have to be buckled and the air bag-equipped cars still will need lap belts to protect occupants in anything but a frontal collision.

Beginning in the fall of 1979, Americans who want air bags in their cars will be able to buy nearly 450,000 of them at prices the industry considers bargain basement. Coleman says the industry will have to absorb about $48 million of the expected $86 million two-year program.

Air bags a choice till 1983

General Motors Corp., which sold no more than 10,000 over a three-year period, will offer 300,000 air bag-equipped cars in the 1980 and 1981 model years at a price of $100. The system will provide protection for both the driver and front-seat passenger.

The Ford Motor Co. will charge only $50 for an air bag that protects only the driver. Ford says its driver-only system really should cost the car buyer $130.

MERCEDES BENZ will offer 2,250 luxury models with air bags costing $425 and Volkswagen will continue to offer a "passive" belt system on its top-of-the-line Rabbit models.

Unlike current belts, the VW safety belt is attached to the front door post and secures the driver and front seat passenger when they sit down. VW already has sold about 50,000 passive belts — at a cost of an extra $30 — and reports no fatalities or serious injuries.

Coleman's decision, which could be overturned by newly installed Transportation Secretary Brock Adams if he decides air bags should be installed on all cars, was not entirely satisfying to any group.

Safety advocates and the insurance industry thought it was too little. The auto industry, which would like to stay entirely with safety belts, thought it was too much.

DONALD F. HUELKE, a University of Michigan anatomy professor who has devoted 17 years to the study of safety belts, thinks the government should test the air bag on its own cars. A fleet of 100,000 government-owned cars could provide a good test of the system at a reasonable cost, he contends.

"If a new medicine were as poorly researched as the air bag — really a health-related device — it would not be allowed on the market," Huelke said. "We simply do not have sufficient crash data."

"Of the 100 bags that have deployed in cars, a handful of deaths or injuries were prevented and four people even died."

Huelke prefers a law that would make the use of safety belts mandatory, a prospect that is not likely.

IN HIS AIR bag decision, Coleman said it was doubtful that the federal government could persuade many state governments to pass mandatory seat belt usage laws. Even a federal campaign to increase their use would be of little use, he said.

"It has been estimated that a highly successful program to encourage belt usage would result in no more than 35 per cent lap and shoulder belt plus an additional 5 per cent lap belt usage," Coleman said. "Even an all-out effort would be unlikely to produce voluntary seat belt use above 40 per cent."

Air bag advocates claim the device could save 12,000 lives a year if installed in all cars — an accomplishment that would take almost 15 years even if automakers started installing them today. There are more than 100 million cars on the road and about 7 million are scrapped each year.

COLEMAN AND most belt advocates say that 12,000 lives a year figure could be reached almost overnight if lap and shoulder belt usage in this country reached 70 per cent.

In the Canadian province of Ontario, officials estimated safety belt use increased from 25 per cent in October of 1975 when a mandatory safety belt law went into effect to as high as 85 per cent in March of 1976. The death toll in the first three months of 1976 was down one-third from the previous year.

Partially lost in the decision for the two-year test of air bags is a report on air bag-equipped cars already in use.

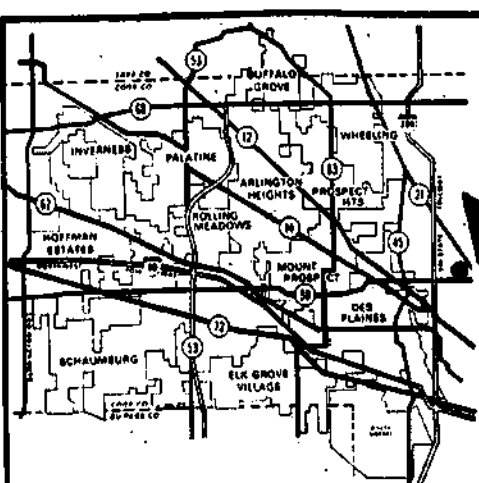

The report compiled by independent investigators for the NHTSA revealed two main conclusions — the inflatable air bags do not afford protection when a car is hit from the side or rear or rolls over and often do not protect infants and small children.

Today on TV

Diane Mermigas

TV becomes kids' playground

A recent study indicates television has replaced fathers and is second only to mothers as a major influential and entertainment source for children. And it's no wonder.

The television set is no longer solely the tool of the networks and local stations. There are taping devices being marketed which allow the viewer to record a show for playback and use the television for video games. The blank television screen now can be used for soccer, tennis and other electronic games.

There is another dimension for this growing home entertainment center called Channel Xtra.

It is a high frequency, relay system which brings unedited, uncensored films, concerts and other features into homes on an open television channel for a price.

THE CHICAGO-BASED operation, which was started only a year ago, has about 5,000 area subscribers and is a branch of a larger company which offers a similar service in the New York City area and boasts in excess of 600,000 national subscribers.

"We are not another television channel, we are only using the television set as our screen," said Gilbert K. Granet, president of Granet-CineVideo Corp., Chicago, which provides Channel Xtra.

"We consider ourselves to be a home entertainment service and not a substitute for going out to the movies because people still enjoy going out even when we're around. We do, however, show very recent films, most of which you cannot see on television," he said.

Channel Xtra is an important alternative to regular television programming because it provides people with lengthy, uninterrupted films and features, he said.

THE ONLY DRAWBACK to the service is that it can be offered economically only to residents of multiple-family housing developments. It is too expensive for most single homeowners to afford because of the electronic equipment required to bring the high frequency program waves to the television set, Granet said.

A master antenna and parabolic receiving plate are installed on the roof of the building and each subscriber unit has a converter box attached to its television set in order to tune in the proper frequency.

The company requires a minimum of 50 subscriber units in each building to offer the service which costs a one-time $25 installation charge and a $12.50 monthly charge for the daily 7 p.m. to 3 a.m. offerings.

The company programs two full-length films or performances every evening and replays each of the film offerings four to five times each month. The Channel Xtra programming changes monthly and subscribers receive a program guide in the mail which lists the times and names of each offering.

GRANET SAID THE programs are set up so the subscriber can view a movie of his choice at a time when it's convenient for him. The control box includes a key lock which parents can use to regulate what movies their children will watch.

Some of the film offerings are restricted or X rated and have included "Emmanuelle," "Hustle," "The Night Caller" and "The Exorcist."

But, Granet prides himself on bringing films to his subscribers "that you won't likely see on television and that you might have recently seen in the movie theaters and would like to see again in your own home," he said.

"Buffalo Bill and the Indians," "Missouri Breaks," "The Beatles' Magical Mystery Tour," "Sherlock Holmes' Smarter Brother," "Funny Lady" and "Blazing Saddles" are some of the recent films featured.

SOME OF THE special performances Channel Xtra has offered included the Ali-Frazier fight, Shakespeare's "The Winter's Tale," "Swan Lake" and the Rolling Stones live on tour.

"We are not trying to be all things to all people," Granet said, "although we are looking for subscriber suggestions for our programming."

The company also is looking forward to multiplying its subscribers two or threefold this year and finding a method of providing the service to individual homeowners at an economical rate.

"It would cost a minimum $2,000 to hook up our system to one house, an expense that is otherwise divided among residents of an apartment or condominium apartment complex," he said.

The projects which participate in the service include Chicago's Sandburg Village and McClurg Court and the Northwest suburb's International Village, Walden, Dundee Quarter and Lake Run complexes.

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.
By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.

The spring-like climate Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.

The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornados, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.

Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.

The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.

"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.

AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.

A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.

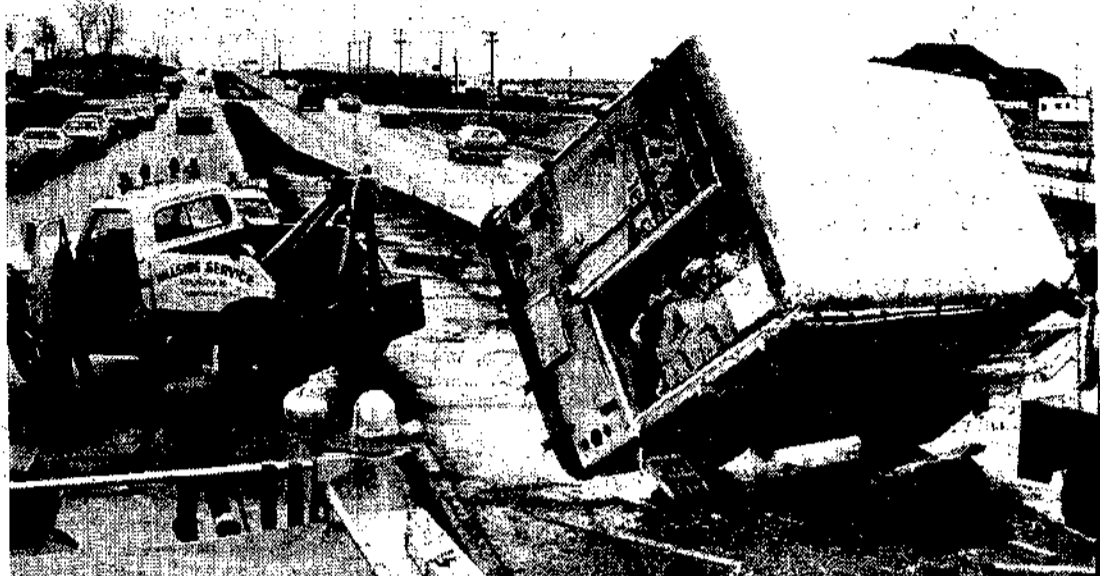

TEN INCHES OF snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.

Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.

"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

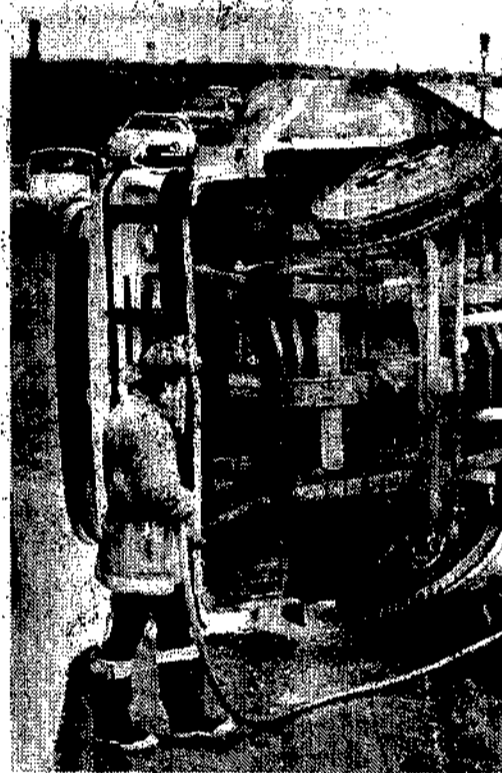

Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

Carter departed slightly from his

Dist. 63 caucus backs Larson, Davis

Incumbent Penny Larson and newcomer Mark Davis Wednesday night were endorsed for seats on the East Maine Township Dist. 63 Board of Education by the district's general caucus.

Larson received 20 votes, Davis 15, and Larry Solomon, 11. Larson and Davis had been endorsed by the caucus nominating committee.

Two 3-year seats are open. Larson is seeking her second term. Barbara Kipnis who has served one term on the board is not seeking reelection.

ALL THREE candidates had filed nominating petitions Wednesday the first day for filing. Solomon, 9164 W. Oaks Ave., Des Plaines, said Wednesday night he was undecided about running without caucus endorsement.

Davis, 9320 B. Noel, Maine Township, is employed by Bel Park Auto, Inc., Chicago and was an unsuccessful candidate for the Dist. 63 board four years ago.

Davis said he is "totally committed to the upgrading of educational services in the community," and could "work cohesively with the administration, other members of the board and the community."

LARSON, 2749 Helen Dr., Glenview, stressed her experience on the board as a reason for endorsement.

Larson was a representative of the Illinois Assn. of School Boards at a recent meeting dealing with regionalization of education.

"Regionalization means a great loss of local control to school districts," she said.

Larson was asked by a delegate whether a new home her husband is constructing out of the district means she would leave before the end of her three-year term. She answered, however, that the job is being done by her husband in his spare time and would take more than three years.

Solomon said his main concerns were decreasing enrollment, underutilization of school facilities and budget deficits.

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, humps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways.

"This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

19 groups seek township's revenue-sharing funds

Nineteen social service organizations in Maine Township have applied for a projected $240,000 in U.S. revenue-sharing funds for fiscal year 1977-78, township supervisor James J. Dowd said.

Although the fiscal year starts March 1, the township's revenue-sharing funds will not be allocated until the annual township meeting April 12.

As a result of dwindling population in the area, the amount of money available to Maine Township through revenue-sharing funds has been cut in recent months, Dee Conroy, deputy clerk, said. She said the amount of money available to the township this year should be about $60,000 less than last year's $290,000.

MAINE TOWNSHIP revenue-sharing funds support 13 programs, four of which receive $25,000 or more: The Maine Center for Mental Health, the Clearbrook Center, the Maine Township Senior Citizens Organization and the Maine Township Council on Alcoholism.

Mental health groups and schools receiving funds from the township are Northwest Suburban Aid for the Retarded, Glenkirk School, and Rimland School for autistic children.

Youth organizations receiving funds are Northwest Suburban Head Start, Northwest Opportunity Center, Maine-Niles Assn. for Special Recreation for the Handicapped, Northwest Suburban Day Care Center and The Hinge, a coffeehouse for youth.

Maine Township revenue-sharing funds also are used to hire additional police to supplement Cook County Sheriff's Dept. officers patrolling the unincorporated areas of the township, Dowd said.

The Niles Library District also receives revenue sharing funds to provide library services to unincorporated area residents.

Dowd said new applicants include the Salvation Army counseling center, RSVP, Kin Inc., the Maine Township Committee on Youth, and the minority referral center. He said the township board also will consider funding for membership in the Northwest Municipal Conference.

17 enter races for school boards

Three candidates entered the race for two 3-year seats on the East Maine School Dist. 63 Board of Education Wednesday, the first day for filing of nominating petitions.

In Des Plaines Dist. 62, three candidates filed for three 3-year terms and in River Trails Dist. 26 three candidates have filed for five seats that will be open in the April 9 election.

At Oakton Community College, three candidates filed for four seats, at High School Dist. 214 two incumbents filed for the two open seats, at Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 one incumbent filed in a race for four seats, and in High School Dist. 207, two candidates filed for two seats.

In Dist. 62, three candidates returned their petitions seeking 3-year terms.

THE CANDIDATES are newcomers Mark Goldman, 100 S. Cumberland Pkwy., Des Plaines and Richard Johnston, 1038 E. Villa Dr., Des Plaines, and incumbent Wallace Meyer, 2181 Plainfield Dr., Des Plaines, who is completing his fourth year on the board.

Incumbents Philip Beck and Stuart Kisten, board chairman, are not seeking reelection.

Joyce Herter, 1110 W. Villa Dr., Des Plaines, has announced she will run for election but has not filed petitions.

In Dist. 63, two 3-year terms are open.

Incumbent Penny Larson filed petitions for her second term, while incumbent Barbara Kipnis, who has served one term, is not seeking reelection.

Two newcomers filing petitions were Mark Davis, 9320-B Noel, Des Plaines, and Larry Solomon, 9164 W. Oaks, Des Plaines.

THREE CANDIDATES entered the race for five seats up for election on the Dist. 28 Board.

Two 3-year terms, one 2-year term and two 1-year terms will be filled in the April 9 election.

Residents who have filed petitions for the three-year terms are newcomers Michael Freeman, 803 Greenwood, Mount Prospect, and incumbent Richard Foster, 414 Grego Ct., Prospect Heights. Foster was appointed to the board in June to fill a vacancy.

Incumbent Joy Daskal, 1806 Apache

Ln., Mount Prospect, entered the race for the two-year term. She was appointed to the board in December, to fill a vacancy.

No one has filed for the one-year terms.

Three residents have taken out nominating petitions, but have not yet filed them, officials said. They are newcomer Richard Carter, 1817 Apache Ln., Mount Prospect, incumbent Patrick Fauceglia, 1415 Althea Dr., Mount Prospect, and incumbent Sylvia Lurie, 122 Bonnie Brae Ln., Mount Prospect.

FAUCEGLIA was appointed to the board in December to fill a vacancy. Mrs. Lurie has served on the board since 1972. Both have said they will seek another term.

One incumbent entered the race for the four seats up for election on the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education.

Avis Wold, 1260 Larchmont Dr., Elk Grove Village, filed for one of the two 3-year positions open on the board. She is seeking her second term.

Four petitions have been issued, but have not yet been filed, officials said. They were issued to incumbent Gerald Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham, Elk Grove Village; incumbent Donald Zommer, 817 Delphia, Elk Grove Village; incumbent Paul Kucharski, 803 Victoria Ln., Arlington Heights; and Saul Cohen, 312 Dorchester, Elk Grove Village.

Two 3-year seats, one 2-year seat and one 1-year seat are open on the board.

ONE INCUMBENT and one newcomer have filed nominating petitions in High School Dist. 207 for two 3-year terms to be filled in the election.

Board Pres. Donald Goll, 115 Columbia St., Park Ridge will seek a second term on the board. Newcomer William F. Tornrose, 630 Wisner, Park Ridge, also filed a petition Wednesday.

Two incumbents entered the race for the two open positions on the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education Wednesday.

Candidates for the two 3-year positions are incumbents Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, who is seeking his fifth term, and John I. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights, who was appointed in September and is seeking his first elected term.

A petition has been issued to Donald McGlothlin, 1047 Carol, Wheeling, but has not been filed, officials said.

THREE PERSONS filed for four seats that will be open on the Oakton Community College Board. College spokesman Beth Kane said several petitions are still out.

Those filing Wednesday are all newcomers: Janet Juckett of Park Ridge, an unsuccessful candidate last year, Roz Evans of Niles, who is a former employee of the Oakton classified staff, and Lloyd Gillet of Niles.

Two 3-year terms and two 1-year terms will be open. Incumbent Stephen Loska of Des Plaines has announced he will not seek reelection, while board chairman Howard Levin is leaving with one year remaining in his term because he has bought a house outside the district.

Incumbent Bernice Lesser of Lincolnwood, who was appointed to the board last August, has said she is seeking her first elected term.

The fourth incumbent whose three-year term expires is Harriet Ritter of Morton Grove who has said she is undecided about running again.

SIX CANDIDATES filed petitions Wednesday for three 3-year seats on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

All three incumbents filed for reelection. William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, made his decision and filed this morning. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

The other incumbents are Robert Rausch, 400 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, 1138A Boxwood Dr., Mount Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms.

Newcomers are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling, Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine, and David Tomchek, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

Harper treasurer William Mann said all six of the candidates were at his office at 8:30 a.m. to file their petitions.

DRAWING NAMES from a hat, he said, determined the order in which they will appear on the ballot: Rausch, Kelly, Anderson, Troehler, Bone and Tomchek.

Mann said he is unaware that any other petitions have been taken out.

Business group backs unit district

The Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce is giving "full support" to the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district.

The association will be developing and distributing position papers, circulating copies of Illinois Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin's letter approving a referendum on the unit district proposal, arranging to have unit district supporters speak to employees of area businesses and calling a public forum on the issue, association Pres. Jim Lancaster said.

The association is supporting the proposed unit school district because it will mean increased local control, stabilization of tax rates, the opportunity to improve the quality of education and improved continuity in curriculum, goals and methods from kindergarten through grade 12, Lancaster said.

"We're going to do all we can to inform residents about the unit district and encourage them to vote 'yes' in the referendum," he said.

The referendum will be April 9, the same day as regular school board elections. If approved by a majority, the unit district would become effective July 1. Only residents in Dist. 59 will be eligible to vote.

The unit district would combine Dist. 59 schools, Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village under one school board and administration. Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts now in the High School Dist. 214 area.

Two ways to find the number you want.

If you need somebody's telephone number, you can pick up the telephone, dial directory assistance, try to remember what so-and-so's first name really is, and whether he spells his last name with an "ei" or an "ie", doodle on your pad as the operator looks up two different last names, (one with an "ie" and one with an "ei"), keep doodling while the operator picks one of the spellings on Maple Lane (you know it's not Maple Lane, but you'd recognize it if you heard it or saw it), listen to the number as she reads it off, write it down and then ask for it again because maybe you got it wrong.

Or you can look it up yourself in your directory.

Pizza vendor rides crust of success on CB waves

THE DOMINICK DICER takes an order for pizzas via Citizens' Band radio. Mark Evenson, owner and sole employee of the Village Inn Pizza eatery in downtown Arlington Heights, credits his CB radio for 65 per cent of the customers attracted to his fledgling business.

by DAVE IBATA

If the adage is true — that to succeed in a competitive field a new business needs a gimmick — a 23-year-old Arlington Heights man has found one that clicks for the pizza trade: Citizens' Band radio.

"My CB radio has helped business an awful lot," said Mark Evenson, proprietor and sole employee of the Village Inn Pizza restaurant, 19 N. Vall Ave., Arlington Heights.

"I would say about 65 per cent of my business is CBers," he said. "It might have taken an awful lot longer to get this far without the CB."

Evenson describes himself as a "CB fanatic," a man who keeps a microphone on the counter of his carry-out restaurant. His portable CB radio goes wherever he goes — to work, in his car, even beside his bed at home.

"ACTUALLY, IT'S MY only social life right now because of the hours I work," said Evenson, who is single. One can find him at the eatery, slapping together hoagies and shoving pizzas into his ovens, up to 14 hours a day.

Evenson set up his business in downtown Arlington Heights in July 1976 after spending $18,000 remodeling. He specializes in pizzas and submarine sandwiches. He has more than enough competition in the Northwest suburbs.

Prospects for success, at best, looked marginal — until he discovered CB radio in August.

"A lady and her husband came in one night and told me about all the people on Channel 20," he said.

"All the people" — all 115 of them — call themselves the DUM, or "Dynamic United Modulators' Club. They pride themselves on a major difference between themselves and other CBers: they don't use "trucker" slang, the "10-4 Good Buddy" lingo of the stereotype CBER.

DUM operates in and around Arlington Heights and has staked out CB Channel 20 as its semiexclusive domain.

EVENSON JOINED the club, purchased a 23-channel CB radio and base station equipment and picked a "handle," or radio nickname: "Dominick Dicer," or "Double D." Shortly after he went on the air, word of his eatery spread over the airwaves.

"They (fellow CBers) suggested I could take orders on the radio," he said. "Basically, the people I'd take orders from mostly are people in the club."

Evenson said, "Most of the time I use it (the radio) for racket-jawing. I never advertise myself."

Today Evenson has a dependable flow of CBing customers. CBers stop at his shop on their way to and from work to pick up something to eat and high school CBers rendezvous at his store on weekends to grab a bite before heading out for a night of cruising.

Village Inn even offers a "CB Special" sandwich — corned beef dipped in boiling beer on a sourdough roll or rye bread with cheese and dressing.

HOWEVER, EVENSON said, "I got the name way before I got into CB radio. It was one of the original sandwiches I started off with. The CB stands for 'corned beef.'"

Evenson does his CBing between 11 a.m., when he opens his shop, until about 5 p.m., when he often stops talking because his radio transmissions leak over into televisions owned by apartment tenants, he said.

"Sometimes we'll talk a little bit at night, and then get calls from people upstairs asking me to turn off my radio," he said.

After prime time, the radio comes back on, and stays on until Evenson closes the store — midnights on weekdays, and 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays. The radio then moves to his car, and from there, into his bedroom, where Evenson has a base station set up on his nightstand.

"Sometimes I fall asleep with the radio going," he said.

WITH THE HELP of his fellow CBers, and any other customer who drops by, Evenson said he hopes to cross the ledger line from red to black.

"If business does go as well as we anticipate, it's a possibility we might open up another store," Evenson said. He added, "But I would say the odds are against it now."

"Hopefully, we'll stick around," he said — doubtlessly with both his restaurant and his CB club in mind.

Dist. 59 OKs after-school kid care

by SHERYL JEDLINSKI

An after-school child-care program will be available in Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 beginning next month.

The Dist. 59 Board of Education this week voted 4 - 2 to help finance a 60-day pilot child-care program at Clearmont School, 280 Clearmont Dr., Elk Grove Village; and Jay School, 1835 W. Pheasant Tr., Mount Prospect. The program will begin March 14.

Board member David Zommer was absent and board members Emil Bahnmair and Paul Kucharski opposed the $1,500 allocation for the program.

THE PROGRAM WILL be weekdays from 3:30 to 6 p.m. at the two schools and will offer remedial lessons, study groups, quiet game activities, arts and crafts projects and recreational activities.

Principals will accept applications for students in kindergarten through grade five. Parents will pay $1 a day for each child enrolled.

Each center will have a minimum enrollment of 25 students supervised teachers, Merlyn Swanson, Dist. 59 administrator of educational services, said. Aides will be added if enrollment increases.

THE DETAILS OF the program were established by a committee representing Dist. 59, the Elk Grove Township Park District and Elk Grove Community Service.

The initial idea for an after-school child-care program came from Clearmont Principal Anthony Mostardo and Jay Principal Joan Gifford who said they recognized many students had both parents working outside the home and had little supervision between the end of the school day and the dinner hour.

Bahnmair, voting against the issue, said, "I'm not questioning the value of the program, I'm questioning whether this is an area we should be in."

KUCHARSKI EXPRESSED concern the program was providing more of a "babysitting service" than an educational service. He said the program mainly would serve children who could benefit from professional help with homework while their parents were working.

"A good educational after-school program has to have some aspects of recreation and rest," Swanson said. "It shouldn't be just a couple of extra hours tacked on to the school day."

Board member Avis Wold told fellow board members they wouldn't be good community representatives if they denied a need for an after-school child-care program exists in Elk Grove Township.

By helping to finance a pilot child-care program, the district can prove it successful and demonstrate its need so other area agencies will assume financing in future years, she said.

"We're not willing to make a commitment for continual funding, but if funding can be established because of our pilot we'll have made a contribution," Board Pres. Judith Zanca said.

The Elk Grove Township Youth Services Committee and Elk Grove Community Service are expected to share the financing of the pilot program with Dist. 59, Swanson said.

Herter to seek election in Dist. 62

Joyce Herter, 1110 W. Villa Dr., Des Plaines, is seeking election to the Des Plaines Dist. 62 Board of Education without caucus endorsement.

Herter said she is running because she believes the board "does not work effectively and is not democratic enough."

A homemaker and registered nurse, Herter said she believes the board last spring was not as responsive to public comment during budget-cut talks as it should have been.

SHE AVOIDED the caucus procedures because the nominating committee is largely made up of former board members and "They only endorse people who will vote their way," she said.

Last week the general caucus endorsed incumbent Wallace Meyer and newcomers Mark E. Goldman and Richard E. Johnston for the three 3-year terms. The election is April 9.

Carl Gulley, 894 Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, spokesman for the Dist. 62 Concerned Citizens for Quality Education, said the group "hopes to discuss the question" of supporting Herter's candidacy, although nothing is formally organized yet.

GULLEY AND JAMES Krabas, 21 E. Millers Rd., Des Plaines, ran unsuccessfully as writ-in candidates last year with the backing of the citizens' group.

Caucus-endorsed candidates Robert Birchfield and James Kosmond received 881 and 880 votes, respectively, while Gulley and Karabas received 690 and 780.

Concerned Citizens for Education was formed last March in protest against the board's proposed budget cuts of $701,884 at that time.

Didier elected to Oakton post

John P. Didier Jr., Park Ridge, has been elected student coordinator by the Oakton Community College Board of Student Affairs.

In addition, three students have been elected to terms on the student board: Debbie Pope, Park Ridge; Barry Shepard, Skokie; and Kevin Stirtz, Wilmette.

The board of student affairs is the student governing organization at Oakton.

DeGrazia settles into suburban consulting

Dan's man on leave from state politics

by STEVE BROWN

Today, Victor deGrazia sits in his Park Ridge office, looking out over the potholes on Northwest Highway. Regarded by many as the man behind former Gov. Daniel Walker, Victor deGrazia has returned from Springfield, bought a home in Long Grove and is beginning a consulting firm in search of clients.

"I decided I needed to make money. That has always been a noble goal," deGrazia, deputy governor in the Walker administration, said. The suburbs are familiar to the man who has been fighting the "good fight" for independent Democrats for the past two decades on every front, from the wards of Chicago's Hyde Park to the statehouse in Springfield.

He said former Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's death offers new opportunities for the suburbs because there are no political leaders who can exert the same type of control in the Illinois General Assembly like the late mayor did.

"WHO DOES THOMPSON call when he needs the Democrats' votes? In the past when Daley needed to deliver a bloc of votes, he could leapfrog the suburban guys and get the votes Downstate.

"Now there are suburban legislators who could work with Daley, but what does a call from (Acting Mayor) Mike Bilandic mean to them," deGrazia said.

DeGrazia said local government officials throughout the state should begin pushing for programs that have direct, automatic funding. He said such a system that gives set percentage payout for programs would end some of the yearly political wrangling over appropriations.

"Look at the way Daley set up the RTA funding with the direct payment. He was a master at that kind of deal," deGrazia added.

WITH HIS FONDNESS for a good political fight deeply rooted in Illinois political legends, deGrazia leaves no doubt that the independent organization developed for Walker will live.

The 48-year-old classical music lover said the Illinois Democratic Fund will continue to pump out a newsletter. The first issue was devoted largely to Walker.

While deGrazia would like to see another Walker campaign, he does not seem to be waiting just for that to happen.

"I'll be down in Springfield in a few weeks to get in touch with a few people. Someone reminded me the other day that even if Walker does not run, there is still a Senate race," deGrazia said.

He said the popular vote getter, U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., was not invincible at the polls.

"THE DEMOCRATS are supposed to be worried about 1978, but if Walker runs against Thompson, he will have his hands full. I don't think Percy will want to get near that. A high quality candidate could handle him," he said.

A restless man not unlike a hungry bear waiting to pounce, deGrazia suggests that the state money shortage that developed almost overnight during the final year of Walker administration was one of the administration's major problems.

"I still don't know what happened. Why the Bureau of the Budget reversed itself in the middle of the legislative session, telling us to cut the budget 6 per cent, I'll never know," he added. The subsequent budget cut triggered a storm of protest and a fight between Walker and the legislature.

DeGrazia minces no words in his analysis of Thompson's first month in office.

"I think he has been lazy. He said the job is harder than he expected. I don't know what he expected," deGrazia said.

"HERE IS A GUY who was a shoe-in and he did not really have anybody picked to serve in the government. There have been comparisons between Carter and Thompson, but Carter, who was involved in a horse race, had people out interviewing people for jobs before the election.

"I think it shows Thompson is ill-prepared for the job," he said.

As he sipped ginger ale from a Mickey Mouse mug, deGrazia said he is prepared to lend his expertise to local governments. And now he waits.

His decision to set up office in the suburbs caused a rumble among some area politicians who wonder privately what he is up to.

In the meantime, he has hung a few pictures and mementos from past political battles on the walls of his office and has settled other possessions, like the Walking Dan Walker paperweight inscribed "to the best friend a walker can have," on the oval table that serves as a desk.

"I will continue to do what I have always been doing. It is terribly important that what we started in outside of Chicago politics continue so I think it will, whether Dan Walker runs for the office or not."

WAITING FOR clients and the next campaign, Victor deGrazia, former Gov. Dan Walker's deputy governor, has formed a consulting firm in Park Ridge.

Regarded as one of the shrewdest of Illinois politicians he leaves no doubt he and maybe Walker will be back on the political scene in the future.

Cherry Pie school reunion plum good for reminiscing

by DIANE GRANAT

The only reason people go to high school reunions, says Dorothy Wood Lunde, Class of 1910, is "to see who has fallen apart the most."

So the 85-year-old alumna of Maine High School in Des Plaines came to Maine East High School Tuesday to see some of her classmates at the school's annual Cherry Pie Festival.

The festival, which since 1930 has honored George Washington on his birthday, this year also honored Maine Township alumni as High School Dis. 207 celebrates its 75th anniversary.

MRS. LUNDE, who has lived in the same house at 322 N. Prospect, Park Ridge, for the past 70 years, came to the festival with her brother-in-law Erling Lunde, also of the Class of '10.

It was at Maine High School 67 years ago, Lunde told students, that he first kissed his future sister-in-law Dorothy in a school play. But his older brother married her and "I claimed ever since that he got her second hand because I kissed her first," Lunde said.

Besides occasional romance in their class of 18 students, Lunde said he and his friends kept busy studying English, spelling, history, Latin, German, physiology and penmanship — subjects many educators wish were still the required fare in high schools.

The school the Lundes attended, located on Thacker Street in Des Plaines, accommodated about 100 students in 1910 — a tiny roll compared to the four Maine Township high schools that now have almost 12,000 students.

THE THACKER STREET school, Lunde said, had no cafeteria, so a group of boys calling themselves the "Hungry Seven" used a bunsen burner and sat at the bottom of a staircase to make cocoa and eat sandwiches during the school day.

Mrs. Lunde recalled that teachers back in 1910 were much stricter than they are today. She said one Valentine's Day a group of girls had a dinner party and because it was before the car era, "we had to go home on the 11 o'clock train."

But even with an early curfew "we were failed for a month by our language teacher for having a mid-week party — even though it was with our parents' consent and in our homes," she said.

The Lundes were not the only alumni telling stories to 150 students eating cherry pie in the cafeteria of Maine East, 2801 Dempster St., Park Ridge. They were joined by at least one representative of each decade since 1910.

RUSSEL KOBOW, Class of '29, remembered the variety show he and some friends presented one year. "The show consisted of a couple of my classmates dressed up as chicks, with grapefruits as the upper parts," Kobow said, (pointing to his chest).

David Wolf, Class of '48 and a candidate for mayor of Des Plaines, recalled that the 1940s were the "era of music at Maine" with students interested in "the new dances, the new pop artists and Sinatra."

For most of the alumni who returned to their old school district, the size of Maine East impressed them the most. The school, built in the early 1930s, has had several additions and now has about 3,500 students.

"Students now have many more opportunities to develop than we did, but we had more personal contact with our teachers and classmates," Mrs. Lunde recalled. "Many of my classmates have been life-long friends."

Erling Lunde, dressed in a three-piece suit with a Bicentennial tie, said today's "young people dress terribly. But they'll get over that, just like we got over our bad habits."

What were Lunde's bad habits at the turn of the century? "I wouldn't practice the piano," he confesses. "I'd rather play baseball."

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.
By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.
The spring-like climate Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.
The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornados, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.
Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.
The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.
"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."
Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."
Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.
AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.
A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.
A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.
TEN INCHES OF snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.
Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.
"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.
The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.
Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

No teacher firings, fund cuts expected

Dist. 21 budget plan brighter this year

by DIANE GRANAT

Almost a year ago, Wheeling Township Dist. 21 was in an uproar. With a $1 million budget deficit predicted for this year, hundreds of teachers and residents jammed board of education meetings to protest the firing of 60 teachers and other cutbacks.

Now, as the district begins its budget planning for the 1977-78 school year, administrators give a tentatively good forecast for the district's financial condition.

No teacher cutbacks are expected and other large budget cuts experienced last year also will be avoided, school officials said. They also say it may be possible to restore some items cut last spring.

"I think we're in fairly good shape for the moment," Supt. Kenneth Gill said. He said, however, the district's budget plans for next year are tentative because the administration can only "make an educated guess as far as what our resources will be."

LAST YEAR'S predicted deficit led to the elimination of 50 full-time teaching positions and prompted a confrontation between the board and teachers' union about the interpretation of the district's budget figures.

Many of the fired teachers were rehired this year because of attrition. About 10 teaching positions were reinstated this fall when additional state aid and budget money became available.

John Barger, associate superintendent, said although the district's spending next year is expected to exceed its income there is a sufficient cash balance to cover a deficit.

"We are not planning any teacher cutbacks," Barger said. He said enrollment will drop in some schools but teachers will be transferred to other schools in Dist. 21.

IN THE 1977-78 school year the ratio of teachers to students will remain the same as this year, Barger said. In elementary schools the ratio will be one teacher to 21 students and in kindergarten it will be one teacher to 25 students. In the junior high schools the ratio will be one teacher to 18.5 students.

In this school year's budget the board planned for a ratio of one teacher to 22 students, Barger said. That ratio was lowered this fall, however, to one to 21, he said.

The district also is setting a class size goal for 1977-78 of a maximum of 25 students in the primary grades and 30 students in the intermediate grades, Barger said. He said no class size goal was set last year.

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, lumps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways. "This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

BISON BACKER. Buffalo Grove fans had a lot to cheer about Wednesday night as the 24-1 Bison captured the Mid-Suburban League championship by defeating host Rolling Meadows, 69-55. — Sect. 2, Page 1.

SPRING SHOWERS will continue — and it's not even spring. Today will be mild and windy with showers likely. High in the mid 50s, low around 30. Rain will be mixed with snow tonight. Friday will be cloudy and colder with a high near 40.

Village seeks $570,000 from rural fire district

Wheeling officials will ask the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District for approximately $570,000 to operate the village fire department in 1977-78, increased from the $330,000 received a year ago.

Wheeling Village Mgr. Terry L. Zerkle said he will ask the district to pay for 75 per cent of the proposed $762,417 fire department budget. In 1976-77, Wheeling received about 50 per cent of the department's operating expenses from the fire district.

Zerkle said the higher amount is Wheeling's "fair and proper share" of tax revenues supporting the village fire department.

The fire district serves residents in the Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights area. In the past, Wheeling has received 60 per cent of the district revenues with the remainder going to Buffalo Grove.

"IF YOU LOOK at the assessed valuation, the total land area and where the calls are, the percentages are very comparable, Wheeling covers about 75 per cent," Zerkle said.

Village officials estimate that Wheeling covers about $119,986,236 or 71.9 per cent of the district's total assessed valuation of $166,872,853. He said the village covers about 80 per cent of the land area.

Wheeling records show 74.8 per cent of the municipal department's fire and ambulance calls were within the district, Zerkle said.

THE WHEELING Fire Department is owned and operated by the village. The district, however, collects the tax money and contracts with the municipal department for its services. A portion of Wheeling is not in the fire district but is served by the municipal fire department.

Zerkle said the village estimates the cost of running the department in 1977-78 will total about $762,417, including salaries, pensions and insurance. He said the proposed construction of a new main station, a branch station and purchase of a new pumper will cost an additional $1,055,000.

The proposed 1977-78 budget includes the salaries for three firefighters and a captain. Zerkle said the men are needed because of high overtime costs of men working extra hours to cover staff shortages.

ZERKLE SAID he also will ask the fire district board to help finance the branch station and the new pumper. The branch station will be west of the Soo Line tracks and south of Hintz Road.

Trustee Otis L. Hedlund said the village "should request every dime we can possibly get."

"We should expect that 80 per cent of our budget come from the district. I'm sure they will be hard pressed to reach it but we have grounds for asking," he said.

Zerkle will meet with the fire district board at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Buffalo Grove Fire Station, 505 W. Dundee Rd.

Village nixes Prospect water bid

Prospect Heights' request to Wheeling for water for the northern section of the city has been rejected by the

Man seriously injured; thrown from his car

A 52-year-old Carpentersville man was seriously injured Wednesday morning when he was thrown from his car as it rolled into a ditch after two cars crashed in Hoffman Estates, police said.

Emmet Whitten was reported in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Sherman Hospital, Elgin, Wednesday night.

Police said Whitten was injured when the car he was driving collided with an auto driven by John Wolfe, 17, of Elgin, at Higgins and Barrington roads at 5:57 a.m. Wednesday.

Police said Whitten's car was east-bound on Higgins when Wolfe's car pulled onto Higgins from Barrington Road into the path of Whitten's car. The cars collided, and Whitten's auto slid, hit a curb and rolled into a ditch, police said.

Wheeling Village Board.

The village board Tuesday denied the request from Prospect Heights Mayor Richard Wolf after Larry Oppenheimer, village public works director, said the village water distribution and storage system is inadequate to supply the city.

Wolf said the request for water "precipitated from a litigation discussion" about a disannexation suit filed against Prospect Heights by the owners of 80 acres at Schoenbeck and Hintz roads.

Prospect Heights is attempting to negotiate a settlement with residents who wish to disannex so they can hook into the Wheeling water supply. If Wheeling agrees to provide water to Prospect Heights, the dispute could be resolved.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS, which incorporated in January 1976, has no municipal water system. Most residents have private, shallow wells.

Village Atty. John Burke said Wheeling trustees passed a resolution in the 1960s prohibiting contracts for water services with unincorporated areas. Burke said trustees could overrule the resolution, but "I don't know if the village wants to undertake this kind of thing."

"If you start supplying water to one area, then you'll start having lines all over," he said.

Trustee John Cole said he can't see supplying water to Prospect Heights when the village has experienced a water shortage.

"We just went through a water shortage this summer where we couldn't water our lawns or wash our cars. As long as there's the possibility of another shortage, I can't see selling water on top of it," he said.

45 m.p.h. limit urged for Lake-Cook Rd.

A proposal to raise the speed limit on Lake-Cook Road east of Buffalo Grove from 35 m.p.h. to 45 m.p.h. has been made by the Cook County Highway Dept.

The sections of Lake-Cook Road proposed for faster travel are from Sanders Road to Wilmot Road, Wilmot ers Road to Wilmot Road, Wilmot Road to Pfingsten Road, and Waukegan Road to Skokie Road.

Supt. Richard H. Goltzman said an objection from the Village of Northbrook must be resolved before the new speed limits can be posted.

Study urges hiring Lake County manager

The hiring of a Lake County administrator is recommended in a report on ways to streamline county government.

The report prepared by the Lake County Governmental Study Commission states the county board chairman does not have the time or knowledge to coordinate the various aspects of county government and this role could be performed by a county administrator.

The county department of management services, the state's attorney's office and county finance committee should work together to write an ordinance to establish the position of Lake County administrator, the report recommends.

Proposed duties of the administrator are budget preparation, overseeing personnel and purchasing; directing the maintenance and management of county facilities, reporting to the county on federal and state legislation and grants affecting the county, routine paperwork and special assignments.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS for streamlining county government that are recommended in the report, which is expected to be considered by the county board April 12, include the consolidation of several areas of county government and a redefinition of county board committees and their responsibilities.

The report suggests the taxing functions of the map department, the tax extension office and the supervisor of assessments be consolidated, possibly under the county clerk's office.

A clerical pool is suggested for processing taxes. The report says the current system includes some duplication of information as it passes from one department to another, creating "peak and valley work loads in all of the tax departments."

THE REPORT recommends the county public works department be moved to Libertyville and housed with the Lake County Highway Dept. for more centralized service and for sharing resources.

The commission adopted a recommendation to consolidate the county's health services under the Lake County Health Dept. Under the recommendation, the county health clinics, the Lake County Tuberculosis Sanatorium and the Winchester House county nursing home all would come under the health department.

The commission also adopted a recommendation that a referendum be held to eliminate the tuberculosis sanatorium and to seek legislation to allow the current tuberculosis tax levy to be used by the health department.

A tuberculosis program then could be run by the health department rather than the sanatorium's board of directors, the report says.

A REPORT recommending the county's department heads be given more administrative responsibility so that county board committees can devote their time to planning and policy-making was adopted by the commission.

Current county administration is accomplished through county board committees, according to the report, concentrating on "trivia" at the expense of planning and policy-making.

The committees could have more time for such things as public hearings on long-range planning if department heads handle day-to-day operations, the report says.

Meeting Monday on U.S. funds use

The Wheeling Village Board will seek citizens' opinions on possible uses of federal revenue sharing funds at a public hearing 7 p.m. Monday at the village hall, 255 W. Dundee Rd.

Thomas Markus, assistant village manager, said the hearings are a new requirement of the federal government. The village will receive about $68,000 in revenue sharing funds this year.

Markus said in the past revenue sharing money has been used for a sewer rehabilitation program and to purchase public safety equipment. Funds also have been set aside for capital improvements to the municipal building and purchase of fire and public works equipment.

students assigned to a teacher for a period of instruction, and ratio refers to the number of staff members — including art, music, resource and classroom teachers — to students.

GILL SAID THE district is projecting its budget around class size because "it is a high priority of the board of education and it seems to be a high priority of the community."

In 1977-78 the district also is increasing its allocation for textbooks, school supplies, teaching materials and other nonsalary items, Barger said.

The allocation in elementary schools will be $60 per pupil, an increase from $54 this year. In junior high schools the allocation will be $100 per pupil, up from $84, he said.

Barger said the increases in student allocations are the result of a 10 per cent inflation factor and the addition of supplies in the junior high schools.

The district also may be able to restore coordinator positions which were cut last year, Gill said. Other programs he said he hopes to expand are the gifted program and summer school, which the board has already decided to offer at a reduced rate of $10 per course this summer, compared to $40 last summer.

THE DISTRICT'S administration and teachers have started the budget planning process for the next school year and the budget will come before the board in the late spring. Board Pres. Susan Rose said board members have started to work with the administration to determine their goals and objectives for the 1977-78 budget.

Because the district is uncertain of its income the early budget goals are "all tentative," Gill said. He said he does not know how much state aid the district will receive in the coming school year, nor what its assessed valuation will be.

The early budget plans "are the goals we set but whether we reach them depends on what resources we have," Gill said.

Pizza vendor rides crust of success on CB waves

by DAVE IBATA

If the adage is true — that to succeed in a competitive field a new business needs a gimmick — a 23-year-old Arlington Heights man has found one that clicks for the pizza trade: Citizens' Band radio.

"My CB radio has helped business an awful lot," said Mark Evenson, proprietor and sole employee of the Village Inn Pizza restaurant, 19 N. Vail Ave., Arlington Heights.

"I would say about 65 per cent of my business is CBers," he said. "It might have taken an awful lot longer to get this far without the CB."

Evenson describes himself as a "CB fanatic," a man who keeps a microphone on the counter of his carry-out restaurant. His portable CB radio goes wherever he goes — to work, in his car, even beside his bed at home.

"ACTUALLY, IT'S MY only social life right now because of the hours I work," said Evenson, who is single. One can find him at the eatery, slapping together hoagies and shoving pizzas into his ovens, up to 14 hours a day.

Evenson set up his business in downtown Arlington Heights in July 1976 after spending $18,000 remodeling. He specializes in pizzas and submarine sandwiches. He has more than enough competition in the Northwest suburbs.

Prospects for success, at best, looked marginal — until he discovered CB radio in August.

"A lady and her husband came in one night and told me about all the people on Channel 20," he said.

"All the people" — all 115 of them — call themselves the DUM, or "Dynamic United Modulators" Club. They pride themselves on a major difference between themselves and other CBers: they don't use "trucker" slang, the "10-4 Good Buddy" lingo of the stereotype CBer.

DUM operates in and around Arlington Heights and has staked out CB Channel 20 as its semexclusive domain.

EVENSON JOINED the club, purchased a 23-channel CB radio and base station equipment and picked a "handle," or radio nickname: "Dominick Dicer," or "Double D." Shortly after he went on the air, word of his eatery spread over the airwaves.

"They (fellow CBers) suggested I could take orders on the radio," he said. "Basically, the people I'd take orders from mostly are people in the club."

Evenson said, "Most of the time I use it (the radio) for racket-jawing. I never advertise myself."

Today Evenson has a dependable flow of CBing customers. CBers stop at his shop on their way to and from work to pick up something to eat and high school CBers rendezvous at his store on weekends to grab a bite before heading out for a night of cruising.

Village Inn even offers a "CB Special" sandwich — corned beef dipped in boiling beer on a sourdough roll or rye bread with cheese and dressing.

HOWEVER, EVENSON said, "I got the name way before I got into CB radio. It was one of the original sandwiches I started off with. The CB stands for 'corned beef.'"

Evenson does his CBing between 11 a.m., when he opens his shop, until about 5 p.m., when he often stops talking because his radio transmissions leak over into televisions owned by apartment tenants, he said.

"Sometimes we'll talk a little bit at night, and then get calls from people upstairs asking me to turn off my radio," he said.

After prime time, the radio comes back on, and stays on until Evenson closes the store — midnights on weekdays, and 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays. The radio then moves to his car, and from there, into his bedroom, where Evenson has a base station set up on his nightstand.

"Sometimes I fall asleep with the radio going," he said.

WITH THE HELP of his fellow CBers, and any other customer who drops by, Evenson said he hopes to cross the ledger line from red to black.

"If business does go as well as we anticipate, it's a possibility we might open up another store," Evenson said. He added, "But I would say the odds are against it now."

"Hopefully, we'll stick around," he said — doubtlessly with both his restaurant and his CB club in mind.

17 hopefuls file for school boards

Five candidates entered the Wheeling Township Dist. 21 Board of Education race Wednesday, the first day to file nominating petitions for the April 9 election.

Other early contested races in Wheeling are for the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education and the Harper College Board of Trustees. Two candidates filed petitions for two seats open on the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education.

Five residents of Dist. 21 filed nominating petitions for two 3-year seats on the board. All of the candidates are newcomers.

The candidates include X. Daniel Kafkas, 1103 S. Miller Ln., Buffalo Grove; Linda Kurtzman, 463 Buckeye Rd., Wheeling; Herbert Stein 915 E. Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights; Stuart Weinstein, 3311 Carriage Way Dr., Arlington Heights; and Irene Wolf, 845 Thornton Ln., Buffalo Grove.

THE TWO DIST. 21 incumbents whose terms expire in April, Jeremiah Crise and Winfield Boyer, have decided not to seek reelection.

Two incumbents and two newcomers have entered the race for the three seats up for election on the Prospect Heights Dist. 23 Board of Education. Candidates for the two 3-year positions are incumbents Melvin A. Lace, 3 Garden Ct., Prospect Heights, who is seeking a fourth term; and Mary Ann Stitak, 206 W. Willow, Prospect Heights, who was appointed last May and is seeking her first elected term.

Candidates for the one-year term are Richard Allen, 2004 E. Peachtree St., Arlington Heights, and Jane Adelman, 303 Camp McDonald Rd., Prospect Heights.

A petition has been issued to James Kastner, 506 Tomah, Prospect Heights, but has not been filed, officials said.

TWO INCUMBENTS have entered the race for the two positions open on the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education.

Candidates for the two 3-year positions are incumbents Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward St., Mount Prospect, who is seeking his fifth term, and John I. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights, who was appointed in September and is seeking his first elected term.

A petition has been issued to Donald McGlothlin, 1047 Carol, Wheeling, but has not been filed, officials said.

Six candidates filed petitions Wednesday for three 3-year seats on the Harper board.

All three incumbents filed for reelection. William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, filed Wednesday. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

THE OTHER incumbents are Robert Rausch, 400 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, 1138A Boxwood Dr., Mount Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms.

Newcomers are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling; Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine; and David Tomchek, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

Nominating petitions require the signatures of 50 registered voters and are available at the administration center in all districts. The final day to file petitions is March 18.

A candidate must be at least 18 years old, a district resident for at least one year and a registered voter.

Burke drafts home-rule limit plan

A resolution which will set a limit on Wheeling's taxing and borrowing authority should the village adopt home-rule powers is being prepared by Village Atty. John Burke.

Trustee Charles Kerr asked for the resolution to "show our intentions on taxes and bonded indebtedness." Under homerule the taxing and borrowing capacity of a municipality could be increased. By passing the proposed resolution, Wheeling officials could restrict the taxing and borrowing authority to its present level.

Voters must approve home-rule powers in a referendum April 19.

The board also asked Burke to give a report on whether the trustees can pass an ordinance providing for recall of public officials.

The board last week met with members of the home-rule committee to discuss the committee's concerns about home-rule powers. Committee members said they favor homerule but recommended provisions limiting tax and bonding powers and recall of officials.

Under homerule, the village would have all powers not specifically prohibited by federal law. The village currently is subject to county, state and federal laws and all local ordinances must comply with them.

DeGrazia settles into suburban consulting

Dan's man on leave from state politics

by STEVE BROWN

Today, Victor deGrazia sits in his Park Ridge office, looking out over the potholes on Northwest Highway. Regarded by many as the man behind former Gov. Daniel Walker, Victor deGrazia has returned from Springfield, bought a home in Long Grove and is beginning a consulting firm in search of clients.

"I decided I needed to make money. That has always been a noble goal," deGrazia, deputy governor in the Walker administration, said. The suburbs are familiar to the man who has been fighting the "good fight" for independent Democrats for the past two decades on every front, from the wards of Chicago's Hyde Park to the statehouse in Springfield.

He said former Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's death offers new opportunities for the suburbs because there are no political leaders who can exert the same type of control in the Illinois General Assembly like the late mayor did.

"WHO DOES THOMPSON call when he needs the Democrats' votes? In the past when Daley needed to deliver a bloc of votes, he could leapfrog the suburban guys and get the votes Downstate.

"Now there are suburban legislators who could work with Daley, but what does a call from (Acting Mayor) Mike Bilandic mean to them," deGrazia said.

DeGrazia said local government officials throughout the state should begin pushing for programs that have direct, automatic funding. He said such a system that gives set percentage payout for programs would end some of the yearly political wrangling over appropriations.

"Look at the way Daley set up the RTA funding with the direct payment. He was a master at that kind of deal," deGrazia added.

WITH HIS FONDNESS for a good political fight deeply rooted in Illinois political legends, deGrazia leaves no doubt that the independent organization developed for Walker will live.

The 48-year-old classical music love said the Illinois Democratic Fund will continue to pump out a newsletter. The first issue was devoted largely to Walker.

While deGrazia would like to see another Walker campaign, he does not seem to be waiting just for that to happen.

"I'll be down in Springfield in a few weeks to get in touch with a few people. Someone reminded me the other day that even if Walker does not run, there is still a Senate race," deGrazia said.

He said the popular vote getter, U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., was not invincible at the polls.

"THE DEMOCRATS are supposed to be worried about 1978, but if Walker runs against Thompson, he will have his hands full. I don't think Percy will want to get near that. A high quality candidate could handle him," he said.

A restless man not unlike a hungry bear waiting to pounce, deGrazia suggests that the state money shortage that developed almost overnight during the final year of Walker administration was one of the administration's major problems.

"I still don't know what happened. Why the Bureau of the Budget reversed itself in the middle of the legislative session, telling us to cut the budget 6 per cent, I'll never know," he added. The subsequent budget cut triggered a storm of protest and a fight between Walker and the legislature.

DeGrazia minces no words in his analysis of Thompson's first month in office.

"I think he has been lazy. He said the job is harder than he expected. I don't know what he expected," deGrazia said.

"HERE IS A GUY who was a shoe-in and he did not really have anybody picked to serve in the government. There have been comparisons between Carter and Thompson, but Carter, who was involved in a horse race, had people out interviewing people for jobs before the election.

"I think it shows Thompson is ill-prepared for the job," he said.

As he sipped ginger ale from a Mickey Mouse mug, deGrazia said he is prepared to lend his expertise to local governments. And now he waits.

His decision to set up office in the suburbs caused a rumble among some area politicians who wonder privately what he is up to.

In the meantime, he has hung a few pictures and mementos from past political battles on the walls of his office and has settled other possessions, like the Walking Dan Walker paperweight inscribed "to the best friend a walker can have," on the oval table that serves as a desk.

"I will continue to do what I have always been doing. It is terribly important that what we started in outside of Chicago politics continue so I think it will, whether Dan Walker runs for the office or not."

WAITING FOR clients and the next campaign, Victor deGrazia, former Gov. Dan Walker's deputy governor, has formed a consulting firm in Park Ridge.

Regarded as one of the shrewdest of Illinois politicians he leaves no doubt he and maybe Walker will be back on the political scene in the future.

Cherry Pie school reunion plum good for reminiscing

by DIANE GRANAT

The only reason people go to high school reunions, says Dorothy Wood Lunde, Class of 1910, is "to see who has fallen apart the most."

So the 85-year-old alumna of Maine High School in Des Plaines came to Maine East High School Tuesday to see some of her classmates at the school's annual Cherry Pie Festival.

The festival, which since 1930 has honored George Washington on his birthday, this year also honored Maine Township alumni as High School Dis. 207 celebrates its 75th anniversary.

MRS. LUNDE, WHO has lived in the same house at 322 N. Prospect, Park Ridge, for the past 70 years, came to the festival with her brother-in-law Erling Lunde, also of the Class of '10.

It was at Maine High School 67 years ago, Lunde told students, that he first kissed his future sister-in-law Dorothy in a school play. But his older brother married her and "I claimed ever since that he got her second hand because I kissed her first," Lunde said.

Besides occasional romance in their class of 18 students, Lunde said he and his friends kept busy studying English, spelling, history, Latin, German, physiology and penmanship — subjects many educators wish were still the required fare in high schools.

The school the Lundes attended, located on Thacker Street in Des Plaines, accommodated about 100 students in 1910 — a tiny roll compared to the four Maine Township high schools that now have almost 12,000 students.

THE THACKER STREET school, Lunde said, had no cafeteria, so a group of boys calling themselves the "Hungry Seven" used a bunsen burner and sat at the bottom of a staircase to make cocoa and eat sandwiches during the school day.

Mrs. Lunde recalled that teachers back in 1910 were much stricter than they are today. She said one Valentine's Day a group of girls had a dinner party and because it was before the car era, "we had to go home on the 11 o'clock train."

But even with an early curfew "we were failed for a month by our language teacher for having a mid-week party — even though it was with our parents' consent and in our homes," she said.

The Lundes were not the only alumni telling stories to 150 students eating cherry pie in the cafeteria of Maine East, 2601 Dempster St., Park Ridge. They were joined by at least one representative of each decade since 1910.

RUSSEL KOBOW, Class of '29, remembered the variety show he and some friends presented one year. "The show consisted of a couple of my classmates dressed up as chicks, with grapefruits as the upper parts," Kobow said, (pointing) to his chest.

David Wolf, Class of '48 and a candidate for mayor of Des Plaines, recalled that the 1940s were the "era of music at Maine" with students interested in "the new dances, the new pop artists and Sinatra."

For most of the alumni who returned to their old school district, the size of Maine East impressed them the most. The school, built in the early 1930s, has had several additions and now has about 3,500 students.

"Students now have many more opportunities to develop than we did, but we had more personal contact with our teachers and classmates," Mrs. Lunde recalled. "Many of my classmates have been life-long friends."

Erling Lunde, dressed in a three-piece suit with a Bicentennial tie, said today's "young people dress terribly. But they'll get over that, just like we got over our bad habits."

What were Lunde's bad habits at the turn of the century? "I wouldn't practice the piano," he confesses. "I'd rather play baseball."

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.
By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1890. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.
The spring-like climate Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.
The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornados, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.
Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.
The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.
"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Brasler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

8-acre park plan nears final approval

A tentative plan for a park of more than 8-acres in the Lake County section of Buffalo Grove has been worked out by village administrators and two developers, Carl Rapp, director of community development, said.

The plan would allow construction of a large park north of Busch Road and east of Levitt & Sons' Camelot subdivision.

The new plan still must be reviewed by the plan commission and the village board before it becomes final, Rapp said.

"IT'S A BOARD decision to make and they'll have a public hearing," on the plan, Rapp said.

Levitt's original plans for the Camelot subdivision included a small park on the eastern edge of the area.

Then developer Raymond Green of Skokie approached the village regarding development of land to the east of Camelot with another small park on the eastern edge of his property.

After a session attended by Green, representatives of the park district and the village, a plan to construct one large park on the eastern edge of Green's land was agreed upon. In return for the extra land, Green was to be allowed to build homes on Levitt's proposed park site.

LEVITT representatives said they were not sure whether they were bound legally to build their park because they already had sold homes that were to face it.

But Raupp said it has been determined that the village now holds title to the Levitt park land and it can trade land with Green if requested to do so by the park district.

"It should be a coordinated plan between the two developers and the village," Rapp said. "One huge park like that is what we need in the northern area."

Green said he is receptive to such a plan if a land trade can be arranged. "To have small parks all over the area seems senseless," he said.

Rapp's tentative park plan is a positive step, said Park District Director Stanley Crosland, even though Rapp's new plan appears to provide for a park slightly smaller than the district originally had hoped for.

THE DISTRICT wanted a park large enough for tennis courts and sports fields. Crosland has not determined what facilities can be accommodated under the new plan.

"If it does work, I think we will probably have a very nice park site," Crosland said.

The next step is for the park district to bring the matter before the plan commission March 2, Rapp said.

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, lumps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways. "This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

15 enter races for school seats open in April

Five candidates entered the Wheeling Township Dist. 21 Board of Education race while the April 9 school board elections in Buffalo Grove-Long Grove Dist. 96 and high school districts 125 and 214 remained uncontested Wednesday, the first day to file nominating petitions. Six candidates filed for the Harper College Board of Trustees.

Five residents of Dist. 21 filed nominating petitions for two 3-year seats on the board. All of the candidates are newcomers.

The candidates include: Daniel Kafkas, 1103 S. Miller Ln., Buffalo Grove; Linda Kurtzman, 463 Buckeye Rd., Wheeling; Herbert Stein, 915 E. Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights; Stuart Weinstein, 3311 Carriage Way Dr., Arlington Heights; and Ilene Wolf, 845 Thornton Ln., Buffalo Grove.

THE TWO DIST. 21 incumbents whose terms expire in April, Jeremiah Crise and Winfield Boyer, have decided not to seek reelection.

Two incumbents in Buffalo Grove-Long Grove Dist. 96 have filed petitions for two 3-year seats to be filled in the election.

Running for reelection are Howard Falk, 1408 Oxford Dr., Buffalo Grove, and Jerry Purkin, 851 Silver Rock Ln., Buffalo Grove. Each candidate is seeking a second term on the board.

In High School Dist. 125 no petitions were filed Wednesday for the three 3-year seats available on the board.

INCUMBENT W. Mike Swanson, 434A Port Clinton Rd., Prairie View, has picked up a petition. He is currently board president and has said he will seek a second term. One other petition also has been given out, but no record was made of who picked it up, district officials said.

Other Dist. 125 incumbents whose terms expire in April are Arne Carlsson and Frank Clayton. Carlsson has indicated he will not run and Clayton has said he is still undecided.

Two incumbents entered the race for the two open positions on the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education.

Candidates for the two 3-year positions are incumbents Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, who is seeking his fifth term and John I. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights, who was appointed in September and is seeking his first elected term.

A petition has been issued to Donald McGlothlin, 1047 Carol, Wheeling, but has not been filed, officials said.

SIX CANDIDATES filed petitions for three 3-year seats on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

All three incumbents filed for reelection. William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, filed Wednesday. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

The other incumbents are Robert Rausch, 406 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, 1138A Boxwood Dr., Mount Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms.

Newcomers are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling; Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine; and David Tomchek, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

Nominating petitions requiring the signatures of 50 registered voters are available at the administration center in each district. The final day to file petitions is March 18.

A candidate must be at least 18 years old, a district resident for at least one year and a registered voter.

PEOPLE LIVING on Shenandoah Lane near Checker Road in Long Grove are used to seeing rivers of water on their street when it rains, says Don Leissner, 126 Shenandoah Ln. Country Club Estates, Inc., which built the homes six years ago, has never installed the storm sewer it promised residents, Leissner says. The village has not been much help, he adds.

Study urges hiring county manager

The hiring of a Lake County administrator is recommended in a report on ways to streamline county government.

The report prepared by the Lake County Governmental Study Commission states the county board chairman does not have the time or knowledge to coordinate the various aspects of county government and this role could be performed by a county administrator.

The county department of management services, the state's attorney's office and county finance committee should work together to write an ordinance to establish the position of Lake County administrator, the report recommends.

Proposed duties of the administrator are budget preparation, overseeing personnel and purchasing; directing the maintenance and management of county facilities, reporting to the county on federal and state legislation and grants affecting the county, routine paperwork and special assignments.

OTHER SUGGESTIONS for streamlining county government that are recommended in the report, which is expected to be considered by the county board April 12, include the consolidation of several areas of county government and a redefinition of county board committees and their responsibilities.

The report suggests the taxing functions of the map department, the tax extension office and the supervisor of assessments be consolidated, possibly under the county clerk's office.

A clerical pool is suggested for processing taxes. The report says the current system includes some duplication of information as it passes from one department to another, creating "peak and valley work loads in all of the tax departments."

more centralized service and for sharing resources.

The commission adopted a recommendation to consolidate the county's health services under the Lake County Health Dept. Under the recommendation, the county health clinics, the Lake County Tuberculosis Sanatorium and the Winchester House county nursing home all would come under the health department.

The commission also adopted a recommendation that a referendum be held to eliminate the tuberculosis sanatorium and to seek legislation to allow the current tuberculosis tax levy to be used by the health department. A tuberculosis program then could be run by the health department rather than the sanatorium's board of directors, the report says.

A REPORT recommending the county's department heads be given more administrative responsibility so that county board committees can devote their time to planning and policymaking was adopted by the commission.

Current county administration is accomplished through county board committees, according to the report, concentrating on "trivia" at the expense of planning and policy-making.

The committees could have more time for such things as public hearings on long-range planning if department heads handle day-to-day operations, the report says.

Village board wrapup

Larson honored for 5 yrs. service

A resolution commending Village Mgr. Daniel T. Larson for his more than five years of service with the village has been unanimously adopted by the Buffalo Grove Village Board.

Village Pres. Edward Fabish, in presenting Larson with a commemorative plaque, said his job spanned the "most difficult time as a village that grew very fast." Larson will resign Friday to become village manager for Lincolnshire.

It's official! Golf course buy OK

The results of the Feb. 19 referendum on the village's proposed purchase of the Buffalo Grove Golf Course, 400 Lake-Cook Rd., became official Tuesday following a village board canvass. The official result is 2,142 votes supporting the purchase and 164 opposing it.

"Everyone worked together and worked so hard, it was really a rewarding experience," said Trustee Clarice Rech, who headed the village's golf course information committee. The village can proceed with a board-approved plan to buy the course through the use of a $1.1 million loan from the Allstate Insurance Co.

Land development plan studied

A new plan for development of land near the southeast corner of Buffalo Grove and Dundee roads was presented to the village board in executive session Tuesday by representatives of the Dominion Development Co., Chicago, said Village Pres. Edward Fabish. Dominion and the village are involved in a lawsuit regarding use of the land.

"We're really trying to settle this thing without going to court," Fabish said. "I think we're getting a little closer. Before they wouldn't talk to us, now we're talking," he said. The board raised objections to some of the aspects of Dominion's new plan, Fabish said, but he would not discuss the details of the plan.

The lawsuit began in 1974 when Dominion sued the village because it failed to issue building permits for a Pizza Hut and Kentucky Fried Chicken franchise to be built on the property.

The village plan commission and the village board rejected Dominion's requests for such development, contending the developer was required to abide by its 1972 annexation agreement which specified a commercial building.

5 acres transferred to parks

The Buffalo Grove Park District became the official owner of about five acres of land in The Crossings, Arlington Heights Road and Ill. Rte. 83, Tuesday when the village board approved an ordinance transferring title of the land to the park district. The land had been dedicated to the village for park use by Otis Associates of Northbrook. Park Comr. William Kiddle said he hopes the district will make the land available for resident garden plots this spring.

Commission studies development plans

Development plans which would add nearly 300 new homes to Buffalo Grove were reviewed by the village plan commission last week. Plan Commission Chairman Carl Genrich said.

The Falcon Development Co. of Mount Prospect wants to construct 100 homes west of Arlington Heights Road just north of the Buffalo Grove Mall and Harold Freidman, developer, is seeking a zoning change so he can build 116 single-family homes on the northwest corner of Illinois Rte. 83 and Buffalo Grove Road. The property currently is zoned for commercial development.

Both developers were directed to work with the village staff to resolve what Genrich said were minor problems with their plans.

Village set to pick manager: Fabish

The search for a new Buffalo Grove village manager has been narrowed to one candidate, Village Pres. Edward Fabish said.

The village board, meeting in executive session Tuesday, directed Fabish to offer the position to a candidate the board interviewed last week.

"If he says no, then we start searching again," Fabish said. He would not disclose the name of the candidate.

THE VILLAGE had received about nine resumes from potential candidates after Daniel T. Larson, the current manager, announced he was resigning effective Sunday, Fabish said.

The board met in executive session last Thursday to interview a prospective candidate.

"We interviewed one person and are going through resumes," Fabish said before Tuesday's executive session. "Tonight we definitely have to know what direction we're going in," he said.

THE VILLAGE has yet to advertise for a new manager and will not if the person the board is interested in accepts the manager's position, Fabish said.

Larson will become village manager of Lincolnshire Monday at a salary of $28,000 per year. He now earns $25,000 per year in Buffalo Grove.

Fabish would not discuss what salary will be offered to the manager candidate.

If a replacement for Larson is not found by Monday, the village board will assign the manager's duties to a village department head on an interim basis, Fabish said.

BROTHER LOUIS RONCOLI visits Salvatore Laspine, a patient at Alexian Brothers Medical Center. Roncoli, better known as Brother Louie, has worked at the center for three years, after changing his lifestyle and becoming an Alexian Brother at age 62.

Loneliness ceases by helping others

Simple vow alters brother's life

by MARY DIETER

Until Fannie died Louis Roncoli had everything he wanted.

He never was bored or lonely for a minute. He had a "very wonderful marriage," he says, and a successful business in New Jersey.

But when Fannie died in August 1969, all that changed. He enjoyed his job and his privacy, but his wife's death left an emptiness that took three years to fill.

"COMMITMENTS HAVE been sacred in my life," he says. "When one commitment you make is terminated, you can make another."

He tried volunteer work at a New York hospital for terminally ill cancer patients. He even planned to retire from the manufacturing company that he owned to do charity work full-time.

But three years of living alone showed him it was time to find something else. So at 62 Roncoli decided to join a religious order.

Five years later, Roncoli is known as Brother Louie, an administrative assistant at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

"IT'S A DEFINITE advantage, having seen both worlds," Brother Louie says. "It makes me appreciate the problems and the good things outside."

He's a short man, with thinning gray hair, and he says he often surprises people when he tells them of his short tenure with the order.

"It throws them as soon as I tell them I haven't been around for 50 years," he says in his gravelly New York accent.

"The trend is that the order is looking for more mature people to go into religious life," he adds. "Then you give them time to really appreciate if this is what they want."

BROTHER LOUIE made his decision in 1972 when he entered an associates' program in Elizabeth, N. J.

"I've always been religiously inclined throughout my life," he says.

"And I just couldn't see myself living with someone else."

He has taken "simple vows" each year since 1974, which allow him to leave the order if he chooses, but Brother Louie said he's there to stay. "Actually, I made life vows the minute I entered," he says.

THE NEW LIFE has taken him from his private apartment to sharing a house with 100 other brothers and his new job has made him "busier than I've ever been in my life."

Beside his administrative work, he's involved in money raising for the hospital, the hospital's auxiliary, the volunteer program, the hospital board of trustees and six committees.

But other than that things are pretty much the same.

"My life hasn't changed one iota since coming to the brothers," he says.

MEMORIES STILL remain vivid, he says, memories of former jobs and especially of Fannie, "a terrific person."

"I guess that's why I miss her so much. I don't think I could ever put a marriage together like that again," he says, adding quickly, "and I'm not trying to."

"I'm very happy with my decision," Brother Louie adds. Again, he has everything he wants.

$570,000 asked of fire unit

Wheeling officials will ask the Wheeling Rural Fire Protection District for approximately $570,000 to operate the village fire department in 1977-78, increased from the $339,000 received a year ago.

Wheeling Village Mgr. Terry L. Zerkle said he will ask the district to pay for 75 per cent of the proposed $762,417 fire department budget. In 1976-77, Wheeling received about 50 per cent of the department's operating expenses from the fire district.

Zerkle said the higher amount is Wheeling's "fair and proper share" of tax revenues supporting the village fire department.

The fire district serves residents in the Wheeling, Buffalo Grove and Prospect Heights area. In the past Wheeling has received 60 per cent of the district revenues with the remainder going to Buffalo Grove.

"IF YOU LOOK at the assessed valuation, the total land area and where the calls are, the percentages are very comparable," Wheeling covers about 75 per cent," Zerkle said.

Village officials estimate that Wheeling covers about $119,986,236 or 71.9 per cent of the district's total assessed valuation of $166,672,853. He said the village covers about 80 per cent of the land area.

Wheeling records show 74.8 per cent of the municipal department's fire and ambulance calls were within the district, Zerkle said.

THE WHEELING Fire Department is owned and operated by the village. The district, however, collects the tax money and contracts with the municipal department for its services. A portion of Wheeling is not in the fire district but is served by the municipal fire department.

Zerkle said the village estimates the cost of running the department in 1977-78 will total about $762,417, including salaries, pensions and insurance. He said the proposed construction of a new main station, a branch station and purchase of a new pumper will cost an additional $1,055,000.

The proposed 1977-78 budget includes the salaries for three firefighters and a captain. Zerkle said the men are needed because of high overtime costs of men working extra hours to cover staff shortages.

ZERKLE SAID he also will ask the fire district board to help finance the branch station and the new pumper. The branch station will be west of the Soo Line tracks and south of Hintz Road.

Trustee Otis L. Hedlund said the village "should request every dime we can possibly get."

"We should expect that 80 per cent of our budget come from the district. I'm sure they will be hard pressed to reach it but we have grounds for asking," he said.

Zerkle will meet with the fire district board at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Buffalo Grove Fire Station, 505 W. Dundee Rd.

45 m.p.h. limit urged for Lake-Cook Rd.

A proposal to raise the speed limit on Lake-Cook Road east of Buffalo Grove from 35 m.p.h. to 45 m.p.h. has been made by the Cook County Highway Dept.

The sections of Lake-Cook Road proposed for faster travel are from Sanders Road to Wilmet Road, Wilmet ers Road to Wilmet Road, Wilmet Road to Pfingsten Road, and Waukegan Road to Skokie Road.

Supt. Richard H. Goltzman said an objection from the Village of Northbrook must be resolved before the new speed limits can be posted.

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.

By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.

The spring-like clime Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.

The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornados, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.

Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.

The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds, in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.

"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.

AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.

A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.

TEN INCHES of snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.

Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.

"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

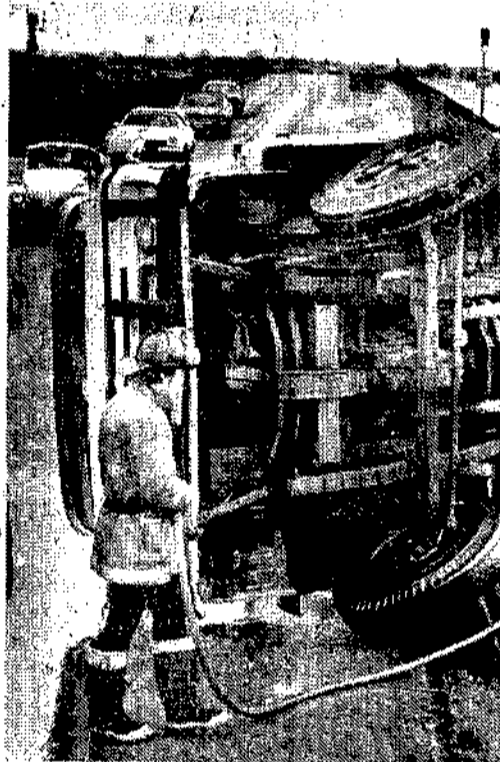

Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

Carter departed slightly from his

Rent-subsidized housing objections listed

by MARY DIETER

Elk Grove Village officials are objecting to rent-subsidized housing for low- and moderate-income families, saying the village does not have adequate medical, dental and recreational facilities to serve them.

An Itasca developer has applied for subsidies for 62 apartments under a program in which tenants pay up to 25 per cent of the rent and the federal government picks up the rest.

The village board Tuesday drafted a letter to the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development protesting the application for rent subsidies at the proposed Rohlfing Grove apartment complex at the northeast corner of Devon Avenue and Ill. Rte. 53.

"THE FEDERAL government looks at everything in a vacuum," Trustee Edward E. Kenna said. "They're subsidizing rent, but who subsidizes the rest of living in the community?"

Kenna and four other trustees agreed, however, they would support rent-subsidized housing for senior citizens.

Medicare and a township-supported bus system would meet the medical and transportation needs of elderly residents, the trustees said, but there is nothing similar for low-income families.

"We do not have public facilities to aid more subsidized housing than the senior citizens' housing," Trustee Nanci L. Vanderweel said. "It's no go for the families based on the facilities we have, but I'd look at it for senior citizens."

VILLAGE Pres. Charles Zettek and Trustee George Spees said they did not oppose rent-subsidized housing in the village.

"Why do we have a housing commission putting together plans if we object to subsidized housing?" Zettek asked the board angrily. "Why do we subsidize senior citizens? If they moved in, it would be OK, but not if someone else does, right?"

Zettek said he was angry that HUD did not inform the village of the project before a story about it appeared in The Herald.

HUD guidelines state the department must notify the village within 10 days of receiving an application only if the village has a housing assistance plan. Elk Grove's plan is expected to be completed in March.

EMIL VITUCCI, HUD associate regional counsel, said the village's comments are "afforded considerable weight."

HUD checks the accuracy of the comments but is not governed by them, he said.

Harry Gottlieb of the Leadership Council for Metropolitan Open Communities said he believes village officials were worried that subsidized housing might attract welfare families to Elk Grove Village.

Families do not have to be on welfare to qualify for rent subsidies, a HUD official said. Eligibility is based on income and family size. For example, a family of four with an income less than $14,200 is eligible.

GOTTILIEB said only eight of the 40 rent-subsidized tenants in one Northwest suburban apartment complex are on welfare. Sixteen are retirees,

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, lumps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways.

"This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

Hopefuls in school races file nominating petitions

One candidate in Elk Grove Township Dist. 50 and four candidates in Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 filed for positions on their respective boards of education Wednesday, the first day of filing nominating petitions.

In High School Dist. 214, two incumbents entered the race for the two open positions on the board of education and one incumbent filed for the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education.

Six candidates filed petitions for three 3-year positions on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

IN DIST. 50, INCUMBENT Grove Village, 1260 Lorchmont Dr., Elk Grove Wald, filed for one of the two 3-year positions on the board. She is seeking her second term.

Four petitions have been issued, but have not yet been filed, officials said. They were issued to incumbent Gerald Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham, Elk Grove Village; incumbent Donald Zommer, 817 Delphin, Elk Grove Village; incumbent Paul Kucharski, 803 Victoria Ln., Arlington Heights; and newcomer Saul Cohen, 312 Dorchester, Elk Grove Village.

Two 3-year seats, one 2-year seat and one 1-year seat are open on the board.

Two incumbents and two newcomers entered the race for three seats on the Dist. 54 Board of Education.

TWO 3-YEAR TERMS and one 1-year term will be filled in the April 9 election.

Incumbent Esther Karras, 308 Baswood St., Hoffman Estates, and newcomers Peggie R. Elgin, 1889 Governors Ln., Hoffman Estates, and new Froholm, 144 Meyer Dr., Hoffman Estates, entered the race for the three-year terms. Mrs. Karras has been on the board since 1974.

Incumbent Margaret Pageler, 293 Jefferson, Hoffman Estates, filed a petition for the one-one-year term. She was elected to the board in 1974.

One resident has been issued a nominating petition, but has not yet filed it, officials said. He is John Mullins, 819 Prince Charles Ln., Hoffman Estates.

Candidates for the two 3-year positions in Dist. 214 are incumbents Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, who is seeking his fifth term and John I. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights, who was appointed in September and is seeking his first elected term.

A petition has been issued to Donald McGlothlin, 1047 Carol, Wheeling, but has not been filed, officials said.

IN DIST. 211 INCUMBENT Jean Fisher, 921 S. Mallard, Palatine, has filed for one of two 3-year terms. She has been on the board since 1973.

Three residents have been issued nominating petitions but have not returned them, officials said.

They are incumbent Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury Dr., Schaumburg, and newcomers Susan Kenely, 234 Pearl Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Wilfred Gustafson Jr., 1024 Mercury Dr., Schaumburg.

Seger has been on the board since 1971. He has said he plans to seek a third term.

ALL THREE INCUMBENTS filed for reelection to the Harper College Board of Trustees William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, filed Wednesday. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

The other incumbents are Robert Rausch, 400 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, 1138A Boxwood Dr., Mount Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms.

Newcomers who entered the race are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling, Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine; and David Tomchek, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

Nominating petitions requiring the signatures of 50 registered voters are available at the administration center in all districts. The final day to file petitions is March 13.

A candidate must be at least 18 years old, a district resident for at least one year and a registered voter.

More Dist. 54 citizen power urged

While decreasing the power of citizens while increasing that of board members and administrators, the committee has been recommended by the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education meeting as a committee-of-the-whole.

The committee recommended that while board members and administrators should remain members of committees, they should not have a vote as they do now, and that the citizens advisory council should be headed by a citizen rather than a board member.

These recommendations will be sent to the policy committee. Chairman Esther Karras said the committee will write a general board policy covering committee format and will set specific guidelines for each committee.

The policy will be sent to the board for a vote at a regular board meeting.

THE BOARD has four citizen committees — business and administration, policy, education and citizens advisors. Teachers, residents, administrators and board members make up these committees, headed by a board member.

A fifth committee, budget and finance, meets as a committee-of-the-whole of the board of education.

In their discussion, the board members separated citizens advisory council from the other committees, deciding that the advisory council requires less special expertise than the other committees. They agreed that board members should continue to serve as chairmen of the business and administration, policy and education committees.

THE BOARD recommended specific guidelines for which committee members may vote:

- Board members would not vote on committee issues; however, if a tie vote resulted, the board member who is chairman would break the tie.

- Administrators sitting on committees would not vote, serving as advisors only.

- Teachers and citizens would be voting members.

The method for selecting citizen members for the committees should be determined by the chairmen, the board decided. When the committees were formed a year ago, residents submitted resumes to the chairmen, who selected qualified citizens.

ELIZABETH CARPENTER, chairwoman of the citizens advisory council, recommended the number of citizens on the council be expanded from about 10 to 25 to 30 next year.

She urged that a wide spectrum of members be chosen, including senior citizens and residents with no children in district schools.

Mrs. Carpenter also suggested that citizens be allowed to serve two-year terms on the council, so that their knowledge could be used for more than one year. Residents were appointed last year to one-year committee terms.

No board consensus was reached on Mrs. Carpenter's suggestions, but her ideas will be sent to the policy committee for consideration.

He would not identify the complex, but said 12 tenants in the rent-subsidized units were from the same community, another 19 came from other Northwest suburbs and the remaining nine were from Chicago.

Reed declined to comment on the village's objections.

"IT'S (RENT-SUBSIDIZED) housing not a Cabrini Green or all the things people are worried about," said Catherine Duoba, chairman of the Elk Grove housing commission.

She said she expected the board to oppose rent subsidized housing, but added, "It's a relief to know there are people on the board who understand the issue."

Mrs. Duoba said about 1,000 rent-subsidized apartments throughout the Northwest suburbs have been successful.

"THEY WERE successful enough that the developer did not go in the red," she said. Developers did not have trouble marketing other apart-

Free glaucoma tests

An Elk Grove Village doctor is offering free glaucoma tests to residents.

Dr. Howard Miller, whose office is at 70 Turner Rd., is offering the tests until the end of April. Glaucoma is a disease of the eye which can cause permanent blindness.

Miller previously offered the tests for senior citizens, but he said glaucoma affects persons of all ages.

Miller said persons should call his office at 437-4834 on Tuesday, Wednesday, Friday or Saturday to make an appointment.

Songs, speeches to mark Estonian independence

by DEBBIE JONAK

Enno Toomsalu knew Estonia was free, before it was swallowed by the western boundaries of the Soviet Union.

In that memory and in hope for the future, he and hundreds of other Estonian immigrants will celebrate their country's Independence Day Saturday with songs and speeches at the Chicago Estonian House, Estonian Lane in Prairie View.

They will tell the story of their homeland's long years of struggling for independence, its final triumph after World War I, then its crushing defeat after World War II.

THEY WILL WARN against communism. And they will talk about tomorrow.

"Everybody's working towards it and hoping one day Estonia will be free," Toomsalu said. He escaped Estonia in 1944, when he was 19 years old. He now is an engineer for Underwriters Laboratories and resides in Mount Prospect.

The older generation, which won freedom for Toomsalu's generation, may not expect to see a free Estonia again in their lifetime. But the wounds of their defeat hurt less with the knowledge their descendants will not give up.

"This is especially for the older people," Toomsalu said of the Independence Day observance. "The older people can look at the younger people still carrying it on, which instills hope in them that Estonia will be free."

ESTONIA IS THE northernmost of the Baltic countries, situated on the western shores of the Baltic Sea. About 1.2 million persons inhabited 18,000 square miles before World War II.

Toomsalu did not know how many live in the country now, because the Soviets are trying to dilute its population with Russian people.

Estonia has a history of captivity. The Germans were the first successful invaders, enslaving the Estonians in the 13th century. Two centuries later, the country was attacked by Russians, Poles and Swedes.

Russia defeated the Swedes in 1710, ruling the land until 1918. In that year, the Independent Republic of Estonia was formed.

TOOMSALU WAS born in 1939 and grew up with little worry of the Russian threat. But in 1939, the Soviet Army occupied Estonia, followed by Hitler's Wehrmacht and finally, in 1944, by the Soviets.

"We didn't believe something like this could happen," Toomsalu said, explaining his generation took freedom for granted.

But his parents' generation did not. Many committed suicide when the Russians invaded, he said. Others were shot, imprisoned or shipped to Siberia.

More than 70,000 Estonians fled the country to Western Europe in 1944. In the late 1940s and early 1950s, 25,000 of those emigrated to the United States.

THEY CANNOT go back even to visit Estonia until it is free.

"They consider it a crime that I escaped from them," Toomsalu said.

To assuage their longings for the small villages they left behind in the "Land of the White Midsummer Nights," 400 area Estonian families gather together on weekends and special occasions at the Estonian House.

"Although we associate with our neighbors, the best friends and best times we ever have is with our Estonian friends," he said.

A VERY MUSICAL people, they have choral and dance groups and programs at the house. They also have drama productions, bridge parties and Estonian classes.

They consider themselves American citizens now, but refuse to forget their background, Toomsalu said. If Estonia were freed, he said he would not return until retirement, unless there was a shortage of engineers.

"I have a profession here, I went to school and got a college education here," he said.

But the Estonians will fight for their country by warning the free world against communism, he said.

THEY ALSO WARN their children,

while attempting to instill in them Estonian pride and tradition.

"We feel it's very important the younger children know about the old country of their parents," he said. "If Estonia is free sometime, the children will be curious enough to go visit."

Or maybe even stay, using their talents to build up Estonia once more, he added.

Dist. 211 wrapup

FM radio station for Conant High

A 10-watt FM stereo radio station, funded by the booster club, will be established at Conant High School, 700 E. Cougar Tr., Hoffman Estates.

The station is expected to cost between $2,350 and $4,250, depending on whether used transmitting equipment is purchased.

The station will operate from 2 to 6 p.m. on school days. Hours may be extended from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. later.

As approved by the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education, the plan calls for members of the Conant Radio Club to begin broadcasting in the second semester of the next school year.

Club members will be trained to receive third-class broadcasting permits, required by the Federal Communications Commission.

'Delay restructuring of services'

The board approved sending a letter to Illinois Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin protesting his timetable for restructuring regional school services.

The letter urges Cronin, who heads the state education office, to "hold off any legislative proposal in this area for one year," warning that the Illinois Office of Education will lose its credibility if it rushes through a plan without fully consulting state school superintendents.

Cronin's plan, based on a report by University of Maryland Prof. E. Robert Stephens, calls for the creation of regional school districts for special education and vocational education.

The Stephens report recommends that a bill establishing the new service districts be on the books by July 1, 1978. Illinois Office of Education officials have said a plan for the new districts would be proposed by March 10.

Cronin has said other local districts have urged him to hold off on a decision on restructuring and has said he has not decided whether new legislation will be proposed this year.

DeGrazia opens consulting firm

Man behind Dan takes break from state politics

by STEVE BROWN

Today, Victor deGrazia sits in his Park Ridge office, looking out over the potholes on Northwest Highway. Regarded by many as the man behind former Gov. Daniel Walker, Victor deGrazia has returned from Springfield, bought a home in Long Grove and is beginning a consulting firm in search of clients.

"I decided I needed to make money. That has always been a noble goal," deGrazia, deputy governor in the Walker administration, said. "The suburbs are familiar to the man who has been fighting the 'good fight' for independent Democrats for the past two decades on every front, from the wards of Chicago's Hyde Park to the statehouse in Springfield."

He said former Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's death offers new opportunities for the suburbs because there are no political leaders who can exert the same type of control in the Illinois General Assembly like the late mayor did.

"WHO DOES THOMPSON call when he needs the Democrats' votes? In the past when Daley needed to deliver a bloc of votes, he could leapfrog the suburban parties and get the votes Downstate."

"Now there are suburban legislators who could work with Daley, but what does a call from (Acting Mayor) Mike Bilandic mean to them," deGrazia said.

DeGrazia said local government officials throughout the state should begin pushing for programs that have direct, automatic funding. He said such a system that gives set percentage payout for programs would end some of the yearly political wrangling over appropriations.

"Look at the way Daley set up the RTA funding with the direct payment. He was a master at that kind of deal," deGrazia added.

WITH HIS FONDNESS for a good political fight deeply rooted in Illinois political legends, deGrazia leaves no doubt that the independent organization developed for Walker will live.

The 48-year-old classical music lover said the Illinois Democratic Fund will continue to pump out a newsletter. The first issue was devoted largely to Walker.

While deGrazia would like to see another Walker campaign, he does not seem to be waiting just for that to happen.

"I'll be down in Springfield in a few weeks to get in touch with a few people. Someone reminded me the other day that even if Walker doesn't run, there is still a Senate race," deGrazia said.

He said the popular vote getter, U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., was not invincible at the polls.

"THE DEMOCRATS are supposed to be worried about 1978, but if Walker runs against Thompson, he will have his hands full. I don't think Percy will want to get near that. A high quality candidate could handle him," he said.

A restless man not unlike a hungry bear waiting to pounce, deGrazia suggests that the state money shortage that developed almost overnight during the final year of Walker administration was one of the administration's major problems.

"I still don't know what happened. Why the Bureau of the Budget reversed itself in the middle of the legislative session, telling us to cut the budget 6 per cent, I'll never know," he added. The subsequent budget cut triggered a storm of protest and a fight between Walker and the legislature.

WAITING FOR clients and the next campaign, Victor deGrazia, former Gov. Dan Walker's deputy governor, has formed a consulting firm in Park Ridge. Regarded as one of the shrewdest of Illinois politicians he leaves no doubt he and maybe Walker will be back on the political scene in the future.

DeGrazia minces no words in his analysis of Thompson's first month in office.

"I think he has been lazy. He said the job is harder than he expected. I don't know what he expected," deGrazia said.

"HERE IS A GUY who was a shoe-in and he did not really have anybody picked to serve in the government. There have been comparisons between Carter and Thompson, but Carter, who was involved in a horse race, had people out interviewing people for jobs before the election."

"I think it shows Thompson is ill-prepared for the job," he said.

As he sipped ginger ale from a Mickey Mouse mug, deGrazia said he is prepared to lend his expertise to local governments. And now he waits.

His decision to set up office in the suburbs caused a rumble among some area politicians who wonder privately what he is up to.

In the meantime, he has hung a few pictures and mementos from past political battles on the walls of his office and has settled on other possessions, like the Walking Dan Walker paperweight inscribed "to the best friend a walker can have," on the oval table that serves as a desk.

"I will continue to do what I have always been doing. It is terribly important that what we started in out-land of Chicago politics continue so I think it will, whether Dan Walker runs for the office or not."

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.

By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.

The spring-like climate Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.

The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornadoes, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.

Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.

The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.

"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.

AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.

A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.

TEN INCHES OF snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.

Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.

"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

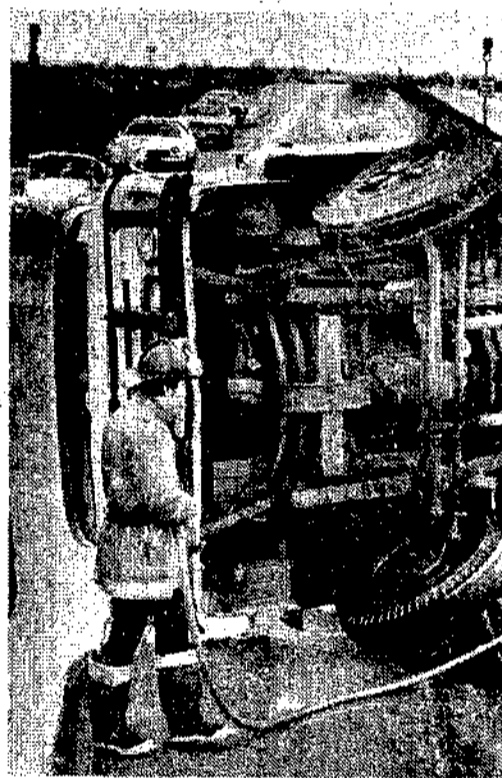

Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

• Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

• Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

• Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

• Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

Residents file in 3 school district races

Two incumbents and two newcomers entered the race for three seats on the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education Wednesday, the first day for filing nominating petitions.

Two 3-year terms and one 1-year term will be filled in the April 9 election.

In Palatine Township Dist. 15, three candidates returned petitions for three 3-year terms. One person filed in High School Dist. 211 and six persons filed for the Harper College board.

IN DIST. 54, incumbent Esther Karras, 308 Basswood St., Hoffman Estates, and newcomers Peggie R. Elgin, 1889 Governors Ln., Hoffman Estates, and Drew Frostholt, 144 Meyer Dr., Hoffman Estates, entered the race for the three-year terms. Mrs. Karras has been on the board since 1974. Incumbent Margaret Pageler, 293 Jefferson, Hoffman Estates, filed a petition for the one-year term. She was elected to the board in 1974.

One resident has been issued a nominating petition, but has not yet filed it, officials said. He is John Mullins, 819 Prince Charles Ln., Hoffman Estates.

In Dist. 15 incumbents Everett Charlier, 26 S. Greenwood Dr., Palatine, and Irene Sjostedt, 314 Suffolk

Ct., Hoffman Estates, filed for reelection. Charlier is seeking a third term and Mrs. Sjostedt has served 18 months on the board. The third candidate is newcomer Lynn Row, 723 Monterey Rd., Palatine. Three 3-year seats are up for election.

INCUMBENT J. LESLEY Ehringer has announced he is not seeking reelection.

Incumbent Jean Eisler, 921 S. Mallard, Palatine, has filed for one of two 3-year terms in Dist. 211. She has been on the board since 1973.

Three residents have been issued nominating petitions but have not returned them, officials said.

They are incumbent Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury Dr., Schaumburg, and newcomers Susan Kenely, 234 Pearl Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Wilfred Gustafson Jr., 1024 Mercury Dr., Schaumburg.

SIX CANDIDATES filed petitions for three 3-year seats on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

All three incumbents filed for reelection. William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, filed Wednesday. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

The other incumbents are Robert Rausch, 400 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, 1138A

Boxwood Dr., Mt. Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms.

Newcomers are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling; Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine; and David Tomchek, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

Nominating petitions requiring the signatures of 50 registered voters are available at the administration center in all districts. The final day to file petitions is March 13.

A candidate must be at least 18 years old, a district resident for at least one year and a registered voter.

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF
Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, lumps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways. "This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

Legal ignorance kills loan to Flyers Hockey Club

It all started because the Hoffman Estates Park District wanted to "show the hockey group that we're 100 per cent behind them."

So when the Hoffman Estates Flyers Hockey Club came in last week and asked for a $2,500 loan to get through the next couple of weeks, there wasn't much discussion about it. Park commissioners apparently weren't aware that loans of that type are illegal.

IN GENERAL, HOCKEY organizations in the area are operating under tight budgets these days. Ice time is expensive, and the number of players participating is, if anything, dwindling.

The Flyers are no different; in the last couple of weeks, the club found itself with a "cash flow" problem, as Parks Director Allen J. Binder put it. It had bills to pay, but revenue from current fund-raisers wouldn't be received for two to three weeks, he said.

Comr. Thomas McGuire objected to the loan, saying it would set a precedent. But the board passed the proposal over his objections.

Meanwhile, sitting in the audience, Gerald Lavey was aghast. He is running for the park board this April, and he presently serves on its finance committee.

"At best, it may have been imprudent, and at worst, it demonstrated a real lack of fiscal concern by the board itself," he says.

SO WHEN LAVEY got home, he phoned a couple of attorneys and an accountant. They all told him that governments cannot lend money to private organizations.

Then Lavey called Binder. Binder called Board Pres. George Rush. Rush called attorney Donald Rose Friday. He asked only one question: can the park board lend the Flyers $2,500? No, Rose said, it cannot.

"That's all I asked," Rush recalls. "I didn't have to ask a second time. He didn't have to beat me over the head with it."

Under the park district's regulations, either Binder or Park Supt. Edward Haag must countersign the checks. They haven't done it yet, so the loan was never paid out.

The Flyers will survive; the club was able to borrow the money from a local bank.

AT TUESDAY'S FINANCE committee meeting, Lavey got a chance to speak, and he chastised commissioners for failing to bring the matter to the finance committee, where the legal question probably would have been raised.

"I don't know where your people's brains were," he told the board.

Following the meeting, another park board candidate, Melvin E. Timmons, said he thought the loan agreement illustrated "the lack of guidance" on the board.

"At best, (it was) very poor," he said. "I think some of the village taxpayers might call it something worse than that."

AND RUSH FOUND himself admitting he had made a mistake.

"We could have given them the money, but we can't lend it," he said. "It's unfortunate, in that we would like to show the hockey group that we're 100 per cent behind them."

It was, Rush said Wednesday, his idea to turn the request into a loan. In order to give the club $2,500, he said, the park district would have lost 6 per cent in interest. So, he said, he suggested it be given as a loan and the district could charge 6.5 per cent and maybe even make a few dollars.

"I take full responsibility for it myself as president," Rush added.

THE DISTRICT HAS procedures, he said, and procedures say the matter should have gone to the finance committee even though it was an emergency request. In the future, he promised, the board will follow its procedures.

The episode, he added, did have its benefits though:

"It reminds you that you don't always know everything."

Songs, speeches to mark Estonia independence

by DEBBIE JONAK

Enno Toomsalu knew Estonia when it was free, before it was swallowed by the western boundaries of the Soviet Union.

In that memory and in hope for the future, he and hundreds of other Estonian immigrants will celebrate their country's Independence Day Saturday with songs and speeches at the Chicago Estonian House, Estonian Lane in Prairie View.

They will tell the story of their homeland's long years of struggling for independence, its final triumph after World War I, then its crushing defeat after World War II.

THEY WILL WARN against communism. And they will talk about tomorrow.

"Everybody's working towards it and hoping one day Estonia will be free," Toomsalu said. He escaped Estonia in 1944, when he was 18 years old. He now is an engineer for Underwriters Laboratories and resides in Mount Prospect.

The older generation, which won freedom for Toomsalu's generation, may not expect to see a free Estonia again in their lifetime. But the wounds of their defeat hurt less with the knowledge their descendants will not give up.

"This is especially for the older people," Toomsalu said of the Independence Day observance. "The older people can look at the younger people still carrying it on, which instills hope in them that Estonia will be free."

ESTONIA IS THE northernmost of the Baltic countries, situated on the western shores of the Baltic Sea. About 1.2 million persons inhabited 18,000 square miles before World War II.

Toomsalu did not know how many live in the country now, because the Soviets are trying to dilute its population with Russian people.

Estonia has a history of captivity. The Germans were the first successful invaders, enslaving the Estonians in the 13th century. Two centuries later, the country was attacked by Russians, Poles and Swedes.

Russia defeated the Swedes in 1710, ruling the land until 1918. In that year, the Independent Republic of Estonia was formed.

TOOMSAHU WAS born in 1939 and grew up with little worry of the Russian threat. But in 1939, the Soviet Army occupied Estonia, followed by Hitler's Wehrmacht and finally, in 1944, by the Soviets.

"We didn't believe something like this could happen," Toomsalu said, explaining his generation took freedom for granted.

But his parents' generation did not. Many committed suicide when the Russians invaded, he said. Others were shot, imprisoned or shipped to Siberia.

More than 70,000 Estonians fled the country to Western Europe in 1944. In the late 1940s and early 1950s, 25,000 of those emigrated to the United States.

THEY CANNOT go back even to visit Estonia until it is free.

"They consider it a crime that I escaped from them," Toomsalu said.

To assuage their longings for the small villages they left behind in the "Land of the White Midsummer Nights," 400 area Estonian families gather together on weekends and special occasions at the Estonian House.

Drinking age plan goes to public today

The public gets its chance tonight to comment on the proposed change in the drinking age in Hoffman Estates.

The village's public health and safety committee will discuss the issue and the meeting has been turned into a "public hearing" on the proposal to raise the drinking age limit from 19 to 21.

However, if the proposal has struck a nerve in the community, residents have remained generally quiet about it.

WILLIAM W. COWIN, chairman of the committee, said he has received no indication whether many residents will attend the meeting, set for 7:30 p.m. at the municipal building, 1200 N. Cannon Dr.

"I have heard from a few people in the village in support," he said.

The matter arose in January when the change was recommended to the village board by another committee.

Most trustees appeared ready to approve the proposal at that time. However, a decision was delayed until the board's March 7 meeting when Village Pres. Virginia M. Hayter recommended that public comments be encouraged first.

Cowin conceded Wednesday the board "appears" to favor the proposal, but he pledged public views will be weighed heavily.

"There seems to be a feeling on the part of the board that there should be a change," he said. "But I do feel that the board is responsive to the community and if there is a strong expression of opposition, the board could change its position."

VILLAGE OFFICIALS say the number of 18 to 19-year-olds drinking beer and wine has increased since the state reduced the age limit to 19 four years ago and that there also has been an increase in the number of crimes committed by young people while under the influence of alcohol.

However, Village Mgr. George P. Longmeyer said there are no statistics available to document those increases because three to four months of research would be needed to compile them.

In addition, because surrounding villages would maintain the age limit of 19, two questions have been raised about the proposal.

Trustee Ralph Lysteria has questioned whether a change in Hoffman Estates only would reduce the problem significantly, and Mrs. Hayter has said she doesn't believe the impact of the proposal on traffic safety has been studied adequately.

However, both the state and the Northwest Municipal Conference, an association of 13 area towns, are studying similar proposals and communities such as Des Plaines and Palatine also are considering action.

Man seriously injured; thrown from his car

A 52-year-old Carpentersville man was seriously injured Wednesday morning when he was thrown from his car as it rolled into a ditch after two cars crashed in Hoffman Estates, police said.

Emmet Whitten was reported in critical condition in the intensive care unit of Sherman Hospital, Elgin, Wednesday night.

Police said Whitten was injured when the car he was driving collided with an auto driven by John Wolfe, 17, of Elgin, at Higgins and Barrington roads at 5:57 a.m. Wednesday.

Police said Whitten's car was east-bound on Higgins when Wolfe's car pulled onto Higgins from Barrington Road into the path of Whitten's car. The cars collided, and Whitten's auto slid, hit a curb and rolled into a ditch, police said.

Whitten reportedly was thrown 10 feet from his auto.

Hoffman Estates firefighters rushed Whitten to Sherman Hospital. He never regained consciousness, police said.

Wolfe reportedly escaped injuries. Traffic charges are pending completion of the police investigation.

Rifle-carrying man arrested near park

Hoffman Estates police Wednesday morning arrested a village man for carrying a loaded rifle through town, police said.

Police arrested Michael A. Silka, 18, of 364 Hassell Dr., at 10:10 a.m. Wednesday, and charged him with felony unlawful use of weapons and possession of a gun without a state firearms registration card.

Police said they arrested Silka after a patrolman found him walking through Highpoint Park in Hoffman Estates carrying a loaded, .50-caliber black powder musket.

Bond for Silka was set at $5,000. He was taken to Cook County Jail, Chicago, where he will await a Friday court appearance in the Hoffman Estates branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

New citizen power urged in Dist. 54

Increasing the power of citizens while decreasing that of board members and administrators in the committee system has been recommended by the Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education meeting as a committee-of-the-whole.

The committee recommended that while board members and administrators should remain members of committees they should not have a vote as they do now and that the citizens advisory council should be headed by a citizen rather than a board member.

These recommendations will be sent to the policy committee Chairman Esther Karras said the committee will write a general board policy covering committee format and will set specific guidelines for each committee.

The policy will be sent to the board for a vote at a regular board meeting.

THE BOARD has four citizen committees — business and administration, policy education and citizens advisory Teachers residents, administrators and board members make up these committees headed by a board member.

A fifth committee, budget and finance, meets as a committee-of-the-whole of the board of education.

In their discussion, the board members separated citizens advisory council from the other committees deciding that the advisory council requires less special expertise than the other committees. They agreed that board members should continue to serve as chairmen of the business and administration, policy and education committees.

THE BOARD recommended specific guidelines for which committee members may vote.

• Board members would not vote on committee issues, however if a tie vote resulted, the board member who is chairman would break the tie.

• Administrators sitting on committees would not vote, serving as advisors only.

• Teachers and citizens would be voting members.

The method for selecting citizen members for the committees should be determined by the chairmen the board decided. When the committees were formed a year ago, residents submitted resumes to the chairmen, who selected qualified citizens.

ELIZABETH CARPENTER, chairman of the citizens advisory council, recommended the number of citizens on the council be expanded from about 10 to 25 to 30 next year.

She urged that a wide spectrum of members be chosen including senior citizens and residents with no children in district schools.

Mrs. Carpenter also suggested that citizens be allowed to serve two-year terms on the council, so that their knowledge could be used for more than one year. Residents were appointed last year to one-year committee terms.

No board consensus was reached on Mrs. Carpenter's suggestions, but her ideas will be sent to the policy committee for consideration.

Gunman gets $70 at store; sought by police

Hoffman Estates police still are seeking a masked gunman who brandished an antique revolver and stole $70 cash from a 7-Eleven food store.

The gunman robbed the 7-Eleven store 2300 W. Hassell Rd. at 10:53 p.m. Monday.

The ski-masked man, who police described as about 22 years old, 5-foot 7-inches tall, weighing 140 pounds with brown hair, walked into the store, pointed a gun at the clerk and demanded money.

The clerk gave the bandit the money and the robber ordered her to lie on the floor, police said. Police said the man fled on foot toward the Barrington Lakes Apartment Complex, 2200 Hassell Rd.

The clerk then ran to the adjacent Southland Liquor Store and called police.

Police said the bandit was dressed in a blue jeans jacket, blue corduroy pants and wore a blue ski mask with red trim.

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.

By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.

The spring-like climate Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.

The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornados, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.

Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.

The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off, homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.

"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.

AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.

A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.

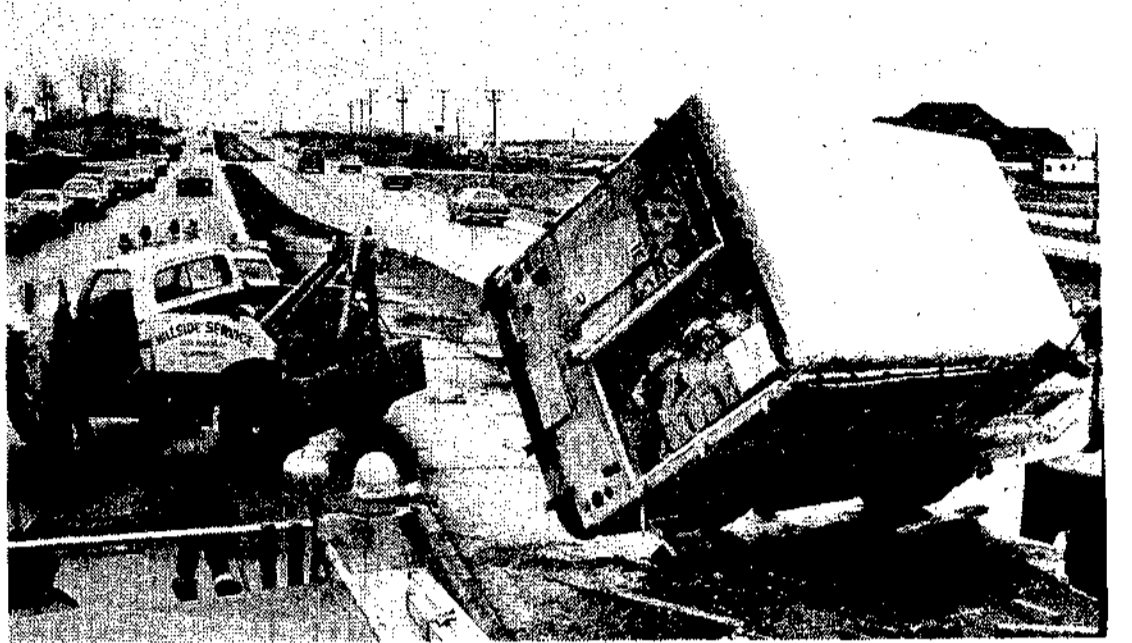

TEN INCHES OF snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.

Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.

"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

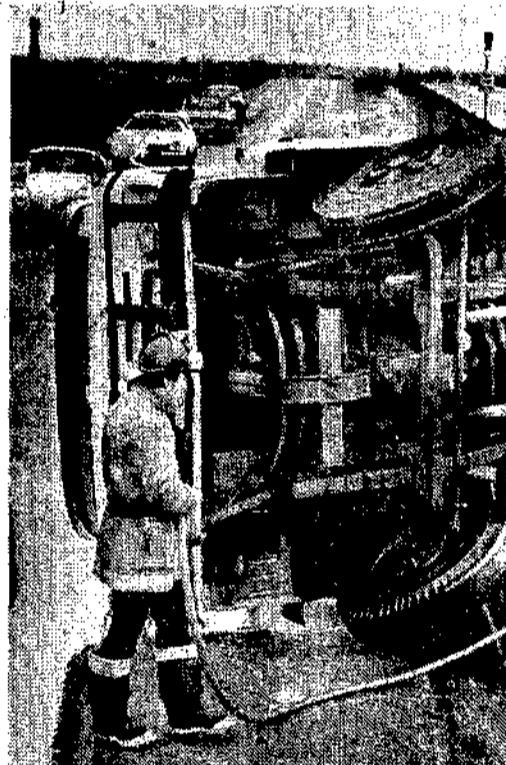

Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

At March 8 meeting

Council ready to appoint city manager

The Rolling Meadows City Council apparently is ready to appoint a permanent city manager after a search that has lasted a year-and-a-half.

Mayor Roland J. Meyer said Wednesday he expects the council to vote on the appointment at its next meeting March 8.

"Someone will make a proposal and they'll vote on it," Meyer said. "Who will present what proposal, I really don't know."

ALDERMEN MET Tuesday night behind closed doors to discuss the three candidates for the job. One alderman said Monday that a choice probably would be made at that meeting, but it would be withheld for a week so the winner could decide whether to accept.

Screening committee chairman Joseph Kiszka said Wednesday that all three candidates indicated they would take the job if it is offered.

There were no indications of a split among the aldermen after Tuesday's meeting. They spent only about an hour discussing reports on the three final candidates and their own impressions from weekend interviews, and several aldermen said no future meetings have been scheduled and predicted an announcement "within a few weeks."

The aldermen refused to comment further. Several refused to discuss the meeting at all, answering "no comment" to most questions about the meeting or the manager selection in general.

ALD. STEPHEN J. Eberhard, 3rd, said "someone at the meeting" insisted that the participants — the 10 aldermen, Meyer, City Atty. Donald Rose and City Treasurer Robert Cole — agree to make no comments afterward.

"They went around the room, and everybody raised their hands, so I think I should abide by that," Eberhard said.

The silence was a reaction to a story in Tuesday's Herald quoting an anonymous alderman who said Acting City Mgr. Charles Green and the managers of two out-of-state suburbs were the final three candidates.

That alderman also said he did not think Green was qualified for the job, and Meyer and Ald. Frederick Jacobson, 5th, criticized him Tuesday for leaking information and asked that he identify himself and apologize to Green.

"I think it's good that no one is talking," Cole said. "I think whoever talked has made everyone more conscious of the need not to talk."

The screening committee narrowed the field of applicants from 71 to three during the past six months, and presented their findings to the council Saturday. The candidates have undergone background investigations, psychological examinations and interviews.

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, lumps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways. "This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

12 hopefuls enter races for school board seats

Two incumbents and one newcomer entered the race for three seats on the Palatine Township Dist. 15 Board of Education Wednesday, the first day for filing nominating petitions.

Two candidates filed petitions in High School Dist. 214 and one incumbent filed in High School Dist. 211. Six candidates filed petitions for three seats on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

In Dist. 15 incumbents Everett Charlier, 26 S. Greenwood Dr., Palatine, and Irene Sjostedt, 314 Suffolk Ct., Hoffman Estates, filed for reelection. Charlier is seeking his third term and Mrs. Sjostedt has served 18 months on the board. The third candidate is Lynne Rowe, 723 Monterey Rd., Palatine. All seats are for three years.

INCUMBENT J. Lesley Ehringer has announced he is not seeking reelection.

Two incumbents entered the race for two positions on the High School Dist. 214 Board of Education.

Candidates for the two 3-year positions are incumbents Richard Bachhuber, 825 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, who is seeking his fifth term and John I. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights, who was appointed in September and is seeking his first elected term.

A PETITION has been issued to Donald McGlothlin, 1047 Carol, Wheeling, but he has not filed.

One resident entered the race for two seats on the High School Dist. 211 Board of Education.

Incumbent Jean Fidler, 921 S. Malard, Palatine, has filed for one of two 3-year terms. She has been on the board since 1973.

THREE RESIDENTS have been issued nominating petitions but have not returned them, officials said.

They are incumbent Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury Dr., Schaumburg, Susan Kenely, 234 Pearl Dr., Hoffman Estates and Wilfred Gustafson Jr., 1024 Mercury Dr., Schaumburg.

Seger has been on the board since 1971. He has said he plans to seek a third term.

Six candidates filed petitions Wednesday for three 3-year seats on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

ALL THREE incumbents filed for reelection. William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, filed Wednesday. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

The other incumbents are Robert Rausch, 400 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, 1138A Boxwood Dr., Mount Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms.

Newcomers are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling, Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine, and David Tomchek, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

Nominating petitions requiring the signatures of 50 registered voters are available at the administration center in all districts. The final day to file petitions is March 18.

A candidate must be at least 18 years old, a district resident for at least one year and a registered voter.

Wants to build one-family homes

Developer seeks Hoffman annex

A $27 million, 343-unit subdivision is being proposed on a 130-acre tract at the northeast corner of Algonquin and Freeman roads near Hoffman Estates.

Kennedy Co., Carol Stream, has petitioned the village for annexation and single-family zoning.

The project would include homes priced at $80,000 to $100,000 on 10,000-square-foot lots over about 60 acres, homes priced at $85,000 to $90,000 on 6,500-square-foot lots over about 45 acres, a commercial area on 12 acres, with the remaining 13 acres maintained as open space.

JERRY PARSONS, vice president of Kennedy Co., said the firm anticipates most homes will be purchased by older families, many of whom already live in the immediate area.

"From what we've seen happening in the marketplace, there are a lot of people who seven or eight years ago purchased homes in the neighborhood of 1,500 square feet, and there's a lot of equity in those homes and they want to trade up," Parsons said.

The project, to be named the Charlemagne subdivision, will be similar to the Knightsbridge subdivision now being constructed by Kennedy Co. in Schaumburg, he said.

The three-, four- and five-bedroom homes would be constructed during the next four years if the firm's request is granted, Parsons said.

CHARLEMAGNE WOULD offer nine models: two ranch-style homes, one split-level model and six two-story houses.

The commercial area would be developed by Brian Properties, Inc., Arlington Heights, and would be "almost identical" in nature to the Plum Grove Center, Rolling Meadows, said Jack Whisler of Brian Properties.

The commercial area would include a mini-service gasoline station, convenience stores and a small medical building, he said.

The medical building, Whisler said, is planned because the area will need more space for doctors' offices when the Community Hospital of Hoffman Estates is constructed.

PLANS NOW CALL for the gas station and half of the stores to be constructed in 1978, the balance of the stores in 1979, the medical building in either late 1979 or early 1980 and any remaining work in 1981.

Whisler said the commercial area, which is to be on the southwest corner of the project, will include a 50-foot strip to separate it from the houses.

While Brian Properties is developing the commercial area, Whisler said control of the property will remain with the present owner, Dr. Ralph T. Lidge of Arlington Heights.

SPRING IS right around the corner as Annette Schuette of Hoffman Estates plays Jarts at the Ned Brown Forest Preserve, Elk Grove Township.

Cigaret caused fire that gutted trailer

Palatine fire investigators have determined a burning cigarette tossed into a paper garbage bag triggered the fire that gutted a house trailer, firefighters reported Wednesday.

Fire destroyed a house trailer owned by James Carsten, who lived on Rand Road east of Hicks Road in unincorporated Palatine Township at 2:17 a.m. Tuesday, firefighters said. The dollar loss in the blaze still is under investigation.

Firefighters said Carsten told them he thought a cigarette stub had been snubbed out when he tossed the contents of an ashtray into a paper garbage bag. Carsten then went to bed, but later was awakened by a crackling sound, firefighters said.

The trailer was filled with smoke, but Carsten escaped, firefighters said.

A neighbor meanwhile had called Palatine firefighters, who extinguished the fire in 15 minutes, firefighters said.

Appeal planned to OK evidence in Columbo case

Prosecutors of accused slayers Patricia Columbo and Frank DeLuca this week will file an appeal in the Illinois Supreme Court on a judge's ruling barring them from obtaining handwriting and blood samples.

The Supreme Court, meanwhile, has denied an appeal by Cook County public defenders that bonds for Miss Columbo, 20, and DeLuca, 39, be reduced from $250,000 each to $40,000 and $20,000, respectively.

Patricia Bobbs, assistant Cook County state's attorney, Tuesday said her office will file a writ of mandamus to the high court by Friday.

Judge R. Eugene Pincham of the Cook County Circuit Court Feb. 10 denied the prosecutors' requests, saying the Illinois Constitution prohibits prosecutors from compelling defendants to produce evidence to be used against them in criminal trials.

The Supreme Court also had been considering since the fall whether to reduce the defendants' bonds and finally decided against it earlier this month.

Miss Columbo and DeLuca are charged with the May 4, 1976, murders of Miss Columbo's parents, Frank and Mary Columbo, and her 13-year-old brother, Michael, at their Elk Grove Village home, 55 E. Brantwood Dr.

Miss Columbo and DeLuca are in Cook County Jail, Chicago, awaiting their trial, which will begin April 4.

Murder victim's kin testifies at Smrekar trial

SULLIVAN, Ill (UPI) — The sister of Jay Fry testified Wednesday she heard "a roaring sound" the night her brother and his wife were murdered and that she thought someone had hit the pickup truck parked at Fry's home next door.

Ann Mardis was among the first four witnesses called in the trial of Russell Smrekar, a 21-year-old former Lincoln College student from Joliet who is charged with six counts of murder in the slayings of Fry and his pregnant wife, Robin, last Oct. 9.

A 20-year-old Rolling Meadows man and former roommate of Smrekar at Lincoln College, Michael Mansfield, still is missing. Mansfield was to have testified against Smrekar in a burglary case, but disappeared shortly before the trial in December 1975.

JAY FRY WAS to have testified against Smrekar in an unrelated theft trial shortly before Smrekar allegedly murdered Fry and his wife.

Mrs. Mardis testified the dogs at her house and the dog at the Fry home in Lincoln would not stop barking when she and her husband, Clarence, returned to their home late at night Oct. 8. She said she saw from her window that the Frys arrived home a short time later.

In a few minutes, Mrs. Mardis said, she heard "a roaring sound" and thought someone had hit Fry's pickup truck. When she looked out the window, she saw a man walking on the grass between her home and the Fry house.

She said the man put his hand to his forehead, as if he had forgotten something, and then turned back into the Fry home.

Mrs. Mardis testified she woke her husband and they called the Frys. When no one answered the phone, they went to the house and discovered the bodies in the living room.

Business group backs unit district

The Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce is giving "full support" to the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district.

The association will be developing and distributing position papers, circulating copies of Illinois Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin's letter approving a referendum on the unit district proposal, arranging to have unit district supporters speak to employees of area businesses and calling a public forum on the issue, association Pres. Jim Lancaster said.

The association is supporting the proposed unit school district because it will mean increased local control, stabilization of tax rates, the opportunity to improve the quality of education and improved continuity in curriculum, goals and methods from kindergarten through grade 12, Lancaster said.

"We're going to do all we can to inform residents about the unit district and encourage them to vote 'yes' in the referendum," he said.

The referendum will be April 9, the same day as regular school board elections. If approved by a majority, the unit district would become effective July 1. Only residents in Dist. 59 will be eligible to vote.

The unit district would combine Dist. 59 schools, Forest View High School in Arlington Heights and Elk Grove High School in Elk Grove Village under one school board and administration. Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts now in the High School Dist. 214 area.

Pizza vendor rides crust of success on CB waves

by DAVE IBATA

If the adage is true — that to succeed in a competitive field a new business needs a gimmick — a 23-year-old Arlington Heights man has found one that clicks for the pizza trade: Citizens' Band radio.

"My CB radio has helped business an awful lot," said Mark Evenson, proprietor and sole employee of the Village Town Pizza restaurant, 19 N. Vail Ave., Arlington Heights.

"I would say about 65 per cent of my business is CBers," he said. "It might have taken an awful lot longer to get this far without the CB."

Evenson describes himself as a "CB fanatic," a man who keeps a microphone on the counter of his carry-out restaurant. His portable CB radio goes wherever he goes — to work, in his car, even beside his bed at home.

"ACTUALLY, IT'S MY only social life right now because of the hours I work," said Evenson, who is single. One can find him at the eatery, slapping together hoagies and shoving pizzas into his ovens, up to 14 hours a day.

Evenson set up his business in downtown Arlington Heights in July 1976 after spending $18,000 remodeling. He specializes in pizzas and submarine sandwiches. He has more than enough competition in the Northwest suburbs.

Prospects for success, at best, looked marginal — until he discovered CB radio in August.

"A lady and her husband came in one night and told me about all the people on Channel 20," he said.

"All the people" — all 115 of them — call themselves the DUM, or "Dynamic United Modulators" Club. They pride themselves on a major difference between themselves and other CBers: they don't use "truckers' slang," the "10-4 Good Buddy" lingo of the stereotype CBer.

DUM operates in and around Arlington Heights and has staked out CB Channel 20 as its semexclusive domain.

EVENSON JOINED the club, purchased a 23-channel CB radio and base station equipment and picked a "handle," or radio nickname: "Dominiak Dicer," or "Double D." Shortly after he went on the air, word of his eatery spread over the airwaves.

"They (fellow CBers) suggested I could take orders on the radio," he said. "Basically, the people I'd take orders from mostly are people in the club."

Evenson said, "Most of the time I use it (the radio) for racket-jawing. I never advertise myself."

Today Evenson has a dependable flow of CBing customers. CBers stop at his shop on their way to and from work to pick up something to eat and high school CBers rendezvous at his store on weekends to grab a bite before heading out for a night of cruising.

Village Town even offers a "CB Special" sandwich — corned beef dipped in boiling beer on a sourdough roll or rye bread with cheese and dressing.

HOWEVER, EVENSON said, "I got the name way before I got into CB radio. It was one of the original sandwiches I started off with. The CB stands for 'corned beef.'"

Evenson does his CBing between 11 a.m., when he opens his shop, until about 5 p.m., when he often stops talking because his radio transmissions leak over into televisions owned by apartment tenants, he said.

"Sometimes we'll talk a little bit at night, and then get calls from people upstairs asking me to turn off my radio," he said.

After prime time, the radio comes back on, and stays on until Evenson closes the store — midnights on weekdays, and 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays. The radio then moves to his car, and from there, into his bedroom, where Evenson has a base station set up on his nightstand.

"Sometimes I fall asleep with the radio going," he said.

WITH THE HELP of his fellow CBers, and any other customer who drops by, Evenson said he hopes to cross the ledger line from red to black.

"If business does go as well as we anticipate, it's a possibility we might open up another store," Evenson said. He added, "But I would say the odds are against it now."

"Hopefully, we'll stick around," he said — doubtlessly with both his restaurant and his CB club in mind.

Songs, speeches to mark Estonian independence

by DEBBIE JONAK

Enno Toomsalu knew Estonia when it was free, before it was swallowed by the western boundaries of the Soviet Union.

In that memory and in hope for the future, he and hundreds of other Estonian immigrants will celebrate their country's Independence Day Saturday with songs and speeches at the Chicago Estonian House, Estonian Lane in Prairie View.

They will tell the story of their homeland's long years of struggling for independence, its final triumph after World War I, then its crushing defeat after World War II.

THEY WILL WARN against communism. And they will talk about tomorrow.

"Everybody's working towards it and hoping one day Estonia will be free," Toomsalu said. He escaped Estonia in 1944, when he was 18 years old. He now is an engineer for Underwriters Laboratories and resides in Mount Prospect.

The older generation, which won freedom for Toomsalu's generation, may not expect to see a free Estonia again in their lifetime. But the wounds of their defeat hurt less with the knowledge their descendants will not give up.

"This is especially for the older people," Toomsalu said of the Independence Day observance. "The older people can look at the younger people still carrying it on, which instills hope in them that Estonia will be free."

ESTONIA IS THE northernmost of the Baltic countries, situated on the western shores of the Baltic Sea. About 1.2 million persons inhabited 18,000 square miles before World War II.

Toomsalu did not know how many live in the country now, because the Soviets are trying to dilute its population with Russian people.

Estonia has a history of captivity. The Germans were the first successful invaders, enslaving the Estonians in the 13th century. Two centuries later, the country was attacked by Russians, Poles and Swedes.

Russia defeated the Swedes in 1710, ruling the land until 1918. In that year, the Independent Republic of Estonia was formed.

TOOMSALU WAS born in 1939 and grew up with little worry of the Russian threat. But in 1939, the Soviet Army occupied Estonia, followed by Hitler's Wehrmacht and finally, in 1944, by the Soviets.

"We didn't believe something like this could happen," Toomsalu said, explaining his generation took freedom for granted.

But his parents' generation did not. Many committed suicide when the Russians invaded, he said. Others were shot, imprisoned or shipped to Siberia.

More than 70,000 Estonians fled the country to Western Europe in 1944. In the late 1940s and early 1950s, 25,000 of those emigrated to the United States.

THEY CANNOT go back even to visit Estonia until it is free.

"They consider it a crime that I escaped from them," Toomsalu said.

To assuage their longings for the small villages they left behind in the "Land of the White Midsummer Nights," 400 area Estonian families gather together on weekends and special occasions at the Estonian House.

"Although we associate with our neighbors, the best friends and best times we ever have is with our Estonian friends," he said.

A VERY MUSICAL people, they have choral and dance groups and programs at the house. They also have drama productions, bridge parties and Estonian classes.

They consider themselves American citizens now, but refuse to forget their background, Toomsalu said. If Estonia were freed, he said he would not return until retirement, unless there was a shortage of engineers.

"I have a profession here, I went to school and got a college education here," he said.

But the Estonians will fight for their country by warning the free world against communism, he said.

THEY ALSO WARN their children,

while attempting to instill in them Estonian pride and tradition.

"We feel it's very important the younger children know about the old country of their parents," he said. "If Estonia is free sometime, the children will be curious enough to go visit."

Or maybe even stay, using their talents to build up Estonia once more, he added.

Two charged in restaurant brawl

Two men, including a 19-year-old Rolling Meadows man, must appear in court March 17 to answer charges they brandished knives at bystanders in a Palatine restaurant, police reported Wednesday.

Police said they arrested Richard

W. Oliver, of 3600 Bobolink Ln., Rolling Meadows, and Joseph F. Eschbach, 30, of Chicago, after they threatened employees and customers at the Burger King restaurant, 1640 E. Northwest Hwy., Tuesday night.

Three Palatine policemen rushed to the restaurant and arrested the pair, police said.

At the Palatine police station, Oliver allegedly resisted a search of his belongings, and took a swing at two patrolmen.

Oliver and Eschbach were charged with disorderly conduct and unlawful use of weapons. Oliver also was charged with resisting police. Both were released on $1,000 bond each, and ordered to appear March 17 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Police are investigating whether the incident may be related to one Monday night at the Jack-in-the-Box restaurant at Northwest Highway and Palatine Road, in which 21-year-old David E. Sharpe, of Palatine, was stabbed in the chest by a member of the "Ghost Riders" motorcycle gang.

Mrs. Robert E. Sharpe, 452 Stuart Ln., Palatine Wednesday said her son was not a member of the gang, as was reported by the police Tuesday. Sharpe remains in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

GOP leader speaks to township tonight

Harold L. Tyrrell, Cook County Republican chairman, will speak tonight at the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization meeting.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Palatine Township Hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

The documentary film, "The Price of Peace and Freedom," will be shown.

DeGrazia settles into suburban consulting

Dan's man on leave from state politics

by STEVE BROWN

Today, Victor deGrazia sits in his Park Ridge office, looking out over the potholes on Northwest Highway. Regarded by many as the man behind former Gov. Daniel Walker, Victor deGrazia has returned from Springfield, bought a home in Long Grove and is beginning a consulting firm in search of clients.

"I decided I needed to make money. That has always been a noble goal," deGrazia, deputy governor in the Walker administration, said. The suburbs are familiar to the man who has been fighting the "good fight" for independent Democrats for the past two decades on every front, from the wards of Chicago's Hyde Park to the statehouse in Springfield.

He said former Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's death offers new opportunities for the suburbs because there are no political leaders who can exert the same type of control in the Illinois General Assembly like the late mayor did.

"WHO DOES THOMPSON call when he needs the Democrats' votes? In the past when Daley needed to deliver a bloc of votes, he could leapfrog the suburban guys and get the votes Downstate.

"Now there are suburban legislators who could work with Daley, but what does a call from (Acting Mayor) Mike Bilandic mean to them," deGrazia said.

DeGrazia said local government officials throughout the state should begin pushing for programs that have direct, automatic funding. He said such a system that gives set percentage payout for programs would end some of the yearly political wrangling over appropriations.

"Look at the way Daley set up the RTA funding with the direct payment. He was a master at that kind of deal," deGrazia added.

WITH HIS FONDNESS for a good

political fight deeply rooted in Illinois political legends, deGrazia leaves no doubt that the Independent organization developed for Walker will live.

The 48 year-old classical music love said the Illinois Democratic Fund will continue to pump out a newsletter. The first issue was devoted largely to Walker.

While deGrazia would like to see another Walker campaign, he does not seem to be waiting just for that to happen.

"I'll be down in Springfield in a few weeks to get in touch with a few people. Someone reminded me the other day that even if Walker does not run, there is still a Senate race," deGrazia said.

He said the popular vote getter, U.S. Sen Charles Percy, R-Ill., was not invincible at the polls.

"THE DEMOCRATS are supposed to be worried about 1978, but if Walker runs against Thompson, he will have his hands full. I don't think Percy will want to get near that. A high quality candidate could handle him," he said.

A restless man not unlike a hungry bear waiting to pounce, deGrazia suggests that the state money shortage that developed almost overnight during the final year of Walker administration was one of the administration's major problems.

"I still don't know what happened. Why the Bureau of the Budget reversed itself in the middle of the legislative session, telling us to cut the budget 6 per cent, I'll never know," he added. The subsequent budget cut triggered a storm of protest and a fight between Walker and the legislature.

DeGrazia minces no words in his analysis of Thompson's first month in office.

"I think he has been lazy. He said the job is harder than he expected. I don't know what he expected," deGazia said.

WAITING FOR clients and the next campaign, Victor deGrazia, former Gov. Dan Walker's deputy governor, has formed a consulting firm in Park Ridge. Regarded as one of the shrewdest of Illinois politicians he leaves no doubt he and maybe Walker will be back on the political scene in the future.

"HERE IS A GUY who was a shoe-in and he did not really have anybody picked to serve in the government. There have been comparisons between Carter and Thompson, but Carter, who was involved in a horse race, had people out interviewing people for jobs before the election.

"I think it shows Thompson is ill-prepared for the job," he said.

As he sipped ginger ale from a Mickey Mouse mug, deGrazia said he is prepared to lend his expertise to local governments. And now he waits.

His decision to set up office in the suburbs caused a rumble among some area politicians who wonder privately what he is up to.

In the meantime, he has hung a few pictures and mementos from past political battles on the walls of his office and has settled other possessions, like the Walking Dan Walker paperweight inscribed "to the best friend a walker can have," on the oval table that serves as a desk.

"I will continue to do what I have always been doing. It is terribly important that what we started in outside of Chicago politics continue so I think it will, whether Dan Walker runs for the office or not."

Cherry Pie school reunion plum good for reminiscing

by DIANE GRANAT

The only reason people go to high school reunions, says Dorothy Wood Lunde, Class of 1910, is "to see who has fallen apart the most."

So the 86-year-old alumna of Maine High School in Des Plaines came to Maine East High School Tuesday to see some of her classmates at the school's annual Cherry Pie Festival.

The festival, which since 1930 has honored George Washington on his birthday, this year also honored Maine Township alumni as High School Dis. 207 celebrates its 75th anniversary.

MRS. LUNDE, WHO has lived in the same house at 322 N. Prospect, Park Ridge, for the past 70 years, came to the festival with her brother-in-law Erling Lunde, also of the Class of '10.

It was at Maine High School 67 years ago, Lunde told students, that he first kissed his future sister-in-law Dorothy in a school play. But his older brother married her and "I claimed ever since that he got her second hand because I kissed her first," Lunde said.

Besides occasional romance in their class of 18 students, Lunde said he and his friends kept busy studying English, spelling, history, Latin, German, physiology and penmanship — subjects many educators wish were still the required fare in high schools.

The school the Lundes attended, located on Thacker Street in Des Plaines, accommodated about 100 students in 1910 — a tiny roll compared to the four Maine Township high schools that now have almost 12,000 students.

THE THACKER STREET school, Lunde said, had no cafeteria, so a group of boys calling themselves the "Hungry Seven" used a bunsen burner and sat at the bottom of a staircase to make cocoa and eat sandwiches during the school day.

Mrs. Lunde recalled that teachers back in 1910 were much stricter than they are today. She said one Valentine's Day a group of girls had a dinner party and because it was before the car era, "we had to go home on the 11 o'clock train."

But even with an early curfew "we were failed for a month by our language teacher for having a mid-week party — even though it was with our parents' consent and in our homes," she said.

The Lundes were not the only alumni telling stories to 150 students eating cherry pie in the cafeteria of Maine East, 2801 Dempster St., Park Ridge. They were joined by at least one representative of each decade since 1910.

RUSSEL KOBOW, Class of '29, remembered the variety show he and some friends presented one year. "The show consisted of a couple of my classmates dressed up as chicks, with grapefruits as the upper parts," Kobow said, (pointing) to his chest.

David Wolf, Class of '48 and a candidate for mayor of Des Plaines, recalled that the 1940s were the "era of music at Maine" with students interested in "the new dances, the new pop artists and Sinatra."

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.

By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 50, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.

The spring-like clime Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.

The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornadoes, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.

Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.

The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.

"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.

AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.

A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.

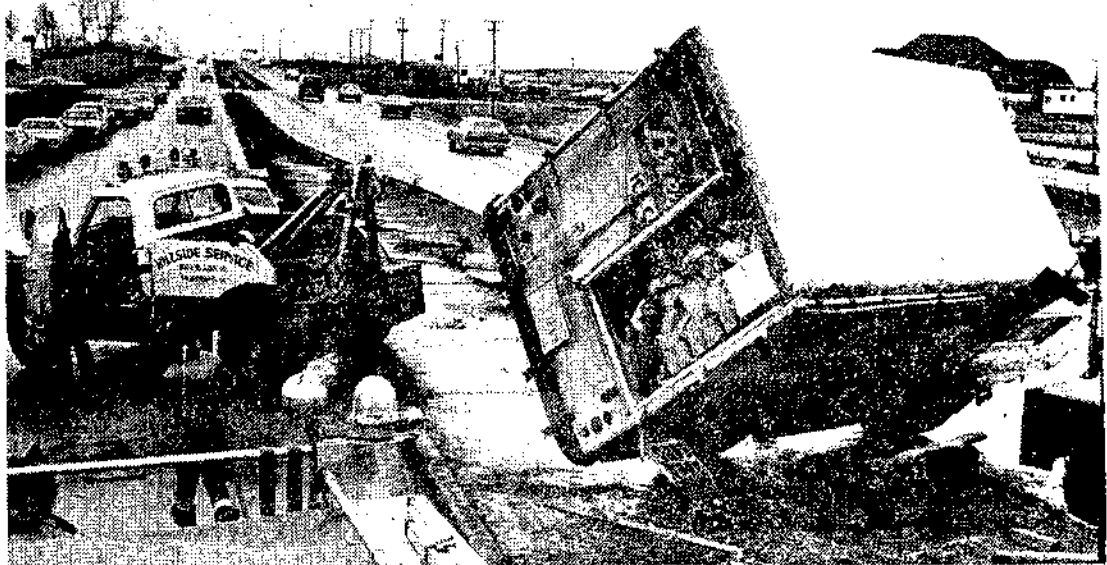

TEN INCHES OF snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.

Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.

"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

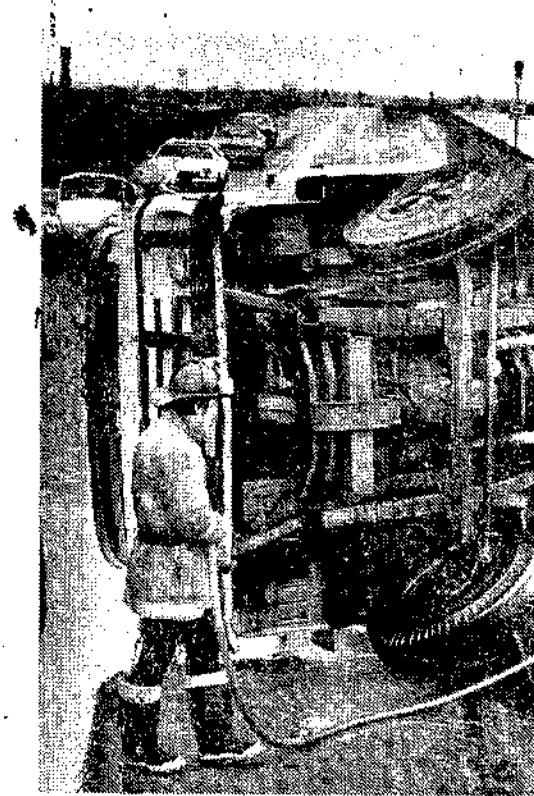

Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

By Dist. 211 board

$1 million price tag set on high school

by LUISA GINETTI

The price tag on the old Palatine High School has been set at $1.03 million by the High School Dist. 211 school board.

The price was announced late Tuesday by the school board following an executive session. The figure was set after village officials requested a "rock bottom" price so they can determine if it is more economically feasible to buy the school building for use as a village hall or add on to the current village hall.

Robert Creek, school board president, said the figure was derived from an appraisal of the 12 acre site at 150 E. Wood St., done within the last six months.

"WE HAVE 12 1/2 ACRES of property with improvements," Creek said Wednesday. "We're saying that based on an appraisal of the fair market value of the property for recreational and office use this is a fair price."

The village will be officially notified of the price in a letter which also proposes payments be made in 10 equal annual installments. Creek said the school board would prefer to receive the payments in installments because it would be better for taxpayers.

Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones said he was not surprised at the figure and said he still feels village purchase of the school building is a viable alternative to adding on to the current village hall.

"I don't think it kills the high school project," Jones said. "It just gives us a known cost which we can add to the cost for remodeling the building and demolition to put on the ballot."

THE VILLAGE IS planning an advisory referendum for late May asking voters to decide if village hall should be expanded or if village hall facilities should be moved to the school.

The school will be abandoned by the district in September when the new Palatine High School on Rohlwing Road north of the Winston Park subdivision is opened.

The village has commissioned an architectural study to get cost estimates on constructing an addition to village hall versus remodeling the school for village hall use. The study will be presented to the village board March 7.

Jones said the high school price may make moving to the facility less economically attractive but he said until all the cost factors are known, the option of purchasing the building cannot be ruled out.

WALDON DEGNER, Palatine Park District president, was unavailable for comment Wednesday. The park board tentatively has set an April 19 (Continued on Page 8)

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, lumps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2 1/2, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways. "This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

Loneliness ceases by helping others

Simple vow alters brother's life

by MARY DIETER

Until Fannie died Louis Roncoli had everything he wanted.

He never was bored or lonely for a minute. He had a "very wonderful marriage," he says, and a successful business in New Jersey.

But when Fannie died in August 1969, all that changed. He enjoyed his job and his privacy, but his wife's death left an emptiness that took three years to fill.

"COMMITMENTS HAVE been sacred in my life," he says. "When one commitment you make is terminated, you can make another."

He tried volunteer work at a New York hospital for terminally ill cancer patients. He even planned to retire from the manufacturing company that he owned to do charity work full-time.

But three years of living alone showed him it was time to find something else. So, at 62, Roncoli decided to join a religious order.

Five years later, Roncoli is known as Brother Louie, an administrative assistant at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

"IT'S A DEFINITE advantage, having seen both worlds," Brother Louie says. "It makes me appreciate the problems and the good things outside."

He's a short man, with thinning gray hair, and he says he often surprises people when he tells them of his short tenure with the order.

"It throws them as soon as I tell them I haven't been around for 50 years," he says in his gravelly New York accent.

"The trend is that the order is looking for more mature people to go into religious life," he adds. "Then you give them time to really appreciate if this is what they want."

BROTHER LOUIE made his decision in 1972 when he entered an associates' program in Elizabeth, N. J.

"I've always been religiously inclined throughout my life," he says. "And I just couldn't see myself living with someone else."

He has taken "simple vows" each year since 1974, which allow him to leave the order if he chooses, but Brother Louie said he's there to stay. "Actually, I made life vows the minute I entered," he says.

THE NEW LIFE has taken him from his private apartment to sharing a house with 100 other brothers and his new job has made him "basier than I've ever been in my life."

Beside his administrative work, he's involved in money raising for the hospital, the hospital's auxiliary, the volunteer program, the hospital board of trustees and six committees.

But other than that, things are pretty much the same.

"My life hasn't changed one iota since coming to the brothers," he says.

MEMORIES STILL remain vivid, he says, memories of former jobs and especially of Fannie, "a terrific person."

"I guess that's why I miss her so much. I don't think I could ever put a marriage together like that again," he says, adding quickly, "and I'm not trying to."

"I'm very happy with my decision," Brother Louie adds. Again, he has everything he wants.

Tax increase favored to hire police: survey

Initial returns of a Palatine Township police committee survey show residents favor raising taxes to hire more police by about 2 to 1.

John Serio, chairman of the committee, said about 1,000 surveys have been returned. He said the first returns have been separated into categories of those in favor and those opposed to a special tax to finance the hiring of more police.

"At first blush it's 2 to 1 for additional taxes for more police," Serio said.

Serio said the returns will not be officially tabulated until next week because probably not all have arrived. The township had asked that the surveys be mailed back to the township hall by Feb. 22.

ONE QUESTION on the survey asked if residents would be willing to pay a tax of up to $10 per $10,000 of assessed valuation on their homes for additional police protection. Serio said because residents received their tax assessments about the same time the surveys arrived in the mail, residents would have a good idea of the maximum they would have to pay for additional police.

"I would have to gather we would have had less no's (to the question asking for additional taxes) if the assessments had come at a different time," Serio said.

THE SURVEYS were mailed to about 7,000 homes, primarily in the unincorporated areas of Palatine Township.

The township police committee met representatives of the Cook County Sheriff's police Wednesday night. Serio said the meeting was arranged to clarify the service now offered to the unincorporated areas of the township and to find out what additional police will cost.

SERIO SAID there is "about a 25 per cent possibility" that the township will contract with Cook County for more protection.

"Most people are unhappy with what they're getting from the county," he said.

Serio said he hopes the police committee can make a recommendation to the township board of auditors before the annual town meeting in April.

The hiring of additional police requires voter approval at either a town meeting or through a referendum.

Village budget reductions made

Minor changes in the proposed 1977-78 budgets of the village clerk and the village administration have been made by the Palatine Village Board.

The changes include reductions of $2,000 in the administration budget for printing services, $6,000 in the village clerk's budget for elections and $1,250 in the village board's budget for memberships, conferences, travel and meeting expenses.

Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig said the board also cut a budget appropriation from $6,000 to $2,000 for a new car. The board said the cut was made pending a review of the vehicle replacement policy.

The cut in appropriations for printing services, which cover the village newsletter, reduced that account to $8,000, Harwig said.

The election account was reduced from $10,000 to $4,000 because the village will not have to hold a primary election, officials said.

Reductions in the village board budget included $500 for conferences, $100 for travel and $500 for meetings.

Membership dues were reduced from $3,500 to $3,350 because of the village's decision to discontinue membership in the Cook County Council of Governments, whose membership fee is $150 per year.

The board has scheduled a budget hearing for 8 p.m. Thursday to discuss the budgets of the health, finance and building departments. A meeting also has been tentatively set for 7 p.m. Sunday to discuss the fire and police department budgets.

GOP leader speaks to township tonight

Harold L. Tyrrell, Cook County Republican chairman, will speak tonight at the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization meeting.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Palatine Township Hall, 37 N. Plum Grove Rd., Palatine.

The documentary film, "The Price of Peace and Freedom," will be shown.

Hopefuls file in 3 school districts

Three candidates entered the race for three seats on the Palatine Township Dist. 15 Board of Education while six candidates filed for three positions on the Harper College Board of Trustees Wednesday, the first day of filing nominating petitions.

In High School Dist. 211, one candidate filed petitions.

In Dist. 15, three candidates returned petitions for three 3-year terms.

INCUMBENTS EVERETT Charlier, 26 S. Greenwood Dr., Palatine, and Irene Sjostedt, 314 Suffolk Ct., Hoffman Estates, filed for reelection. Charlier is seeking his third term and Mrs. Sjostedt has served 18 months on the board. The third candidate is newcomer Lynn Rowe, 723 Monterrey Rd., Palatine.

Incumbent J. Lesley Ehringer has announced he is not seeking reelection.

Six candidates filed nominating petitions for three 3-year seats on the Harper Board.

All three incumbents filed for reelection. William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, filed Wednesday. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

THE OTHER INCUMBENTS are Robert Rausch, 400 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates, and Judith Troehler, 1138A Boxwood Dr., Mount Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms. Newcomers are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling; Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine; and David Tomcheck, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

One resident entered the race for two seats on the Dist. 211 Board.

Incumbent Jean Fiesler, 921 S. Malard, Palatine, has filed for one of two 3-year terms. She has been on the board since 1973.

THREE RESIDENTS HAVE been issued nominating petitions but have not returned them, officials said.

They are incumbent Robert Seger, 919 Canterbury Dr., Schaumburg; Susan Kenely, 234 Pearl Dr., Hoffman Estates; and Wilfred Gustafson Jr., 1024 Mercury Dr., Schaumburg.

Nominating petitions requiring the signatures of 50 registered voters are available at the administration center in all districts. The final day to file petitions is March 18.

A candidate must be at least 18, a district resident for at least one year and a registered voter.

Two men charged in restaurant brawl

Two men, including a 19-year-old Rolling Meadows man, must appear in court March 17 to answer charges they brandished knives at bystanders in a Palatine restaurant, police reported Wednesday.

Police said they arrested Richard W. Oliver, of 3600 Bobolink Ln., Rolling Meadows, and Joseph F. Eschbach, 30, of Chicago, after they threatened employees and customers at the Burger King restaurant, 1540 E. Northwest Hwy., Tuesday night.

Three Palatine policemen rushed to the restaurant and arrested the pair, police said.

At the Palatine police station, Oliver allegedly resisted a search of his belongings, and took a swing at two patrolmen.

Oliver and Eschbach were charged with disorderly conduct and unlawful use of weapons. Oliver also was charged with resisting police. Both were released on $1,000 bond each, and ordered to appear March 17 in the Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Police are investigating whether the incident may be related to one Monday night at the Jack-in-the-Box restaurant at Northwest Highway and Palatine Road, in which 21-year-old David E. Sharpe, of Palatine, was stabbed in the chest by a member of the "Ghost Riders" motorcycle gang.

Mrs. Robert E. Sharpe, 452 Stuart Ln., Palatine Wednesday said her son was not a member of the gang, as was reported by the police Tuesday. Sharpe remains in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights.

March 29 hearing to head panels

Pretrial hearings for William E. Fashing, 36, of Palatine, charged with attempted murder in the bombing of his wife's car Oct. 4, were continued Wednesday morning to March 29 in the Evanston branch of Cook County Circuit Court.

Prosecutors and defense attorneys agreed on the continuance because of the heavy case load in the Evanston court, said a spokesman for the state's attorney's office.

Fashing, who is free on $10,000 bond, allegedly planted a bomb in his wife's car while it was parked in Arlington Heights. The bomb exploded prematurely, and Fashing received minor injuries.

Police arrested Fashing Oct. 6.

Songs, speeches to mark Estonian independence

by DEBBIE JONAK

Enno Toomsalu knew Estonia when it was free, before it was swallowed by the western boundaries of the Soviet Union.

In that memory and in hope for the future, he and hundreds of other Estonian immigrants will celebrate their country's Independence Day Saturday with songs and speeches at the Chicago Estonian House, Estonian Lane in Prairie View.

They will tell the story of their homeland's long years of struggling for independence, its final triumph after World War I, then its crushing defeat after World War II.

THEY WILL WARN against communism. And they will talk about tomorrow.

"Everybody's working towards it and hoping one day Estonia will be free," Toomsalu said. He escaped Estonia in 1944, when he was 18 years old. He now is an engineer for Underwriters Laboratories and resides in Mount Prospect.

The older generation, which won freedom for Toomsalu's generation, may not expect to see a free Estonia again in their lifetime. But the wounds of their defeat hurt less with the knowledge their descendants will not give up.

"This is especially for the older people," Toomsalu said of the Independence Day observance. "The older people can look at the younger people still carrying it on, which instills hope in them that Estonia will be free."

ESTONIA IS THE northernmost of the Baltic countries, situated on the western shores of the Baltic Sea. About 12 million persons inhabited 18,000 square miles before World War II.

Toomsalu did not know how many live in the country now, because the Soviets are trying to dilute its population with Russian people.

Estonia has a history of captivity. The Germans were the first successful invaders, enslaving the Estonians in the 13th century. Two centuries later, the country was attacked by Russians, Poles and Swedes.

Russia defeated the Swedes in 1710, ruling the land until 1918. In that year, the Independent Republic of Estonia was formed.

TOOMSALU WAS born in 1939 and grew up with little worry of the Russian threat. But in 1939, the Soviet Army occupied Estonia, followed by Hitler's Wehrmacht and finally, in 1944, by the Soviets.

"We didn't believe something like this could happen," Toomsalu said, explaining his generation took freedom for granted.

But his parents' generation did not. Many committed suicide when the Russians invaded, he said. Others were shot, imprisoned or shipped to Siberia.

More than 70,000 Estonians fled the country to Western Europe in 1944. In the late 1940s and early 1950s, 25,000 of those emigrated to the United States.

THEY CANNOT go back even to visit Estonia until it is free.

"They consider it a crime that I escaped from them," Toomsalu said.

To assuage their longings for the small villages they left behind in the "Land of the White Midsummer Nights," 400 area Estonian families gather together on weekends and special occasions at the Estonian House.

"Although we associate with our neighbors, the best friends and best times we ever have is with our Estonian friends," he said.

A VERY MUSICAL people, they have choral and dance groups and programs at the house. They also have drama productions, bridge parties and Estonian classes.

They consider themselves American citizens now, but refuse to forget their background, Toomsalu said. If Estonia were freed, he said he would not return until retirement, unless there was a shortage of engineers.

"I have a profession here, I went to school and got a college education here," he said.

But the Estonians will fight for their country by warning the free world against communism, he said.

THEY ALSO WARN their children,

while attempting to instill in them Estonian pride and tradition.

"We feel it's very important the younger children know about the old country of their parents," he said. "If Estonia is free sometime, the children will be curious enough to go visit."

Or maybe even stay, using their talents to build up Estonia once more, he added.

date for a referendum to ask voters to authorize the sale of $200,000 in bonds as its share to purchase the site.

The park district has said it is interested in acquiring Cutting Hall and land at the site for recreational use. The village would use the 1965 portion of the building and demolish the remaining structure to provide parking.

Village, school and park district officials have been meeting for more than a year trying to work out a purchase negotiation for the school. The park district offered Creek $200,000 for the site which was rejected. Jones said he offered Creek $305,000, including the park district's offer, for the site which also was rejected.

The school district remained silent until Tuesday on a price for the building but early unofficial quotes had been placed from $400,000 to $750,000.

A SCHOOL DISTRICT appraisal of the site more than a year ago placed the value at about $1.05 million.

Creek said for the village to duplicate the current school building on 12 acres would cost $10 million.

Creek added the school district would be willing to negotiate further with the village and park district but he still hopes to sell the site for $1 million.

If the site is not used for municipal or park district purposes, the village board has gone on record as saying the property will be zoned for single-family use.

DeGrazia settles into suburban consulting

Dan's man on leave from state politics

by STEVE BROWN

Today, Victor deGrazia sits in his Park Ridge office, looking out over the potholes on Northwest Highway. Regarded by many as the man behind former Gov. Daniel Walker, Victor deGrazia has returned from Springfield, bought a home in Long Grove and is beginning a consulting firm in search of clients.

"I decided I needed to make money. That has always been a noble goal," deGrazia, deputy governor in the Walker administration, said. The suburbs are familiar to the man who has been fighting the "good fight" for independent Democrats for the past two decades on every front, from the wards of Chicago's Hyde Park to the statehouse in Springfield.

He said former Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley's death offers new opportunities for the suburbs because there are no political leaders who can exert the same type of control in the Illinois General Assembly like the late mayor did.

"WHO DOES THOMPSON call when he needs the Democrats' votes? In the past when Daley needed to deliver a bloc of votes, he could leapfrog the suburban guys and get the votes Downstate.

"Now there are suburban legislators who could work with Daley, but what does a call from (Acting Mayor) Mike Blandin mean to them," deGrazia said.

DeGrazia said local government officials throughout the state should begin pushing for programs that have direct, automatic funding. He said such a system that gives set percentage payout for programs would end some of the yearly political wrangling over appropriations.

"Look at the way Daley set up the RTA funding with the direct payment. He was a master at that kind of deal," deGrazia added.

WITH HIS FONDNESS for a good

political fight deeply rooted in Illinois political legends, deGrazia leaves no doubt that the independent organization developed for Walker will live.

The 48-year-old classical music love said the Illinois Democratic Fund will continue to pump out a newsletter. The first issue was devoted largely to Walker.

While deGrazia would like to see another Walker campaign, he does not seem to be waiting just for that to happen.

"I'll be down in Springfield in a few weeks to get in touch with a few people. Someone reminded me the other day that even if Walker does not run, there is still a Senate race," deGrazia said.

He said the popular vote getter, U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, R-IL., was not invincible at the polls.

"THE DEMOCRATS are supposed to be worried about 1978, but if Walker runs against Thompson, he will have his hands full. I don't think Percy will want to get near that. A high quality candidate could handle him," he said.

A restless man not unlike a hungry bear waiting to pounce, deGrazia suggests that the state money shortage that developed almost overnight during the final year of Walker administration was one of the administration's major problems.

"I still don't know what happened. Why the Bureau of the Budget reversed itself in the middle of the legislative session, telling us to cut the budget 6 per cent, I'll never know," he added. The subsequent budget cut triggered a storm of protest and a fight between Walker and the legislature.

DeGrazia minces no words in his analysis of Thompson's first month in office.

"I think he has been lazy. He said the job is harder than he expected. I don't know what he expected," deGrazia said.

WAITING FOR clients and the next campaign, Victor deGrazia, former Gov. Dan Walker's deputy governor, has formed a consulting firm in Park Ridge. Regarded as one of the shrewdest of Illinois politicians he leaves no doubt he and maybe Walker will be back on the political scene in the future.

azia said.

"HERE IS A GUY who was a shoe-in and he did not really have anybody picked to serve in the government. There have been comparisons between Carter and Thompson, but Carter, who was involved in a horse race, had people out interviewing people for jobs before the election.

"I think it shows Thompson is ill-prepared for the job," he said.

As he sipped ginger ale from a Mickey Mouse mug, deGrazia said he is prepared to lend his expertise to local governments. And now he waits.

His decision to set up office in the suburbs caused a rumble among some area politicians who wonder privately what he is up to.

In the meantime, he has hung a few pictures and mementos from past political battles on the walls of his office and has settled other possessions, like the Walking Dan Walker paperweight inscribed "to the best friend a walker can have," on the oval table that serves as a desk.

"I will continue to do what I have always been doing. It is terribly important that what we started in outside of Chicago politics continue so I think it will, whether Dan Walker runs for the office or not."

Cherry Pie school reunion plum good for reminiscing

by DIANE GRANAT

The only reason people go to high school reunions, says Dorothy Wood Lunde, Class of 1910, is "to see who has fallen apart the most."

So the 85-year-old alumna of Maine High School in Des Plaines came to Maine East High School Tuesday to see some of her classmates at the school's annual Cherry Pie Festival.

The festival, which since 1930 has honored George Washington on his birthday, this year also honored Maine Township alumni as High School Dis. 207 celebrates its 75th anniversary.

MRS. LUNDE, WHO has lived in the same house at 322 N. Prospect, Park Ridge, for the past 70 years, came to the festival with her brother-in-law Erling Lunde, also of the Class of '10.

It was at Maine High School 67 years ago, Lunde told students, that he first kissed his future sister-in-law Dorothy in a school play. But his older brother married her and "I claimed ever since that he got her second hand because I kissed her first," Lunde said.

Besides occasional romance in their class of 18 students, Lunde said he and his friends kept busy studying English, spelling, history, Latin, German, physiology and penmanship — subjects many educators wish were still the required fare in high schools.

The school the Lundes attended, located on Thacker Street in Des Plaines, accommodated about 100 students in 1910 — a tiny roll compared to the four Maine Township high schools that now have almost 12,000 students.

THE THACKER STREET school, Lunde said, had no cafeteria, so a group of boys calling themselves the "Hungry Seven" used a bunsen burner and sat at the bottom of a staircase to make cocoa and eat sandwiches during the school day.

Mrs. Lunde recalled that teachers back in 1910 were much stricter than they are today. She said one Valentine's Day a group of girls had a dinner party and because it was before the car era, "we had to go home on the 11 o'clock train."

But even with an early curfew "we were failed for a month by our language teacher for having a mid-week party — even though it was with our parents' consent and in our homes," she said.

The Lundes were not the only alumni telling stories to 150 students eating cherry pie in the cafeteria of Maine East, 2801 Dempster St., Park Ridge. They were joined by at least one representative of each decade since 1910.

RUSSEL KOBOW, Class of '29, remembered the variety show he and some friends presented one year. "The show consisted of a couple of my classmates dressed up as chicks, with grapefruits as the upper parts," Kobow said, (pointing to his chest).

David Wolf, Class of '48 and a candidate for mayor of Des Plaines, recalled that the 1940s were the "era of music at Maine" with students interested in "the new dances, the new pop artists and Sinatra."

Spring-like weather roars across nation

From Herald News Services
It was April in February.

By late Wednesday the National Weather Service was reporting a high temperature of 59, equalling the record set in 1930. The prediction is that temperatures will continue today in the mid-50s, with showers and thunderstorms tapering off through the day.

The spring-like climate Northwest suburban residents are enjoying may be welcome, but it comes at the expense of violent weather fronts that brought dust storms and tornadoes to much of the Midwest and western Plains Wednesday.

DUST STORMS, churned by winds up to 90 miles an hour, swept the drought-parched western Plains and were so bad in Kansas a postman could not even complete his appointed rounds.

The turbulent storm system hit the midlands with tornadoes, violent winds, snow and freezing rain along with the dust. An elderly woman died in a Missouri twister.

Winter and spring appeared to be fighting, several weeks prematurely, for the upper hand in the Midwest and South.

The 90-mile-an-hour, dust-filled winds in eastern Colorado and western Kansas yanked roofs off homes and closed schools and highways.

YSABEL OROSCO, a rural mailman out of Garden City, Kan., ran into zero visibility while on his rounds and drove his car into a ditch. He reached sheriff's deputies through Citizens' Band radio and was rescued.

"It's so bad out there you can't even see the front of your car," he said. "I haven't made my rounds. I told the postmaster I locked my car and the mail's inside. I'll just have to wait until the dust settles to go back out."

Cecil Stone, a deputy sheriff in Limon, Colo., said, "I can barely see a block away from where I am standing. Rooftops are being pried loose. The wind is really blowing."

Southeast of the dust belt, a chill rain washed the rubble left by New Orleans' Mardi Gras and chased the last of the celebrators off the streets.

AN EARLY MORNING twister dipped down on two mobile home courts near Joplin, Mo., and high winds ripped another near Galena, Kan. A 78-year-old woman was killed when her mobile home was destroyed near Joplin, and at least three other persons were injured.

A tornado was reported by the public near Lakeview, Miss. Tornado watches or warnings were posted in parts of Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, Tennessee and Mississippi.

A late winter snow storm swirled across the northern Plains and freezing rain turned Minnesota streets and highways into virtual skating rinks.

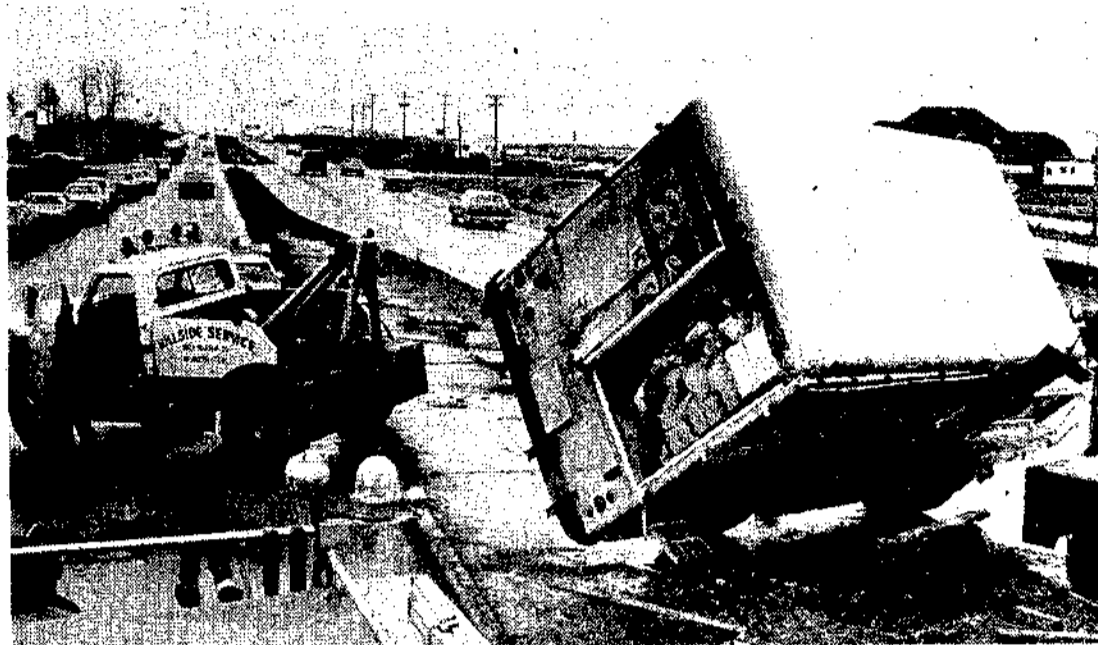

TEN INCHES OF snow piled up at Lead, in South Dakota's Black Hills. Strong northerly winds whipped up to eight inches of snow into deep drifts at Winner, S.D. Schools closed in several South Dakota communities.

Forty-five-mile-an-hour winds whipped six inches of snow at Valentine, Neb., blocking U.S. 20 south of the north central Nebraska city and causing power failures.

"We're really socked in," a Valentine observer reported.

The southern two-thirds of Minnesota was iced up by the storm and schools called off or delayed classes in many communities. More than 100 county road workers went on strike at the height of the storm in the Rochester, Minn., area.

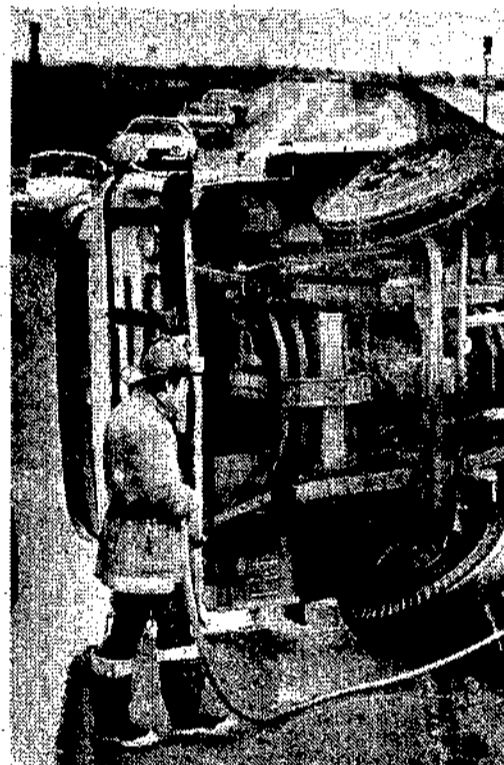

Emergency room personnel in two Twin Cities hospitals urged the elderly to stay inside to avoid broken bones.

A little tipsy...

FIREFIGHTERS AND POLICE aided in an unusual rescue mission at 10:40 a.m. Wednesday when a Bresler's Ice Cream truck tipped over on Dundee Road east of Ill. Rte. 53, and threatened to coat the highway with sticky ooze as the contents of the truck started to melt under 60-degree temperatures. The truck had been westbound on Dundee when it skidded out of control on rain-slick pavement, struck the median and tipped over. The occupants of the truck escaped injury.

AN ARLINGTON HEIGHTS firefighter hoses down spilled gasoline, while road crews work frantically to right the truck.

ONCE THE TRUCK is righted, driver Dan Graziano and his brother, Sal, transfer slightly dented goodies to another vehicle.

CIA free of illegality says Carter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Carter Wednesday said he has reviewed reports the CIA secretly paid millions of dollars to foreign leaders and concluded, "I have not found anything illegal or improper" in the agency's work.

Appearing somewhat angered, Carter also said Americans must understand the need for secrecy — and the danger of leaks — in some aspects of covert intelligence work.

And in the second press conference of his presidency, he also:

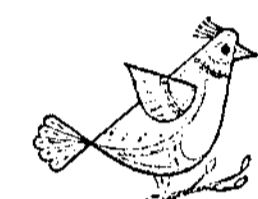

- Said some natural gas is being withheld from consumers, called that "understandable" and said he might do the same if he ran an oil company.

- Disclosed the leaders of all parties to the Middle East conflict will visit him by the end of May, starting with Israel's Premier Yitzhak Rabin March 12 and followed by leaders from Egypt, Jordan, Syria and Saudi Arabia.

- Suggested he might stop production of the B1 bomber if the Soviets demonstrate "a commitment to disarmament."

- Said the world is "disgusted" by the "horrible murders" in Uganda but said there is a fresh worldwide trend toward safeguarding of human rights.

Police must guide delinquency unit: Doney

An antidelinquency community organization aimed at curbing juvenile crime would be good for Mount Prospect, but not without the help of police and social agencies, Police Chief Ralph Doney says.

Doney Wednesday criticized the Northern Cook Civic Committee for ignoring the police department in establishing the group in Mount Prospect. The organization was formed last year by 12 Northwest suburban residents who work directly with the Illinois Commission on Delinquency Prevention to combat juvenile crime in the northern suburbs of Cook County.

"I think it's super," Doney said.

"But if they're going to talk about juveniles and youths in this community, I would think somebody ought to have had the courtesy and decency to contact the police chief."

COMMITTEE PRES. Donald W. Vericiglio, 1205 W. Milburn Ave., Mount Prospect, was not available Wednesday to comment on Doney's remarks. Vericiglio had said, however, two juvenile officers from the Mount Prospect Police Dept. attended the committee's orientation meeting earlier this month. Doney said he sent the police officers to the meeting and asked them to submit a written report on the organization's purpose and goals. The chief, who said he knows nothing about the organization, has not received the report yet.

The nonprofit group is zeroing in on Mount Prospect as a starting point and eventually hopes to build a center where suburban youths can participate in "semi-organized" activities like billiards, table tennis and softball. Doney said the community committee concept is a good one but the organization needs professional guidance. "It's good that the citizens are getting involved," he said. "But they need direction from professional people."

Doney refuted the committee's arguments that psychologists and social workers do not have as good a grasp on community problems as do residents of particular neighborhoods in town.

"HOW DO THEY (committee members) know who the juveniles are?" Doney said. "We probably know of a lot of the kids that need help that they or the courts don't know about."

The Northern Cook Civic Committee works with youths referred by the juvenile court. Doney said police and local youth service agencies, such as Omni-House, Youth Services Bureau, Wheeling, and Youth Services of Mount Prospect, Elk Grove Township could offer helpful suggestions for alternate youth activities, depending on the nature of specific juvenile problems.

Doney agreed with the committee's charter members a delinquency prevention bureau is needed in the suburbs in view of the rising juvenile crime rate. Included among crimes by suburban youths are rape, murder, drug abuse and prostitution.

"It's going up every year," Doney said, "because of the influx of people from the city. We're more heavily populated than we were 10 years ago."

Thaw causes shake-up

Pothole season greets drivers

by LYNN ASINOF

Drivers are going to shake, rattle and roll this spring as the thaw does its job on area roads.

Highway engineers say the record cold winter is going to mean more bumps, potholes, humps and bulges than ever before.

The pothole season is just making its entrance, and already the Cook County Highway Dept. is finding severe road damage, especially at railroad crossings.

"FROM WHAT I have seen, especially at some railroad crossings, the pop up of the pavement has been greater than usual," said Joe Marsik, county chief engineer of maintenance and secondary roads.

Potholes and buckling result when water gets into the pavement or road bed, freezes and expands. Something has to give, usually the road surface.

Bob Holub, maintenance office manager for the state's highway department, said the bitterly cold winter froze the ground to depths of up to six feet instead of the usual 2½, affecting the road subbase, which supports the pavement.

"From the reports I hear, it will be more of a problem than usual," Holub said.

MARSIK SAID THE record low temperatures contributed to the problem by freezing the brine runoff from street salting. He said the brine usually does not freeze, but this year the temperatures were low enough to solidify the salt runoff in pavement cracks.

The full extent of the road damage will not be known until April or May. "We're not going to feel the full damage to the pavement until we have a complete thaw," Marsik said.

Marsik said April rains tend to soften the soil in the road subgrades, reducing support for the roadways. "This is when you have the least soil support," he said. "I think we're going to have really bad conditions then."

The worst problems are expected to develop at railroad tracks, bridges and where there are drainage problems.

"YOU WILL HAVE exceptional damaged pavements where the pavements have not had good maintenance," Marsik said. He said well maintained roads don't allow moisture to seep in.

Both state and county road crews have begun repairing the potholes with cold patch material, only a temporary measure until asphalt plants open this spring.

Local public works directors said they have not noticed an abnormal amount of potholes, but they are watching the weather carefully. The problem will increase with each new freeze and thaw, officials said.

No more 'boy' in Boy Scouts

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (UPI) — The Boy Scouts, caught up in a modern-day identity crisis, are changing the name they were born with 67 years ago.

Bowing to the interests of women and minority groups, the Boy Scouts of America said today the word "boy" is old-fashioned and even offensive to many of its members.

The organization, headquartered here, said it is changing the name to Scouting USA. The new name will appear in advertisements, literature and on calling cards.

"The word 'boy' is objectionable to minorities, our young adult (male and female) leaders," officials said.

Incumbents Edith Freund and Board Pres. Robert Novy, whose terms end this year, have said they will not run again. Both were elected to the board in 1971.

One incumbent entered the race for the four seats in Dist. 59.

AVIS WOLD, 1260 Larchmont Dr., Elk Grove Village, filed for one of the two 3-year positions open on the board. She is seeking her second term.

Four petitions have been issued, but have not yet been filed, officials said. They were issued to incumbent Gerald Smiley, 1156 Cheltenham, Elk Grove Village; incumbent Donald Zommer, 817 Delphia, Elk Grove Village; incumbent Paul Kucharski, 803 Victoria Ln., Arlington Heights, and newcomer Saul Cohen, 312 Dorchester, Elk Grove Village.

Two 3-year seats, one 2-year seat and one 1-year seat are open on the board.

FIVE NEWCOMERS have filed for two 3-year terms in Dist. 21.

The candidates include: Daniel Kafkas, 1103 S. Miller Ln., Buffalo Grove; Linda Kurtzman, 483 Buckeye Rd., Wheeling; Herbert Stein, 915 E.

Burr Oak Dr., Arlington Heights; Stuart Weinstein, 3311 Carriage Way Dr., Arlington Heights; and Ilene Wolf, 845 Thornton Ln., Buffalo Grove.

The two Dist. 21 incumbents whose terms expire in April, Jeremiah Crise and Winfield Boyer, have decided not to seek reelection.

Candidates for the two 3-year positions in Dist. 214 are incumbents Richard Bachhuber, 625 S. Edward, Mount Prospect, who is seeking his fifth term, and John I. Gmitro, 339 S. Windsor, Arlington Heights, who was appointed in September and is seeking his first elected term.

A petition has been issued to Donald McGlothlin, 1047 Carol, Wheeling, but has not been filed, officials said.

SIX CANDIDATES filed petitions Wednesday for three 3-year seats on the Harper College Board of Trustees.

All three incumbents filed for reelection. William Kelly, 317 S. Stratford, Arlington Heights, who had said he was undecided about seeking reelection, made his decision and filed Wednesday. Kelly has served 4½ years on the board.

The other incumbents are Robert Rausch, 400 Firestone Dr., Hoffman Estates and Judith Troehler, 1138A Boxwood Dr., Mount Prospect. Both are seeking their second terms.

Newcomers are Dean Anderson, 1450 Sand Pebble Dr., Wheeling; Jan Bone, 353 N. Morris Dr., Palatine; and David Tomchek, 1174 S. Prairie, Barrington.

Rick Lewis. The play will be performed at 7 p.m. Thursday and 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the school's Kulieke Memorial Theatre, 801 W. Kensington, Mount Prospect. Tickets are $1.50 Thursday and $2 Friday and Saturday.

With songs, speeches

Estonians to mark independence

by DEBBIE JONAK

Enno Toomsalu knew Estonia when it was free, before it was swallowed by the western boundaries of the Soviet Union.

In that memory and in hope for the future, he and hundreds of other Estonian immigrants will celebrate their country's Independence Day Saturday with songs and speeches at the Chicago Estonian House, Estonian Lane in Prairie View.

They will tell the story of their homeland's long years of struggling for independence, its final triumph after World War I, then its crushing defeat after World War II.

THEY WILL WARN against communism. And they will talk about tomorrow.

"Everybody's working towards it and hoping one day Estonia will be free," Toomsalu said. He escaped Estonia in 1944, when he was 18 years old. He now is an engineer for Underwriters Laboratories and resides in Mount Prospect.

The older generation, which won freedom for Toomsalu's generation, may not expect to see a free Estonia again in their lifetime. But the wounds of their defeat hurt less with the knowledge their descendants will not give up.

"This is especially for the older people," Toomsalu said of the Independence Day observance. "The older people can look at the younger people still carrying it on, which instills hope in them that Estonia will be free."

ESTONIA IS THE northernmost of the Baltic countries, situated on the western shores of the Baltic Sea. About 1.2 million persons inhabited 18,000 square miles before World War II.

Toomsalu did not know how many live in the country now, because the Soviets are trying to dilute its population with Russian people.

Estonia has a history of captivity. The Germans were the first successful invaders, enslaving the Estonians in the 13th century. Two centuries later, the country was attacked by Russians, Poles and Swedes.

Russia defeated the Swedes in 1710, ruling the land until 1918. In that year, the Independent Republic of Estonia was formed.

TOOMSALU WAS born in 1939 and grew up with little worry of the Russian threat. But in 1939, the Soviet Army occupied Estonia, followed by Hitler's Wehrmacht and finally, in 1944, by the Soviets.

"We didn't believe something like this could happen," Toomsalu said, explaining his generation took freedom for granted.

But his parents' generation did not. Many committed suicide when the Russians invaded, he said. Others were shot, imprisoned or shipped to Siberia.

More than 70,000 Estonians fled the country to Western Europe in 1944. In the late 1940s and early 1950s, 25,000 of those emigrated to the United States.

THEY CANNOT go back even to visit Estonia until it is free.

"They consider it a crime that I escaped from them," Toomsalu said.

To assuage their longings for the small villages they left behind in the "Land of the White Midsummer Nights," 400 area Estonian families gather together on weekends and special occasions at the Estonian House.

"Although we associate with our neighbors, the best friends and best times we ever have is with our Estonian friends," he said.

A VERY MUSICAL people, they have choral and dance groups and programs at the house. They also have drama productions, bridge parties and Estonian classes.

They consider themselves American citizens now, but refuse to forget their background, Toomsalu said. If Estonians were freed, he said he would not return until retirement, unless there was a shortage of engineers.

"I have a profession here, I went to school and got a college education here," he said.

But the Estonians will fight for their country by warning the free world against communism, he said.

THEY ALSO WARN their children, while attempting to instill in them Estonian pride and tradition.

"We feel it's very important the younger children know about the old country of their parents," he said. "If Estonia is free sometime, the children will be curious enough to go visit."

Or maybe even stay, using their talents to build up Estonia once more, he added.

Pizza vendor rides crust of success on CB waves

by DAVE IBATA

If the adage is true — that to succeed in a competitive field a new business needs a gimmick — a 23-year-old Arlington Heights man has found one that clicks for the pizza trade: Citizens' Band radio.

"My CB radio has helped business an awful lot," said Mark Evenson, proprietor and sole employee of the Village Inn Pizza restaurant, 19 N. Vail Ave., Arlington Heights.

"I would say about 65 per cent of my business is CBers," he said. "It might have taken an awful lot longer to get this far without the CB."

Evenson describes himself as a "CB fanatic," a man who keeps a microphone on the counter of his carry-out restaurant. His portable CB radio goes wherever he goes — to work, in his car, even beside his bed at home.

"ACTUALLY, IT'S MY only social life right now because of the hours I work," said Evenson, who is single. One can find him at the eatery, slapping together hoagies and shoving pizzas into his ovens, up to 14 hours a day.

Evenson set up his business in downtown Arlington Heights in July 1976 after spending $18,000 remodeling. He specializes in pizzas and submarine sandwiches. He has more than enough competition in the Northwest suburbs.

Prospects for success, at best, looked marginal — until he discovered CB radio in August.

"A lady and her husband came in one night and told me about all the people on Channel 20," he said.

"All the people" — all 115 of them — call themselves the DUM, or "Dynamic United Modulators" Club. They pride themselves on a major difference between themselves and other CBers: they don't use "trucker" slang," the "10-4 Good Buddy" lingo of the stereotype CBer.

DUM operates in and around Arlington Heights and has staked out CB Channel 20 as its semexclusive domain.

EVENSON JOINED the club, purchased a 23-channel CB radio and base station equipment and picked a "handle," or radio nickname: "Dominick Dicer," or "Double D." Shortly after he went on the air, word of his eatery spread over the airwaves.

"They (fellow CBers) suggested I could take orders on the radio," he said. "Basically, the people I'd take orders from mostly are people in the club."

Evenson said, "Most of the time I use it (the radio) for racket-jawing. I never advertise myself."

Today Evenson has a dependable flow of CBing customers. CBers stop at his shop on their way to and from work to pick up something to eat and high school CBers rendezvous at his store on weekends to grab a bite before heading out for a night of cruising.

Village Town even offers a "CB Special" sandwich — corned beef dipped in boiling beer on a sourdough roll or rye bread with cheese and dressing.

HOWEVER, EVENSON said, "I got the name way before I got into CB radio. It was one of the original sandwiches I started off with. The CB stands for 'corned beef'."

Evenson does his CBing between 11 a.m., when he opens his shop, until about 5 p.m., when he often stops talking because his radio transmissions leak over into television owned by apartment tenants, he said.

"Sometimes we'll talk a little bit at night, and then get calls from people upstairs asking me to turn off my radio," he said.

After prime time, the radio comes back on, and stays on until Evenson closes the store — midnights on weekdays, and 1 a.m. Fridays and Saturdays. The radio then moves to his car, and from there, into his bedroom, where Evenson has a base station set up on his nightstand.

"Sometimes I fall asleep with the radio going," he said.

WITH THE HELP of his fellow CBers, and any other customer who drops by, Evenson said he hopes to cross the ledger line from red to black.

"If business does go as well as we anticipate, it's a possibility we might open up another store," Evenson said. He added, "But I would say the odds are against it now."

"Hopefully, we'll stick around," he said — doubtlessly with both his restaurant and his CB club in mind.

Dist. 59 schools to decide busing

Any proposal to bus inner city black students to Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 schools will have to be decided by individual schools.

The Dist. 59 Board of Education, by a 5-0 vote with one absent and one abstention, Monday directed Supt. Roger Bardwell to inform Illinois Schools Supt. Joseph Cronin that "any voluntary busing plan has to be community initiated on an individual school basis."

Board member David Zommer was absent and board member Paul Kucharski abstained.

"IF I VOTE for it, I'm labeled pro busing. If I vote against I'm accused of being bigoted," Kucharski said. "I don't want any part of it."

Board Pres. Judith Zanca said a board statement on busing was necessary to dispel rumors that a deal had been made between Cronin and Bardwell on the proposed Elk Grove Township unit school district.

A statement would "divorce the unit district from Cronin's voluntary busing plan," she said.

"I don't think the statement answers the question of whether or not a deal was made," Kucharski said after the meeting.

QUESTIONS AND concerns of district residents over reports that Bardwell had met with Cronin and other area superintendents to discuss busing plans led to the board's statement, Mrs. Zanca said.

"This is a statement of where the board is at now," she said. "We're not closing the door to any community in the district that wants to pursue this in the future."

Bardwell said the threat of court-mandated busing still hangs over the district.

"If we don't have a well thought out, well sounded out plan in the Chicago area in a year or so, it can be mandated by the courts," he said.

Bardwell said Cronin has been calling informal meetings on the topic of busing because of the threat that Chicago could lose $600 million in state aid and $150 million in federal funds if its schools are not desegregated.

Bardwell said Cronin does not have a specific plan to propose but is sounding out school officials to find out what types of plans would be acceptable by their communities.

City's request for water denied by Wheeling board

Prospect Heights' request to Wheeling for water for the northern section of the city has been rejected by the Wheeling Village Board.

The village board Tuesday denied the request from Prospect Heights Mayor Richard Wolf after Larry Oppenheimer, village public works director, said the village water distribution and storage system is inadequate to supply the city.

Wolf said the request for water "precipitated from a litigation discussion" about a disannexation suit filed against Prospect Heights by the owners of 80 acres at Schoenbeck and Hintz roads.

Prospect Heights is attempting to negotiate a settlement with residents who wish to disannex so they can hook into the Wheeling water supply. If Wheeling agrees to provide water to Prospect Heights, the dispute could be resolved.

PROSPECT HEIGHTS, which incorporated in January 1976, has no municipal water system. Most residents have private, shallow wells.

Village Atty. John Burke said Wheeling trustees passed a resolution in the 1960s prohibiting contracts for water services with unincorporated areas. Burke said trustees could overrule the resolution, but "I don't know if the village wants to undertake this kind of thing."

"If you start supplying water to one area, then you'll start having lines all over," he said.

Trustee John Cole said he can't see supplying water to Prospect Heights when the village has experienced a water shortage.

"We just went through a water shortage this summer where we couldn't water our lawns or wash our cars. As long as there's the possibility of another shortage, I can't see selling water on top of it," he said.

Garland, Shanahan in bombing case

Two employees of Mount Prospect's Building and Zoning Dept. have been named to head groups involved in establishing state and local construction codes.

Jerry Garland, electrical inspector, has been elected chairman of the executive board of the Illinois Chapter of the International Assn. of Electrical Inspectors. Garland, a member of the organization for 12 years, has been employed with the village since 1975.

Patrick Shanahan, deputy director of the village building and zoning department, has been named chairman of the code change committee of the Suburban Building Officials Conference.

Shanahan will be updating codes relating to one- and two-family dwellings used in approximately 150 municipalities in the eight-county Chicago area.

Brother Louie is committed to a good life

by MARY DIETER

Until Fannie died Louis Roncoli had everything he wanted.

He never was bored or lonely for a minute. He had a "very wonderful marriage," he says, and a successful business in New Jersey.

But when Fannie died in August 1969, all that changed. He enjoyed his job and his privacy, but his wife's death left an emptiness that took three years to fill.

"COMMITMENTS HAVE been sacred in my life," he says. "When one commitment you make is terminated, you can make another."

He tried volunteer work at a New York hospital for terminally ill cancer patients. He even planned to retire from the manufacturing company that he owned to do charity work full-time.

But three years of living alone showed him it was time to find something else. So, at 62, Roncoli decided to join a religious order.

Five years later, Roncoli is known as Brother Louie, an administrative assistant at Alexian Brothers Medical Center in Elk Grove Village.

"IT'S A DEFINITE advantage, having seen both worlds," Brother Louie says. "It makes me appreciate the problems and the good things outside."

He's a short man, with thinning gray hair, and he says he often surprises people when he tells them of his short tenure with the order.

"It throws them as soon as I tell them I haven't been around for 50 years," he says in his gravelly New York accent.

"The trend is that the order is looking for more mature people to go into religious life," he adds. "Then you give them time to really appreciate if this is what they want."

BROTHER LOUIE made his decision in 1972 when he entered an associates' program in Elizabeth, N. J.

"I've always been religiously in-

Voter registrations slated March 12, 19

Two special voter registration days have been scheduled March 12 and 19 at the Mount Prospect Village Hall, 100 S. Emerson St., from 9 a.m. to noon.

The Saturday registration session will be in the finance department on the main floor.

To be eligible to vote in the April 19 municipal election, residents must register by March 21. Residents must be U.S. citizens, at least 18 years old and living in Mount Prospect at least 30 days prior to the election.

Naturalized citizens who want to vote must provide the clerk with name and location of the court and the date of naturalization.

Residents can register to vote during the week at the clerk's office, open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For further information, call 302-6000.

City council wrapup

Builder's housing plan rejected

Prospect Heights has refused to issue building permits to a local developer because his project would violate the city's proposed zoning ordinance.

Anthony Calabrese, 415 Willow Rd., threatened to take the city to court after the council Monday rejected his request to build six single-family houses on Marion Street, west of Schoenbeck Road and south of Willow Road.

The houses would have lots less than the 20,000 square feet required in the proposed zoning law. Last month the council declared a moratorium on all building construction that would violate the proposed law.

Calabrese said his lots are 13,800 to 17,000 square feet and were approved by the Cook County Board in 1972, before Prospect Heights incorporated.

The council directed City Atty. Donald Kregler to come back at the March 7 meeting with a list of options it has in dealing with cases that do not meet all zoning law standards.

A public hearing to review Prospect Heights' proposed zoning ordinance scheduled for 7:30 p.m. March 14 at the Gary Morava Recreation Center, 110 W. Camp McDonald Road.

The meeting will be continued at 9 a.m. March 19, 7:30 p.m. March 24 and 9 a.m. March 26.

Group to check new city hall site

A search for a new Prospect Heights city hall site will be conducted by the city council's environmental and community development committee.

Although there are no immediate plans to move city hall from its present location, the council should be prepared with alternate sites when more room is needed, Mayor Richard Wolf said.

Eventually the building department and all city departments should be in the same building, he said, adding more room will be needed when the administrative staff expands.

He said earlier a city manager and additional clerical help may be added within a year.

The city rents space from the Prospect Heights Park District at 13 Prospect Ct.

clined throughout my life," he says. "And I just couldn't see myself living with someone else."

He has taken "simple vows" each year since 1974, which allow him to leave the order if he chooses, but Brother Louie said he's there to stay. "Actually, I made life vows the minute I entered," he says.

THE NEW LIFE has taken him from his private apartment to sharing a house with 100 other brothers and his new job has made him "busier than I've ever been in my life."

Beside his administrative work, he's involved in money raising for the hospital, the hospital's auxiliary, the volunteer program, the hospital board of trustees and six committees.

But other than that, things are pretty much the same.

"My life hasn't changed one iota since coming to the brothers," he says.

MEMORIES STILL remain vivid, he says, memories of former jobs and especially of Fannie, "a terrific person."

"I guess that's why I miss her so much. I don't think I could ever put a marriage together like that again," he says, adding quickly, "and I'm not trying to."

"I'm very happy with my decision," Brother Louie adds. Again, he has everything he wants.
